

BOY SCOUTS

Troop 28 sees a ghost on a lonely road.

Intercollegiate heavyweight wrestling champion, is expected to give an exhibition of his art if a partner can be obtained for him. Doctor Moore will illustrate his talk on big game hunting in Africa by means of stereopticon views.

Boy Scouts in Alaska, within the Arctic Circle, will be ready within half a year if the plan of Dr. Charles D. Hart, of Fort Yukon, Alaska, is successful.

Dr. Charles D. Hart, chairman, of the Executive Scout Council, illustrates in what esteem the former Chief Executive holds the organization. The letter reads:

"Theodore Roosevelt, 20 East 43d street, New York City, January 4, 1915. My dear Doctor Hart, I spoke as follows: 'I wish to send you my heartiest congratulations on the success of the recent campaign of the Boy Scouts in Philadelphia. The fact that the funds were so quickly and abundantly raised that they represented over 2000 gifts, especially when we consider the financial stress of the present times, proves that the Boy Scout movement has taken a deep and firm hold upon the sympathies of our people. We must all rejoice at this fact, because the movement is one of unquestioned value to our country.'

"I wish to send this message, not only to the Boy Scouts, but to all the boys of America. The prime lesson that the Boy Scout movement is teaching is the lesson that manliness in its most dignified and noble form can be accompanied by unselfish consideration for the rights and interests of others.

"Indeed, I can go a little further. I wish that I could make the special appeal to the American boy to remember that unless he thinks of others he cannot fit himself to do the best work in any great emergency.

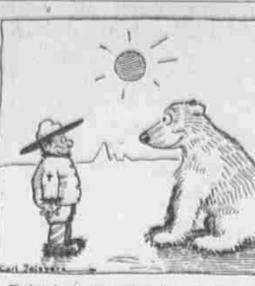

"The names in our history to which we now look back with pride are the names of men who have rendered great service. This service may have been rendered at the same time that they themselves gained glory or reputation, but neither the glory nor the reputation would have been gained save as an incident to the service.

"The boy Scout is not worth anything if he is not efficient. I have no use for molly-coddles. I have no use for timid boys, for the 'slimy' type of boy. I want to see a boy able to hold his own; ashamed to hold his own; ashamed to let his name be held in contempt by the mean or brutal boy who calls him 'slimy' or a mollycoddle because he is clean and decent and considers it a disgrace to be afraid. He is not fearless and energetic, he is a poor creature; but he is an even poorer creature if he is a bully of smaller boys or girls, if he is guilty of cruel mischief, and if in his own home, and especially in his relations with his own mother and sisters, he is selfish and unfeeling.

"I believe in play with all my heart, but I believe in work even more. While the boy or man plays it is well for him to play hard, and when he works I don't want to see him play at all.

"These words, of course, apply just as much to the Boy Scouts of Philadelphia as to those in any other part of the country. What has been done in Philadelphia justifies the belief that within three years your organization will be firmly established and able to do all the work it is designed to do in the service of the community.

"Wishing you all success, I am, Sincerely yours, Theodore Roosevelt

The biweekly moving picture entertainment of Troop 28 will be held Thursday, January 14, at 8 p. m. in the troop's meeting room, 633 street.

Nearly 1000 volumes of the Boy Scout Library have been indexed and arranged alphabetically, by authors, at headquarters. The library will become a circulating library as soon as Walter S. C. Towing, secretary, who has been ill on a furlough, returns to assume charge of headquarters.

Contributions of books from all sources interested in the movement are expected. The volumes must not necessarily deal with boys' subjects, for if a volume is not adapted to Boy Scout reading it can be readily exchanged for suitable books. In fact, many of the books now in the library were secured by exchanging books of no interest to boys for others in keeping with the purpose of the library.

"For example, a set of antiquated medical books was exchanged for several volumes of Kipling," said Doctor Hart. "In like manner, a dime novel for the purpose of securing a book for juvenile reading. Any old books, however, earthily use or evidently unsuited for boys to read are extremely welcome at headquarters, for they can be exchanged for the books we need."

Boy Scouts all over Philadelphia will be pleased to learn that the old Troop 13, of Bridgeport, will be revived. Troop 13 will be reorganized Thursday evening, January 14, at the Bridgeport Presbyterian Church under Roland B. Caswell, pastor.

Church of the Redeemer, 7th and Oxford streets, Philadelphia, Pa. "Dear Sir: I wish to especially commend Scout Henry Lewis, of Troop 13, for the manner in which he distributed the money for the purchase of the fire at 20th street and Glenwood avenue last Sunday.

"Irrespective of the cold and the wetting which he received, he stuck to it in the fire, and the firemen all around and through the fire.

"I think it would be very nice to commend him before the troop and give him an extra good mark. Yours very truly, P. S. TILDEN, Chief."

Troop 39 celebrated its fourth anniversary at the home of Scoutmaster William Rommel, 1245 Montgomery avenue, last evening. Following addresses by visiting scoutmasters, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rommel, parents of the scoutmaster, were the hosts at an elaborate anniversary dinner.

DOOM OF THE TURK AUGURED IN MOVES OF ALLIED POWERS

Italy Plans to Block Aegean Archipelago, While Allies Raze Dardanelles Forts—Russia on North.

Concerted moves by Italy and Greece indicate a new struggle in Turkey. Although Italy has not declared war, operations of Italian war forces indicate that at least warlike preliminary measures have been taken.

Italy troops have arrived at Piræus on their way to the Italian islands of the Aegean Archipelago. On these islands the population is largely Greek, despite Turkish dominance.

As in events preceding Turkey's entry into the war, signs now indicate strongly that Italy and Rumania will take the plunge soon. And, the chief aim seems to be to annihilate Turkey.

Rumania, in the opinion of war observers, is even more likely to throw its army of 300,000 men into the scale against Germany, Austria and Turkey. This well-trained force would in effect link with the extreme Russian left, now forcing its way into Hungary through Bukovina.

As to the campaign of the Czech troops in Bukovina, it is known that virtually the whole of that province is now in Russian hands. Dispatches from Bucharest indicate thousands of fugitives from the Austrian frontier are crossing the Rumanian frontier, some of them on their way to Vienna. The developments arising from this occupation of Bukovina will have an immediate and vital bearing on Rumania's course of action.
