

PRESIDENT PLANS TO GIVE OPPORTUNITY FOR BUSINESS BOOM

Will Not Call Extra Session of Congress or Suggest an Extended Legislative Program.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President Wilson, desirous of giving business every possible opportunity to develop the boom which he feels certain is coming, will not call an extra session of Congress, which was his purpose in the event that body passing to Republican control as the result of Tuesday's elections. He does not contemplate writing more than an extremely brief message for presentation to the national lawmaking body when it reassembles for the short session next month, now that continued ascendancy of the Democrats in the House and undisturbed control of the Senate of the 6th Congress are assured.

Neither does the President expect any lengthy program of legislation to be enacted before March 4 next, when the short session adjourns. It can be stated on the highest authority there will be no extra session following that date, no matter what legislation is left unfinished.

Relieved of the necessity of calling an extra session, Mr. Wilson is planning to "take it easy" for the next month. He will remain in Washington, but will give his attention only to the foreign problems confronting the Administration, especially the complex questions of contraband which have arisen between the United States and Great Britain.

The President does not anticipate writing more than an extremely brief message to present to Congress next December 8.

The President, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Tumulty again today undertook a careful analysis of Tuesday's election returns. Belated information from many States continued to pour in on the White House. Among these was a dispatch from the chairman of the Democratic State committee in Nevada, claiming the re-election of Senator Francis G. Newlands.

President Wilson and his advisers appeared entirely cheerful over the situation, and Secretary Tumulty declared the situation was altogether satisfactory. The President believes that the Administration will be found to have a working majority of more than 25 in the House when all the returns have been received.

The Republican Congressional campaign headquarters here today was notified that the Ohio District, which had been conceded to the Democrats, had elected, W. C. Mooney, Republican, to Congress.

Chairman Lockhart, of the Republican State Committee of South Dakota, wired the committee that E. S. Johnson, Democrat, had defeated Representative C. H. Jurke for the United States Senatorship from that State, and that Harry Gandy, Democrat, had won the seat of W. G. Rice, Republican, for Congress.

No returns were available from the districts in Kansas still in doubt. There also was no news at Republican headquarters on the senatorial contests in Kansas, Colorado and Nevada.

BOSTON GIRL GOES TO WAR FRONT INSTEAD OF ALTAR Banker Won't Deny Her Engagement Is Broken.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Relative of Miss Elele Burr, daughter of I. Burr, a banker, who suddenly called for Europe as a Red Cross nurse to help care for the wounded in the French army, would neither affirm nor deny today that she went away because her engagement to John Templeton Condit, Jr., South African big game hunter and Harvard man, had been broken.

"Will you deny that the engagement is broken?" she was asked. "I will not deny it," he replied. The announcement of the engagement was made some time ago, and that the wedding had been virtually completed, Society expected it to take place last month.

CHILDREN'S CORNER BEFORE THE SANDMAN COMES

ONCE upon a time, a beautiful fairy queen lived in the centre of a great dark forest. Through the forest ran a brook and by this brook was the fairy queen's home. Her palace was made of the tall lily leaves and the turquoise towers were made of the tall white lily blooms that stuck their heads out of the water and stood high above the green leaves.

You would think that any fairy, living in a home like that, would be perfectly happy, but this fairy wasn't—she wasn't even happy a little bit, because she was always thinking of the things she didn't have! And that's no way to be happy—no way at all!

When the soft cool breezes of night came and whispered to her, instead of listening to them and hearing their message, she said grumblingly, "Oh, I don't want to talk to you, go away! I want to talk to the morning breezes now."

When the cool rain drops splattered on her forehead she never turned up her face and drank in their freshness as the other fairy queens did. She shut herself up tight in her palace and fretted for the sunshine.

And then when the sunshine did come, she was so hot and thirsty that she grumbled and wished for rain! Of course, that is no way to be happy.

LOCAL OPTION SETBACK IN OHIO ELECTION RESULT

Brewers' "Home Rule" Amendment to Constitution Wins by 30,000.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—Not only did Ohio vote down state-wide prohibition in Tuesday's election, but the nearly complete returns from all counties today showed that the voters had gone a step further in the expression of liberal views and written into the Constitution by a majority of at least 30,000 the brewers' home rule amendment.

This amendment abolishes the Rose County local option law, in effect six years, and opens to saloons 64 counties which had been voted dry under the county option measure. This brings back into the wet column half the State which had been left to the saloon interests. The unit of local option under the new amendment is to the city, village or township.

Such municipalities or sections of them which have voted dry under municipal option laws will remain dry, but towns whose saloons were ousted by counties voting as a whole will be subject to the reopening of bars as soon as the Licensing Committee of the State can make arrangements.

DREADNOUGHTS FAIL TO LURE THE BRITISH TO GERMAN WATERS

English Fleet Dodges Trap Designed to Pick Off Pursuing Warships, One by One.

LONDON, Nov. 5. That four German dreadnoughts and four German cruisers took part in Tuesday's engagement off the east coast of England is confirmed by the crew of the steam drifter Garrigill. According to the skipper of the drifter the German ships appeared through the mist about 15 miles east-northeast of Lowestoft at 7 o'clock in the morning. The firing at the British cruiser Halcyon lasted 15 minutes.

The skipper also says that two British submarines, in addition to the D-5, which was sunk by striking a mine, pursued the Germans.

Next to the Turkish situation, the appearance of German warships off the coast of England is causing most of the discussion in this country today. There is a disposition among naval men to believe that no serious raid was intended, but that the Germans hoped to induce British warships to follow them, and by laying mines as they retired, to catch some of the bigger ships, as they did the submarine D-5.

