

ALL ABOARD FOR THE LIBERTY BELL SPECIAL TRAIN

Organization Councilmen Eager to Be Included in Bodyguard for Famous Relic.

"All aboard for the Liberty Bell special" is the slogan sounded today by Organization Councilmen who are eager to see the councilman bodyguard which Chairman John P. Connelly is reported to be planning to go along with the Liberty Bell to the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Political supporters of certain Councilmen for two days have been besieging Connelly at his office in the Land Title building and in the corridors of the City Hall. They are recommending, suggesting and placing the O. K. on the Councilmen whom they want to go along on the trip across the continent.

No intimation as yet has come from Connelly, who is chairman of the Finance Committee of Council, as to who will be the lucky ones to receive a free rail ticket and appropriations for hotel bills. Connelly today refused to speak about the reported project.

Should Connelly, who, by the way, expressed himself some time ago as being opposed to the granting of appropriations in the new division of Housing and Sanitation, which was created by the Legislature, carry out his reported program, he will introduce a bill next Thursday in Council to send the famous bell to the exposition.

Noted metallurgists and members of patriotic organizations who have heard of Connelly's reported plans again today voted tickets and appropriations for hotel bills in favor of the proposed project.

The Liberty Bell, which is now in Independence Hall, has already suffered irreparable injury from previous journeys directly due to vibration. The bell was damaged by a crack in 1835, at Atlanta in 1885, at Charleston in 1902, and at St. Louis in 1904.

At the present time the bell is resting on four supports. In addition to an old wooden track, a year ago a new track developed. The second crack is plainly visible. It is expected that members of different patriotic organizations will be present at Council's meeting next Thursday and through written communications make a protest against Connelly's proposed bill.

Director George W. Norris, of the Department of Docks, Wharves and Ferries, today expressed himself as being strongly opposed to having the Liberty Bell taken from Independence Hall and sent to the exposition.

"I appreciate the fact that there will be thousands of persons attending the exposition who will be anxious to view the Liberty Bell," said Director Norris. "It is natural that if a person wishes to view Westminster Abbey they naturally wish to come to London in the same way with other famous old-time exhibits, but appropriate funds for the sending away of the bell and to pay the expenses of Councilmen who are to act as a guard should be made of it. It would be much better if the money were burned up rather than spent in that manner. I hope that the men who are reported to be back of this movement will change their minds."

E. J. Berlet, president of the Walnut Street Business Association, said: "I am opposed to the city footing bills of our Councilmen, who, it is reported, will be taken along on the train on which it is proposed to send the Liberty Bell to the exposition. The bell really belongs to the nation and everybody wants to see it. Should the city decide to send the bell away a careful examination by experts could be made of it. The experts believe that the long train journey may bring harm to the relic, then the bell should remain here. Rather than Councilmen go along at the city's expense, who not only making out of our reserve policemen to perform that duty?"

BISHOP GARLAND DEDICATES GALILEE HOME FOR MEN

Mission's Benefactors and Workers Attend Service in Annex.

The Galilee Home for Men, 1016 Callowhill street, was dedicated this afternoon by Bishop Suffragan Thomas J. Garland, of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, at the 15th anniversary of the founding of the mission at 221-23 Vine street.

The new home will be used in conjunction with the old quarters.

The services were conducted in the presence of a large number of benefactors and workers for the mission. The Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, rector of Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church; the Rev. Louis C. Washburn, rector of Christ Church; Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, Mrs. George Lea, Miss Eleanor Lea and Edmond M. McCarty were among those present.

Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander will preside at the anniversary services in the chapel on Vine street this evening, when the Rev. Lewis N. Caley, president of the mission; the Rev. Charles D. Pierce and Edward Bonnell, treasurer, will speak. Special services, with talks on the mission's practical work, will be given at the Church of the Saviour, 38th street and Chestnut, tomorrow evening, and the celebration will close with chapel services in the Vine street building Monday evening.

