

$3,000,000 SPENT IN CAMPAIGN ENDED BY TUESDAY'S VOTE

Election of Senator, Governor and Other State Officers Cost About $3 for Every Ballot

It cost approximately $3,000,000 to elect a United States Senator, Governor and other State officers, Congressmen, a Legislature and two Judges in Pennsylvania last Tuesday. The cost in Philadelphia alone was about $750,000.

In other words, it cost an average of $3 for every man who cast a ballot. Recapitulated, the cost was about 40 cents for every man, woman and child in Pennsylvania.

It was the most expensive election held in this State in the memory of the present generation of voters. The cost of nominating the candidates at the primary election last May was only a small part of the total cost and did not exceed $600,000. Of this amount the State paid approximately $400,000 as pay for election judges and for printing the ballots, rental of polling places, advertising places, advertising, computing the results and minor expenses. The remainder was the cost to the individual candidates, to the organizations and committees that supported them and to the regular State and city committees of the various political parties.

The Pennsylvania Protective Union, an organization of manufacturers, and the brewers' and liquor dealers' association, which supported the candidacy of Senator Penrose, expended most of the remaining $200,000. Chester W. Hill, secretary of the Protective Union, has asserted that the organization spent only $10,000 in the primary campaign, but Democratic and Washington party leaders have claimed that the manufacturers spent $20,000. The brewers and liquor dealers, Democratic and Washington party leaders estimated, spent more than $100,000 in the primary election.

EXPENSES OF POLITICAL PARTIES. The State and City Committees of the Republican, Democratic and Washington parties spent only a few thousand. The leading candidates, according to the expense accounts they filed, spent in round numbers: Penrose, $15,000; Palmer, $2500; Pinchot, $10,000; McCormick, $35,000; Brumbaugh, $3000; Dimmick, $12,000.

The cost to the counties for the general election last Tuesday will be about the same as the cost to the State for holding the primaries, $400,000. The remaining $1,600,000 includes the money put into the campaign by the manufacturers, brewers and liquor dealers of Pennsylvania, and by the candidates themselves. This money went to pay the legitimate expenses, such as advertising, housing, traveling, printing, circulars and other campaign literature, traveling expenses, the cost of maintaining headquarters, and the like, but by far the greater part of it went to pay "workers," both at the polls and previous to the election.

These "workers" received anywhere from $2 to $150 a week. The Democratic and Washington party leaders have asserted that the Republican organization had at least one, and in some instances five, "workers" in every legislative district, 6000 election divisions in Pennsylvania. The Democratic organization had "workers" only in the Republican strongholds, while the Washington party spent very little money for this service.

Early in the campaign the brewers and liquor dealers of Pennsylvania pledged $1,000,000 to fight local option. They spent money mostly in the legislative districts.

Democratic leaders have asserted that the manufacturers of the State, through the Pennsylvania Protective Union, put $200,000 into the campaign. They concentrated their fight behind Senator Penrose and the Congressional candidates who stood for protective tariff. They maintained a costly organization in every county.

The Republican, Democratic and Washington party State and City Committees spent close to $150,000, raised by assessment of office holders, and of interests which would be benefited through the election of the various candidates.

The candidates themselves, and organizations which supported the candidates personally, put up the remaining $500,000. By far the greater part of this amount was spent by Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic and Washington party fusion candidate for Governor, who financed, to a great extent, the Democratic campaign in the State. Republican leaders asserted that he personally spent more than $100,000 in his campaign.

Senator Penrose's political campaign estimated spent $50,000, which Governor Pinchot, who spent more money than any other individual or organization of the Washington party, spent almost the same amount.

Doctor Brumbaugh, through the Brumbaugh Citizens' Committee, conducted one of the least costly of the campaigns. His campaign cost more than $20,000, which was spent on his personal expenses, such as distributing campaign literature, maintaining headquarters, traveling and minor personal expenses.

Each of the four candidates for Judge, in round figures, from $2000 to $5000. The candidates for Congress spent similar amounts, while the small army of candidates for the Legislature spent from $50 to $2000 each.