Telegraphing from Yarmouth regarding the raid made by the German squadron in the North Sea, the correspondent of the Times says:

"The fight was so close to the shore some of the shells dropped within a mile of the beach, one exploding within a few hundred yards of the naval air station on the south side of Yarmouth."

U. S. SHOULD PROTEST TO GERMANY, SAYS BACON

Invasion of Belgium Broke Treaty With Us, He Holds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Before sailing for Europe yesterday on the Lusitania, Robert Bacon, ex-Secretary of State, later Ambassador to France and now partner of J. P. Morgan, said:

"With the treaties between England, France and Germany respecting Belgian neutrality we have no diplomatic connection. But in the Hague Convention we have a real and intimate concern. That convention was signed by the United States and signed and ratified by Germany and the United States.

"In admittedly violating that convention, Germany broke a treaty solemnly made with the United States. "The Hague convention is to become 'scraps of paper' without protest from this Government? If the treaties made at the Hague are to be so lightly regarded then why not all other treaties? It is our solemn duty to protest against a violation of pledges formally entered into between this Government and any other Government, and we assume a heavy moral responsibility when we remain silent."

CHICAGO MEN TO TAKE COURSE IN JANITOROLOGY

New "College" Opens Under Auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—And now Chicago is to have "high school janitors"—tutored men boasting degrees, diplomas and the like, as proof of graduation in the art of "firing up when it's cold," sweeping dustlessly and doing it all noiselessly.

Chicago's college of janitorology was opened up last night under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The curriculum has already been determined—every apartment dweller can guess it, but there are a few professorships still open.

The question of whether there shall be secret societies or Greek letter fraternities is one which the school management is going to leave wholly in the hands of the student body.

Arthur L. Ward, educational director of the Y. M. C. A., is on the trail of a master in sweeping who can lead the classes in broom drills designed to eliminate the germ distribution from that process.

And not only will the class pins worn by the janitors of the future mean uniform heat in accordance with weather and sanitary according to Mrs. Tenant may gaze upon that pin and forget her fears for the mahogany piano soon to be moved.

There is a class on the "proper way to handle furniture," and the instructor pledged himself to instruct his pupils against the general practice of striving to knock corners of walls and doors off hinges when moving polished furniture. In the course of which the instructor window washing and scrubbing," there is also hope for forlorn tenants. The management of the school has decided against the plan of taking the class to different apartment houses for practical instruction.

BRITISH RESERVE STRENGTH HURLED AGAINST GERMANS

Kaiser, Unable to Win Before, Now Faces Stupendous Task Against Added Territorials, Says Expert.

By J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The admission by the British War Office that the London Scottish Regiment is now on the firing line in Belgium means the immense reserve strength of the British Empire is coming into effective use. The London Scottish is the first Territorial regiment that has joined the British expeditionary force on the Continent. The Territorial army of England corresponds to America's National Guard.

When war began Lord Kitchener decided to rush the Territorials to the Continent, although the need for men was great. He decided that the citizen army needed several months' continuous training to develop its efficiency. This stage in the development of the conflict has been regarded as a decisive one for the German hopes. If the German General Staff could not win a great victory before the reserve strength began to appear the advantage the Allies would possess has seemed to be unmistakable. No such victory has been gained, and the first British Territorial regiment has arrived at the front. Henceforth, presumably, there will be a continuous increase of Great Britain's military strength on the Continent. The pressure of these reinforcements should soon exert great influence on the Franco-Belgian campaign.

The defeat of the three British cruisers and a supply ship by five German cruisers off the Chilian coast demonstrates the hopelessness of a greatly inferior force attacking a superior power at sea. It shows how hazardous would be an offer of battle by the German high sea fleet safely resting in home harbors. The German preponderance in the Chilian battle is not adequately represented by the proportion of five to three. The German heavy armament aggregated 16 8.2-inch guns, 12 5.9-inch guns and 30 4.1-inch guns. The British vessels had 9 9.2-inch guns and 22 5.9-inch guns. With anything like equal efficiency this difference in armament, particularly that between 16 8.2-inch rifles and two 9.2-inch guns, must have resulted in success for the Germans.

Chief credit for the victory is in the naval strategy that brought it about. How the British squadron came to be in such inferior strength, in the first instance, and why it permitted itself to be inveigled into a fight with so superior a force, in the second place, are disturbing queries for the British Admiralty.

NEWSPAPERS AID SCIENCE

Physician Praises Spreading of Medical Announcements.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4.—With the statement that the mightiest of medicines is the press, Dr. L. K. Ehrhberg, President of the American Association for Clinical Research, opened the sixth annual convention of that organization today. The sessions will last for three days. "The press, as it is shown in the instance of the radium and the Friedman flasco, does more good when it spreads at first hand all medical announcements, good, bad and indifferent, than when it withholds news by virtue of a secret agreement with some self-appointed medical committee or society," Doctor Ehrhberg declared.

It's "Greater Richmond" Now RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 4.—This capital of the "Old South" today became greater Richmond. By annexation of adjacent Henrico County land the city limits were extended and the prefix of "Greater" will hereafter be used by all boosting commercial organizations.

Of the suits, a hundred and fifty out of our own stocks have just been repriced at $25. There are probably twenty-five styles in the lot --- broadcloths, serges, diagonals, poplins and so on; plain or trimmed with velvet and fur-cloth; browns, greens, plum shades, navy and black. One hundred suits are specially priced at $15---the work of a man who specializes in the simpler things and can be depended on to turn out the most quality for the money.

Fifty afternoon and evening dresses newly reduced to $15. A group as full of interest as it is miscellaneous---and nothing the matter with it but the fact that the dresses have been here too long.

AND OTHER GOWNS AT $25---on a little rack in one of the Gray Salons. These need a stitch here and some new chiffon there or a good pressing.