The Galilee Home is a four-story building. It has been leased for two years, and will be under the management of the Galilee Mission, which, although conducted by the Episcopal diocese, is non-sectarian.

The Rev. J. J. Hill is superintendent and George W. Wilkins assistant. Mrs. Samuel Hadley, widow of the late Mr. Hadley, who founded the famous Hadley Mission in Water street, New York, is to be the "mother" at the new home.

S. S. DOMINION SAILS

Vessel Leaves for St. John, N. F., Under Rush Orders.

Longshoremen by working night and day succeeded in loading this morning the last of the large cargo of the American Line steamship Dominion, and the vessel left Washington avenue pier under rush orders" to proceed to St. John, N. F., where it is presumed Canadian troops will be taken on board before the ship sails for Liverpool.

Officers of the steamship when asked why the vessel was diverted to St. John, N. F., explained they were "all at sea."

Captain Ingham said he believed he could get into St. John's harbor at this time. None of the crew was looking forward to keen enjoyment of the zero weather on the north Atlantic. They expected to see a large number of icebergs and were hopeful that none would cross the line's path.

Steel bars, lubricating oil, barb wire, iron nails and other commodities comprised most of the Dominion's cargo. There are several thousand barrels of meat and other foodstuffs in her hold as well.

60 CASES OF FILTH FOUND IN WARD OF COUNCILMAN SEGER

Housing Commission's Inspection of "Dead End Alleys" Discloses Many Evils Detrimental to Life.

SEGER WARD HOUSING EVILS. No fire-escapes attached to 60 houses. One thousand four hundred and ninety-two houses and children living in "dead-end" alleys. No lights in halls. Fifty-one houses with inadequate water supply. Scores of cellars flooded with water. Defective roof drains on 47 houses. Many streets without sewers. Sixty cases of filth.

Housing conditions of the poor who live in "dead-end alleys" in the 7th ward, according to a report made public today by skilled housing experts, will result in hundreds of deaths yet this winter unless immediate improvements are made. The ward is politically known as Councilman Charles Seger's domain.

The Philadelphia Housing Commission, of which Director George W. Norris, of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, is president, today sent to Seger a copy of the report describing some of the shocking conditions. The report was exclusively for the 7th ward.

This is the second investigation completed by housing experts of wards represented by Organization Councilmen who are opposed to the new housing code. Recently an investigation of the 11th ward, represented in Council by John E. Connelly, chairman of the Finance Committee, disclosed hundreds of insanitary dwellings, windowless rooms and other housing evils. Both Seger and Connelly are opposed to the new Division of Housing and Sanitation.

Some of the houses in Connelly's ward, experts said, were unfit for human beings. The survey made by Seger's ward by three experts, composed of an engineer experienced in construction, a master plumber and a builder, began several weeks ago. Homes of more than a thousand families, whose male members often have voted for Seger, were visited. Most of the tenants complained to the experts of the shocking conditions, but said they were afraid to lodge a complaint with the landlord or his agent, because they owed a part of the rent.

Some of the conditions found by the experts were typical housing evils. Unsafe buildings, damaged roofs and flooded cellars were noted. In one case, a room was found with walls actually soaked with water. Mothers and infants were found living in cellar rooms which prominent sociologists have termed as "dead-end" alleys.

COMPLAINT TURNED ASIDE. "I told my landlord that the chimney on the roof of my house was unsafe and he told me I should mind my own business," said a woman living on Lombard street, who asked why she didn't complain about the chimney.

Without concealing their identity, the experts daily visited the 7th ward. Their first trip disclosed two unsafe buildings, of which the Building Department was notified at once.

In the heart of Seger's ward nine houses were found whose halls are not lighted in the evening. Sixty houses were found without fire escapes. Defective hydrants were found in 15 yards, many of which have not supplied water for days.