The Anti-Saloon League, which was the principal organization outside of the regular political bodies which made the local option fight, spent about $15,000, chiefly for distributing literature.

The cost in Philadelphia was greater than in any other city in Pennsylvania. Large sums were spent, however, in Allegheny County and in the anthracite region. In Philadelphia the cost to the State for the primary election was about $150,000, and the cost to the county, which pays the expenses of the general election, was about the same, making the total cost to the taxpayers about $300,000. The rest of the $150,000 that was spent here went for "workers," party watchers at the polls, and other "incidental" expenses.

The Republicans and the manufacturers spent a large amount, but the largest sums were spent here by the liquor interests, Democratic and Washington party leaders have asserted. There was not a division in Philadelphia in which a costly organization was not maintained all during the election. The reorganization Democratic placed "workers" and watchers in many divisions, and the Old Guard Democrats spent about $10,000. A large part of the money spent by the Republican organization, the Democratic leaders have alleged, was spent in the Democratic and independent wards, all of which were carried by the Republicans. The Washington party, and in some of the wards, the Democrats depended upon volunteer "workers" and watchers.

Miller's Plurality Is 2251
WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7.—The official count of the vote in Delaware on Tuesday gives Thomas W. Miller, Republican candidate for Congressman, a plurality of 2251 instead of 1500, as had been reported to him.

STRIKING WATER COLORS HUNG AT FINE ARTS ACADEMY'S EXHIBITION

RIVAL OF "MAN WHO DOES EVERYTHING" ENTERTAINING

Sings, Dances, Juggles and Orates at Week-end in Police Station.

A little man, who said his home was a whole row of houses on Front street, walked into the 3d and Christian streets police station today and complained about two youths who had tried to lure him into a saloon. His name was Michael Ford, he said.

"Where do you live?" asked the sergeant.

"In a row of houses on Front street," Ford answered, "pretty good, I am."

The sergeant said he guessed he must be and the other policeman edged closer.

Encouraged, Ford gave them a little talk on the war and the great things he had done in the world. Then he danced a fast step and sang. By that time he had a large audience. A juggling exhibition followed. Ford balanced a dented hat on his nose for two minutes, sang a song, did two more dances and slipped exhausted into a chair.

"Perhaps," said the sergeant hospitably, "you'd like to spend the week-end with us here. We can give you the best service and security against burglars."

The invitation pleased Ford, so he stayed.

GOVERNOR TENER'S FAVORS

Several Important Appointments Expected Within a Month.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 7.—Within the next month, if present plans are not upset, Governor Tener will make a long list of appointments to his service.

Judge George Kunkel, if defeated for the Supreme Court, will be appointed to succeed Justice Stewart, whose resignation has been served by delaying appointment.

Speaker George E. Alter, of Pittsburgh, who was not a candidate for re-election to the House, will be named to succeed Judge Frazer on the Allegheny County bench.

William M. Hargest has the lead for the successor of Judge Kunkel on the Dauphin County bench. Mr. Hargest is now Deputy Attorney General.

There is no reasonable doubt about the action in the first two cases. There is, however, strong opposition to Mr. Hargest for the Dauphin County selection.

Ex-Senator Fox and ex-District Attorney John Fox Deiss are being promoted by the bar for the place of Hargest is opposed because of his political activities.

The latter, however, as a member of the Governor's Cabinet, seems to have the lead. If he is appointed there will be an intense fight against him in the non-partisan primary next year.

Governor Tener, now that the election is over, and apparently all political interests have been quieted, is expected to fill the vacancies existing in the Municipal Court in Philadelphia, in the Common Pleas Court in Montgomery County and in the Public Service Commission.

POLICEMEN PROMOTED

Director of Public Safety Porter Announces Advancements.

Reserve Policeman Corson Cleaver, Jr., the tallest man in the Police Department, was promoted today by Director of Safety Porter at Central Station. He will be assigned to the 3d and Dickinson streets station.

Policeman Cleaver is six feet six inches tall in his stockings. He has been detailed as clerk in Central station the last two years. He entered the service in 1908.

Director Porter announced these promotions: Patrol Sergeant James B. Conlin, 25th and Fitzwater street station, street sergeant at the 3d street and Fairmount avenue station.