"Where do you get water for cooking purposes?" "We go out and beg from the grocer or some storekeeper from whom we buy our things," said a mother of six children living not far from Seger's home on Pine street, near 15th.

FIND 11 FLOODED CELLARS. Just before the investigation was completed the experts found 11 flooded cellars. Several women and men were busy trying to empty the cellars with buckets. "Did you tell the landlord the cellar was flooded?" asked one of the experts. "The landlords only come around before election day, when they want us to vote for their candidate," replied a 70-year-old man, who was down on his knees bailing out the water.

Courtyards in many sections were found to contain defective paving. Thirty-two alleys connecting with dwelling houses were filled with water. Seven yards where children were playing were found to contain several inches of water. The investigators found 60 actual cases of filthy conditions prevailing in the 7th ward, many of which are not visible from the street.

VIOLATIONS TOTAL 200. During December and the present month the Philadelphia Housing Commission has discovered more than 200 violations of the housing laws in different parts of the city. More than 40 per cent. of the violations were found in the wards of which Seger and Connelly are the Organization leaders. The complaints were filed with the Department of Health, as well as with the Building Department.

"The report speaks for itself," said Bernard J. Newman, secretary of the Philadelphia Housing Commission, today. "We have decided to send a copy of the report to Mr. Seger and appeal to his humanitarian instinct. We hope he will change his mind and urge his friends in Council to bring the new housing code before Council for advice in framing a compensation bill to be introduced in the Legislature."

A meeting had been arranged for last Monday, but this had to be postponed indefinitely because certain members of the New York commission were called away on business. The conference will be arranged probably for February 5.

MOTORIST UNDER BAIL

Edward Biddle was held under $500 bail for further hearing by Magistrate Penock in the Germantown station today. He was accused of driving his automobile on the wrong side of the street and running down and seriously injuring John Schimpf, 6 years old, of 162 West Price street, at Germantown avenue and Price street. The lad has concussion of the brain. Biddle is 30 years old and lives at 187 East Chelton avenue.

This is the entrance and tower of the new Dental School of the University of Pennsylvania, the gift of the late Thomas W. Evans, into which the department began moving today.

LONGSHORE STRIKE FAILS

I. W. W. Men Now Say They Didn't Start the Trouble. The longshoremen's strike has failed. All is quiet along the waterfront and the pieces of the strikers have been filed. The strike failed, shipping men say, because the demands were exorbitant and dissension started in the strikers' ranks. Members of the Industrial Workers of the World now assert they did not ask the men to walk out. They say they merely called a meeting for the discussion of conditions. This the men say is false.

Disagreement caused wholesale desertions from the strikers' ranks and a stampede to obtain their old jobs followed. The old wage scale of 20 cents an hour is being paid. Stevedores say that none of the agitators will be taken back, but "the good workers who were misled" may obtain their positions.

MANAYUNK MOVES TO SAVE FISH IN SCHUYLKILL CANAL

Straight Channel Needed to Stop Wholesale Destruction. Manayunk residents are trying to place responsibility for the wholesale destruction of fish in the Schuylkill Canal. Until today it was generally believed that the fish were killed at the intake of the Philadelphia Electric Company's plant by the force of the current drawing them into the wheel. But an investigator for the Department of Fisheries today found that the company had taken all precautions to safeguard the fish, and that the fish were driven into the intake by the force of the current at that point.

What is needed, it is maintained, is to have the canal straightened out, thus eliminating strong currents at curves. Winfield G. Guiles, superintendent of the canal from Philadelphia to Norristown, said that the Schuylkill Navigation Company, operating the canal, will erect screens if required to, and will straighten the canal if ordered to by the Department of Fisheries. Harry M. Lehman, of 104 Leverington street, who has been spokesman for the people, said that a straight channel is necessary to conserve the fish.