Special Policeman W. O'Neil, 11th and Winter streets station, whose sergeant at the 12th and Pine streets station. He has been detailed as acting detective in the Detective Bureau.

Motorcycle Policeman William F. Chin, whose sergeant at the 30th and Fitzwater streets station and detailed to the motorcycle squad.

Special Policeman Herbert F. Krontz, detailed at the Belgrade avenue and Clearfield street station since 1897, whose sergeant at the Tacony station.

N. C. Wyeth's "The Black Dragon," warmly praised, is shown at top right.

At the left is seen Lillian Westcott Hall's "Floretta," an unusual subject. The bottom picture is "The Pink Scarf," by Elsie Dodge Pattee. The work of water-color experts from all over the country is represented at the exhibition.

ACADEMY'S WATER COLOR SHOW HAS STRIKING GROUP

Well-known Artists and Illustrators Contributors to Annual Exhibit Open to Public Tomorrow.

The annual exhibit of water colors and miniatures of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts will be held in the galleries of the Academy, Broad and Cherry streets, beginning tomorrow. A private view of the works was given today.

The pictures occupy about two-thirds of the wall space usually assigned to the exhibit of oils. The arrangement of the pictures in the various galleries has been carefully made to present a high degree of harmony. One wall has been devoted to 28 water colors by Charles E. Dana, whose interest in the Water Color Society was very great. Other artists are represented by smaller groups of pictures.

In the first gallery there is a group of unusual pastels, in discreet colors, by McClure Hamilton. There is also a series of exquisite line drawings by Charles Grafly, who is doing the "Pioneer Woman" for the Panama Exposition, where Mr. Hamilton's group will be sent.

The familiar style of Jesse Wilcox Smith's child studies is represented by three pictures, and more in the line of high-class magazine illustration there are five works by N. C. Wyeth, among which the "Opium Smoker," representing an Oriental holding the pipe to an American's lips, is particularly striking. "The Black Dragon," also by Wyeth, is done in his best manner.

For the very advanced taste there are pictures by Marin at David Milne, and for the lovers of lithographs there are some fine examples of Joseph Pennell's work.

Two pictures which are more than likely to be discussed apart from the merits of their workmanship are the "Circle," by Eleanor Abbott, and the "Young Diana," of William J. Bar. The latter is a very beautiful nude.

Among the portraits of women two of the loveliest in both line and color are "Floretta," by Lillian Westcott Hall and "The Pink Scarf," by Elsie Dodge Pattee. The miniatures occupy a room by themselves. Many of them are devoted to children's heads. Among them the portraits of "Baby," "Junior," "Frances" and "Baby" seem particularly noteworthy.

FANCY LED TO SUICIDE

James Doran Believed He Suffered Business Reverses.

Arrangements are made being made today for the funeral of James Doran, 48 years old, Ardmore, Pa., who, it is thought, ended his life because of fancied business troubles.

The man lived with his daughter, Miss Ellen Doran, on Campbell avenue. He was killed by a gas stove which was exploded yesterday. He died while being taken to Bryn Mawr Hospital.

Doran was interested in a real estate development company which was improving property near Ocean City, Md.

LADIES' 14 KT. GOLD WATCHES

You will not find elsewhere such a varied selection of Ladies' Watches as are shown here. Our watches are not only unusual in design but noted for durability.

C. R. Smith & Son Market St. at 18th

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS SEE MERCURY PASS SUN'S DISC

250 Juniors and Seniors Make Observations Through Telescopes.

The passage of Mercury across the disc of the sun was observed by 250 students of the junior and senior classes at Central School today. They climbed to the roof where two telescopes, a six-inch and an eight-inch, equipped with blue glasses, had been mounted for the occasion by Dr. Monroe B. Snyder, head of the mathematical and astronomical department.

Conditions were poor for observation, but for a time the transit of the planet was visible. The planet was a black speck against the disc of the sun. Mercury entered the field of the sun at 4:37 a. m. and passed off at 9:10, when a terrestrial fog, much like the eclipse fogs, obscured the view.

Mercury passes between the earth and the sun about 13 times every century, the last time being in November, 1907. The next transit will be in May, 1924.

The transit takes place generally in the early part of November, there being about twice as many in the latter month as in May. This is because Mercury's least distance from the sun falls near the November nodes, or point where the orbit crosses the ecliptic.

Mercury's diameter is 3030 miles, and its distance from the sun varies from 28,500,000 to 43,500,000 miles. Its year is about eighty-eight days.

JACK LONDON'S CO. SUED

Author Among Directors of Grape Juice Concern Accused by Stockholder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Jack London, author, and other directors of the Jack London Grape Juice Company, are defendants here today in a $31,250 suit brought by H. W. Bentley, on the ground they defrauded him of that amount by dissolving the corporation and queuing him out.

He alleges the company was incorporated last July with $250,000 capital stock, and that he was given stock worth $31,250 for services in bringing about the organization. The directors of the old company terminated its charter on September 15 and formed a new company, wiping out his holdings, he says.

DOCTOR WHITE'S RELIEF FUND

Dr. J. William White, who has been receiving subscriptions for the relief of the Louvain professors, stated today that he had received an additional $445, contributed by the following persons:

Mrs. J. Willis Martin, Dr. Thomas Bidle, John J. Carruth, Prof. William H. Lloyd, Samuel Rea, Dr. Edgar Fahs Smith and Dr. Theodore B. Schneidman. The total received to date is $3445.

Doctor White said that Dr. Sir William Osler had cabled a "thousand thanks" from himself and the professors for the money previously forwarded.

GIRLS' CLUB TO GIVE OPERETTA

Members of the Semper Paratus Club will produce this evening the operetta "Florida, or the Rose and Pearl," in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium, 18th and Arch streets. This club is composed of Y. W. C. A. girls employed in the DeLong Hook and Eys Factory. In the cast will be Misses Sophie Old, Annie O'Dea, Marie Choate and Margaret O'Dea. The entertainment is open, not only to Y. W. C. A. members, but to the general public.

1500 'WAR VETERANS' SEEK JOBS IN PLAY, BLOCKING BROAD ST.

Police Disperse Crowd After Twenty-one "Supers" Are Employed at the Lyric Theatre.

Fifteen hundred able-bodied men and boys, whose ages ranged from 16 to 65 years, blocked traffic in Broad street in front of the Lyric Theatre, Broad and Cherry streets, this morning, when they assembled in response to an advertisement asking for 50 men who had seen military service.

After 21 of the men had been selected at 10 o'clock the crowd became boisterous and policemen from the 11th and Winter streets station, with traffic policemen from Broad street, dispersed the crowd with some difficulty.

SELECTS 21 "SUPERS"

The crowd started to assemble at 7 o'clock this morning, and within an hour the sidewalk was jammed. Edward Voight, property man for the theatre, arrived at that time. He knew nothing about the advertisement. After some trouble Voight succeeded in entering through the stage door.

At 10 o'clock Lieutenant Barry Whitcomb, formerly of the English army, arrived. He admitted 50 of the men and selected 20 of them. They will appear as "supers" in the first act of "The Story of the Rosary," which will open at the Lyric next Monday night.

PANAMA PACIFIC EXPOSITION INFORMATION FREE AT LEDGER CENTRAL

HENRY F. MILLER EST. 1863 PLANOS

The New Lighting Fixtures Have never before been approached in quality and beauty of workmanship. They are wonderfully efficient and their cost moderate.

LADIES' 14 KT. GOLD WATCHES C. R. Smith & Son Market St. at 18th

SUFFRAGISTS RENEW EFFORT

Delaware Women Hope to Have Legislation Pass Amendment.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7.—Now that the election is over advocates of votes for women have redoubled their efforts, and at the coming session of the Legislature an effort will be made to obtain passage of an amendment to the Constitution to give women the ballot.

Meetings are being held on the streets each evening, at which prominent women are speakers, and these will be continued as long as the weather permits.

When the Legislature meets it will be bombarded with petitions and arguments favoring the cause. It is expected the Delaware Committee Opposed to Woman Suffrage also will be active, and some lively arguments before the Legislature are expected.