TO FACE TRIAL WITH THAW

Men Who Aided Escape From Matteawan Will Be Arraigned. NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The five men who aided Harry K. Thaw in his escape from Matteawan Asylum will be placed on trial with Thaw on February 23, according to the present plans of Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy. John H. Stauchfeld, Thaw's counsel, has announced that he will not object to the joint trial.

The five men, who are now held on $1000 bail each, are Roger Thompson, Richard Butler, Eugene Duffy, Thomas Flood and Michael O'Keefe. Thompson was the chauffeur of the auto in which the dash across the State line was made.

COMPENSATION BILL PLANS

Attorney General Brown Will Attend Conference in New York. Attorney General Brown will go to New York in the near future to confer with members of the workmen's compensation commissions of New York, Ohio and New Jersey for advice in framing a compensation bill to be introduced in the Legislature.

A meeting had been arranged for last Monday, but this had to be postponed indefinitely because certain members of the New York commission were called away on business. The conference will be arranged probably for February 5.

POOR FOLK SEEK RELIEF

Crowd at Emergency Aid Headquarters All Day. Cold weather drove hundreds of destitute men and women to the Emergency Aid Committee's Home Relief Division in the Lincoln Building this morning. Before the doors opened a crowd was waiting. Throughout the day these and others, suffering from cold, applied for relief. The most urgent necessity was for overcoats and shoes for men who applied for help.

E. H. Carey, of 915 South 50th street, a carpenter who has been unable to find work since August, said he and his family were destitute. Just then it was learned that a new partition was needed in the committee's rooms and Carey was put to work on the task. He was tearfully thankful. Sewing was parceled out to destitute women in large quantities. In some cases the committee gave out dollar bills to women who said they would use the money to provide their families with food.

WAR WILL TEACH BUSINESS LESSON, SAYS CLOTHING MAN

Joseph Grashelm Declares Commerce Will Be Redistributed. "I believe that the present war is going to prove a great blessing because it is teaching manufacturers and business men in all lines in every part of the country new opportunities every day, and will cause a redistribution of the world's commerce," said Joseph Grashelm, president of the Philadelphia Clothing Manufacturers Association, today. "I think it is a good thing that the war came when it did, for I believe that the country would have been in a worse condition relative to the tariff law than it is now—because of the tariff law."

"If the war had not come just when it did the tariff law would have been tried out long before this. It hasn't had the chance, so that the result is that nobody knows just what the tariff law is. That, in my opinion, is the reason why business conditions are not what they ought to be."

CHARLES I COMMEMORATED

26th Anniversary of Beheading of "Martyr King" Observed. Interesting services were held today to mark the 26th anniversary of the death of King Charles I, beheaded at Whitehall and regarded by many members of the Anglican church to have been officially canonized as a saint. The principal services were held at St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church, 18th and Mifflin streets, which were attended by members of the Society of St. Charles, King and Martyr, who are at the head of a movement to have the dead ruler canonized.

Evangelical service will also be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in the martyred King's memory. As proof that the ruler has been recognized as a saint on the Anglican calendar, the St. Charles Society points to passages in an ancient collection of the church's prayers which refer to him in the term of "Blessed Martyr," a term used only for those regarded by the church as saints.

AMMONIA BLAST INJURES MAN

A blast of ammonia gas struck Robert Cowan, 11 Lindenwood street, while he was at work today in the Henry Bower chemical plant in Gray's Ferry road near 24th street. Before workmen were able to stop the flow Cowan's eyes were so badly injured that he may lose his sight, according to physicians at the Polyclinic Hospital. A broken pipe is blamed for the accident.

UNIVERSITY DENTAL SCHOOL MOVING TO ITS NEW QUARTERS

Classes Will Be Held Next Week in Evans Institute. Dedication Set for February 22-23.