Autoist Held for Man's Injury

S. T. Stanton, 5th and Vine streets, today was held under $500 bail by Magistrate Stevenson in the East Girard avenue police station on the charge of running down Jacob Phillips, of 515 Carpenter street, yesterday afternoon with his automobile at East Norris street and Girard avenue. Phillips is still in St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from a concussion of the brain and a broken wrist. Physicians say he will recover.

Gold Shell Eye-Glass Special for Monday Worth $5.00

HENRY F. MILLER EST. 1863 PLANOS

Colonial Upright, $450 Lyric Grand, $700 Player Piano, $850 Other Makes from $150 up

Henry F. Miller & Sons Piano Company

JUDGE FRAZER LEADS KUNKEL BY 10,150 VOTES

Returns Missing From Two Counties — Pinchot Leads Palmer by 3190 — Brumbaugh's Great Poll.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 7.—Judge Robert S. Frazer, of Pittsburgh, has a lead of 10,150 over Judge George Kunkel, of Harrisburg, in the unofficial returns of the vote for Justice of the Supreme Court, with the counties of Bradford and Clearfield yet to be heard from. The totals as reported are:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Votes. Frazer 575,801; Kunkel 395,441; Palmer 248,950; Pinchot 237,040; Penrose 510,433.

It will be seen that Penrose did not receive a majority of the votes, the total of Palmer and Pinchot exceeding the Senator's by 29,783.

In contrast with this is the sweeping character of Doctor Brumbaugh's victory over McCormick, his fusion opponent. The Republican candidate for Governor ran 67,792 votes ahead of Penrose. The totals, with a few districts missing, were:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Votes. McCormick 429,005; Brumbaugh 578,545.

The most remarkable showing of the election was made by Judge Frank M. Trexler, of Allentown, who, after being defeated for re-election to the Lehigh County bench, was appointed to the Superior Court by Governor Tener to fill a vacancy, and had the support of the Republican Organization Tuesday for the election to the full term against James E. Clarke, of the city, who was supported by the anti-Republican forces on the non-partisan ballot.

FAIR TO AID MOUNTAINEERS

Industrial Association Sells Articles Made by Beneficiaries. A bazaar for the benefit of Southern mountaineers will be held today by the Philadelphia Auxiliary of the Southern Industrial Association in the home of Mrs. James Dawes, 3300 Arch street, from 2 until 8 o'clock. Among those interested in the sale of productions of mountaineers are Mrs. James Potter, Mrs. Louis Lewis, Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis and Mrs. H. K. Mulford.

20 to 50% Reductions On Jewelry

Unsettled business conditions make it necessary for me to reduce my prices on Gems and Jewelry from 20 to 50 per cent, so as to effect a complete clearance.

Goods of the highest grade and of unquestioned quality are offered you at prices so low that Jewelry is a distinct investment.

ANDREW KAAS JEWELER 1510 Chestnut St.

Thomas a'Becket says: "My experience with your instruments has been very satisfactory, and it gives me pleasure to testify to their every excellent quality."

To buy a piano without judging the artistic worth of the Henry F. Miller is to set at naught the experience of musicians in Philadelphia and throughout the country. Henry F. Miller Pianos are owned, used and recommended by these well-known musicians:

- List of names of musicians who own and use Henry F. Miller pianos, including Mr. Thomas a'Becket, Mr. H. K. Gery, Miss Kate Miles, Mr. Percy Chase Miller, Mr. A. Gordon Mitchell, Mr. Edwin Martin, Miss Allen L. Murphy, Mrs. Mary Gregory Murray, Mr. Harold Nasson, Miss Mabel Parker, Mr. Frederick Penrose, Miss E. K. Paul, Mr. Wm. H. Pagnin, Mr. John W. Pommer, Jr., Miss May Porter, Miss E. Fussy, Mr. E. W. Sells, Mrs. Maude Sprague, Mr. William Stoll, Mr. B. Tudor Strang, Mr. Martinus Vanclider, Mr. James C. Warburton, Mr. Ed. K. Wilson, and And Many Others.

Henry F. Miller & Sons Piano Company 1105 Chestnut Street