This is moving day for the University of Pennsylvania Dental School. This morning the department began the actual work of moving the entire school from the old building at 23d and Locust streets to its new million-dollar home at 8th and Spruce streets, where it will be officially known as the "Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute School of Dentistry, University of Pennsylvania." Nearly all classes will be held in the new building next week, and the dental faculty expects to have the entire plant in perfect running order when the dedicatory exercises are held there on February 22 and 23.

The program, with a number of modifications, was decided upon at a meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday. The dedicatory exercises will be held in the afternoon on February 22. There will be an elaborate procession from Houston Hall to the new buildings. It will form at 1:30 o'clock and will be led by the University Band and the Glee Club, who will be followed by students of the dental school, president, officers and trustees of the Evans Dental Institute Society, the provost, vice provost and trustees of the University; speakers and special guests, presidents of other universities and colleges and alumni of the dental school.

The dedicatory exercises will begin at 2 o'clock. First will come the presentation of the building, followed by brief addresses by ex-Mayor Weaver, who is president of the Evans Dental Institute Society, and by Provost Edgar F. Smith. As a tribute to the international eminence of Pennsylvania as a seat of dental learning England, Germany and France will be represented by leading authorities, all of whom will deliver addresses. France will be represented by Dr. Charles Godon, director of the French Dental School in Paris; Germany by Dr. Wilhelm Dieck, of the Dental Institute in Berlin, and England by Dr. John Howard Munnery. The savants are coming over especially for these exercises. Other addresses will be delivered by Dr. Edward C. Kirk, dean of the University of Pennsylvania Dental School, and Dr. William Simon, of the Baltimore Dental College. These exercises will be followed by a concerting of a number of honorary degrees.

The second day's exercises will be devoted almost exclusively to clinics. The committee of Dedication consists of Mayor H. C. Gray, Edwin T. Darby, Alfred P. Lee, G. L. Lewis, H. B. McElduff, Louis C. Madeira, John Marshall, Frank P. Pritchard, Edgar F. Smith, R. H. D. Smith, Charles R. Turner, Edward C. Kirk and George E. Nitzsche. The new building, one of the largest on the campus and the largest in the world devoted to dentistry, was erected at a cost of $1,000,000. The architecture is in the style which prevailed in the time of Henry VIII. It is the gift of the late Thomas W. Evans, the philanthropist and dentist, who died in Paris in 1897.

MARKED DECLINE IN CITY MORTALITY THIS WEEK

Total of 478 Is 115 Less Than Record of Same Week in 1914. A marked decrease in Philadelphia's death rate is shown in the record of the last seven days. There were 478 deaths this week, 43 fewer than last week and 151 fewer than during the corresponding week last year.

Transmissible diseases caused 124 of the total number of deaths this week. Sixty-eight deaths were of children under one year and 28 were children between one and five years of age.

New causes of disease reported from sections of the city this week were: Cholelithiasis, 29; measles, 17; mumps, 15; diphtheria, 8; scarlet fever, 15; pneumonia, 43; typhoid fever, 6.

List of deaths from all causes during the last seven days follows: Measles, 17; scarlet fever, 15; typhoid fever, 6; pneumonia, 43; diphtheria, 8; cholera, 1; other epidemic diseases, 4; tuberculosis of the lungs, 40; other forms of tuberculosis, 21; other forms of tuberculosis, 21; simple meningitis, 11; chronic meningitis, 11; organic disease of the heart, 61; acute bronchitis, 2; chronic bronchitis, 2; pneumonia, 20; other diseases of the respiratory system, 10; diseases of the stomach (except typhoid), 19; diarrhoea and dysentery (except typhoid), 3; aneurysm and typhoid, 2; hernia, intestinal obstruction, 4; cancer of the liver and other organs, 47; acute nephritis and Bright's disease, 47; chronic nephritis and other diseases of the female genital organs, 4; puerperal septicemia (except typhoid), 2; other puerperal accidents of pregnancy, 4; congenital debility and malformations, 27; violence, 21; suicide, 1; all other diseases, 79.

WOULD MUZZLE CHILDREN

Woman Thinks They Are as Bad as Dogs. NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The muzzling of all children having whooping cough or spinal meningitis was suggested yesterday to Justice Lehman, in the Supreme Court, by Mrs. Charles Edward Knobloch, who is fighting her prosecution by the Health Department for failure to have her pet dog Kuroki muzzled. "We can prove that more disease is spread through children having whooping cough and spinal meningitis than through dog bites," said Mrs. Bertha Romblough, counsel for Mrs. Knobloch. "We have the figures to prove this, and therefore all children with those diseases should be compelled to wear muzzles, if the contention of the Health Commissioner is correct." Justice Lehman took the matter under advisement.

CORRECTION CELLS CONTAIN NO VERMIN, PATTERSON ASSERTS

Superintendent of Holmesburg Institution Welcomes Investigation by Next Grand Jury. A Grand Jury inspection of cells in the House of Correction at Holmesburg will be urged by Superintendent Patterson, who today denied the testimony of two former inmates that they were compelled to sleep in vermin-infested quarters.

Superintendent Patterson insisted that the cells in the institution were kept in a sanitary condition. According to the superintendent, the prisoners who complained were in the plot organized by 40 other prisoners to break jail. The alleged conspirators were placed in solitary confinement. "I am prepared to have the February Grand Jury inspect every one of the cells in the House of Correction," said Mr. Patterson.

"We have a special brigade composed of prisoners whose duty it is to inspect the cells and keep them clean and in a sanitary condition. The keepers are also required to inspect the cells every day and see that they are clean. The story told by the prisoners is an untruth. I suppose they gave that testimony because they were placed in solitary confinement after we discovered that they had planned to make their escape."

NO MORE "RAGTIME" ALARMS

Fire Bells Are Now Sounded Clang-Clang, Not Ding! Ding! Fire signals will no longer be sent out in rattle, nor will they be pounded in waltz movements. Beginning today they will be received at the fire stations in rhythmic form, and the various captains throughout the city will be enabled to count the bell taps without being lighting calculators.

This reform has been brought about by the installation of a metronome, an instrument for marking time in music, in the Electrical Bureau, by Chief Pike. Heretofore the operators sent out the local alarms in jerks and spasms, according to their temperaments, but henceforth all will use the same speed.

Farmhouse Destroyed by Fire

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 29.—Fire this morning destroyed the farmhouse of Henry W. Wilmington, at Shellpot. The loss is about $3000.

LEDGERS' TOURISTS TO BE "PERSONALLY CONDUCTED" IN WEST

Successful Contestants Will Be Free to Enjoy manifold Pleasures of Trip to Expositions.

Everything that has gone before in the way of spectacular and unusual exhibitions is being surpassed in the twin expositions of the West that will celebrate all through this year the formal opening of the Panama Canal. To these expositions, the Panama-Pacific at San Francisco, and the Panama-California at San Diego, a neighboring city, will be sent the 80 participants in the contest of the EVENING LEDGER and the PUBLIC LEDGER who have obtained the largest number of subscriptions by the end of May, when the contest closes.

The tour will be made in June, the best month of the year for it. As has been explained repeatedly, the trip will be absolutely no charge to the 80 men and women to be taken on this trip. Instead of having tickets handed to them and then being left to their own devices, the EVENING LEDGER-PUBLIC LEDGER representatives will take charge of all details, such as obtaining train and hotel accommodations. This will leave the tourists free all through the trip to enjoy themselves.

You may join this contest and perhaps get one of these wonderfully valuable free trips to the Pacific Coast by sending in your name to the Contest Editor, 2d floor the Public Ledger Building, Independence Square, on the coupon provided for that purpose in the advertisements. Contestants will tell you they are finding little difficulty in getting subscriptions to these newspapers. As soon as you get a subscription send it to the Contest Editor and the point to which it entitled you will be marked up to your credit at once.
