

ITALY FACES STRIKE THROUGHOUT NATION CAUSED BY FOOD COST

Socialists and Labor Leaders at Head of Movement. Troops Patrol Streets of Naples Where 8000 Men Are Idle.

Berlin Sees Sudden Change in Diplomatic Situation at Rome and Fears Neutrality Will Soon Come to an End as Unrest Grows.

ROME, Feb. 25.—A national strike is threatened in Italy. Owing to the economic crisis brought about by the war and the higher cost of bread a general strike was declared at Naples on Wednesday.

The strike threatens to extend to the railway lines. Already some of the roads have been crippled by the walkout in the industrial plants.

Troops are patrolling the streets in Naples for fear of an outbreak.

A sudden change of feeling has been noticeable in diplomatic quarters in Berlin, dispatches from that city say, during the last few days regarding Italy's attitude, which seems to have become a matter of much greater concern than hitherto.

The reasons for this change are not clear at this time.

Close observers of the political situation note that since Italy's readiness to go to war has become apparent, Germany's insistence that she continue neutral has grown stronger.

Prince von Buelow, the German Ambassador, has summarized the Italian situation to his Government. It is asserted in a trustworthy quarter, substantially as follows:

Italy has spent nearly two billion lire ($400,000,000) in war preparations since hostilities began; consequently action on her part is daily becoming more imperative.

GERMANY FINANCIAL WRECK, SAYS VIVIANI

in France's situation. The first three months of the war of 1870 saw our armies at Sedan and Metz prisoners, another army at Paris invested—in all over 400,000 men.

"The world believed France crushed. But 10 years after the war, at the Universal Exposition, she showed the world the spectacle of a reborn country. France faced her problems squarely, resolved to solve her most arduous interior political questions. She retained her ideals of fraternity and liberty. She applied them to her social laws. She guaranteed her independence by international alliances and ententes, which German diplomatic duplicity often tried without success to undo.

"Then came this war which Germany craftily prepared, then unchained. If Germany really loved peace she might have had it simply by accepting our terms at London, July 23, or two days later by accepting the Czars' call to the Hague Tribunal, or, on July 31, Great Britain's call to suspend military preparations in view of negotiations at London. France and Russia adhered to all these pacific attempts, but Germany declared war. She had been mobilizing for 10 days.

GERMANY EXPECTED DISCORD. "Germany has sadly miscalculated. She realizes it now. Without speaking of countries other than my own, Germany expected discords and dissensions. What she ran against was an immovable block without factions, without divergences. Every son of France took up arms—rich, poor, Socialists, conservatives, free thinkers and Catholics alike.

Today France's policy continues to be what, in the name of the Government, it was stated to be on December 2: "War without mercy." We are unanimous in declaring that we will not accept any but a victorious peace for all the Allies.

The united pact of September 4 has our signature, and for us a treaty is not a scrap of paper. Our armies are intact. They have checked the German torrent.

"What was Germany's first objective point? Paris. She failed to win it. Then she tried Dunkirk and then Calais. She left 20,000 cadavers on the Yser, but she did not pass. The same thing happened at Nancy and at Verdun. Germany was thrown aside. Her military power is hard hit. Economically she is ruined. An implacable blockade is drawing tighter and tighter about her. Despite all precautions she has taken to conceal the truth, I can assure you that her financial and economic rout is complete. If her cities which tourists visit retain the appearance of prosperity, it is to the detriment to the country districts, which are being famished in order to put up appearances before the outside world.

"France's economic and financial situation is normal despite the enormous expense imposed by the war. We are doing nothing. The Allies will fight it out to the bitter end. Let there be no doubt about that. For our children we wish to end once for all the peril of war engendered by military caste, which in Germany has carried all classes before it.

FOR BELGIAN INDEPENDENCE. "We will destroy this breeding place of perpetual discord between peoples. We are battling for the right. We do not wish to make slaves of any one. We will restore Belgian independence.

"We will reunite the French family separated by the mailed fist 44 years ago. We wish to be free. We will be."

Premier Viviani is one of the strongest of the French leaders today. By his noble tact he has maintained temperamental France on an even keel to such an extent that the people marvel. He works 15 hours daily. He has adopted the American custom of taking only 15 minutes at meal time.

Without a portfolio himself, he holds an endless series of conferences with other members of the cabinet. He rises at 5 o'clock in the morning, takes his coffee and then walks to his office. This is the only exercise he has time for. The Premier is of athletic build, and his vigorous manner impresses a visitor. He smokes numerous cigarettes. Despite his hard hours, he is always affable and optimistic, and he finds plenty of time to smile.

RUSSIAN ATTACKS BEATEN OFF IN TRANS-Caucasia, SAY TURKS

Casr Suffers Heavily in Renewal of Fighting on Frontier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 25.—The Turkish War Office reports a renewal of hostilities on the transcaucasian frontier. An announcement says: "The Turks beat off a Russian attack in the region east of Artvin with heavy loss. The Russians have been driven from the district of Simaluda. A heavy quantity of war material was captured."

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25.—Fighting of secondary importance is in progress in the Trans-Caucasia region. It is officially reported from Trans-Caucasian headquarters in Tiflis. The Turks tried unsuccessfully to advance.

FRANCE TO PROTECT MOTHERS AND BABES

Cabinet Devises Plans and Laws Made Necessary by German Invasion.

By HENRY WOOD

UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Feb. 25.—France has just taken up the most delicate task that has yet been imposed on it in the present war. This is the determination not only to save the lives of the babies who are to be borne by French women as a result of the German invasion, but to offer every possible help and protection to the mothers themselves. The Government is especially anxious to prevent infanticide.

So important is the subject considered that recently several meetings of the Cabinet have been devoted to it exclusively. Complete plans have now been perfected not only for caring for both the babies and the mothers, but for seeing to it that the latter are advised simply in advance of what is to be done for them, so that they may at least be relieved of a certain portion of the mental anxiety and distress that otherwise would attend the birth of the infants.

Since the German invasion, it is realized that her actual existence was being threatened by the decrease in her birth rate, a large number of laws have been passed for the protection of women in unfortunate circumstances.

All of the benefits of these laws have now just been made applicable to all of the women whose condition is now giving rise to the most serious medical help.

In the first place, the prospective mothers are to have all of the medical help necessary at the expense of the State. They are to be relieved of complying with all the existing regulations which govern the birth of a child in France, and the State is to undertake the duty not only of relieving the mother at once of the care of the child, but of concealing in every possible way the possible trace of the origin of the child.

While the mother is thus relieved of all duty and obligation as to the child's future, the State also will pledge itself, in order to carry out its duty, to maintain records of identity that will enable the mother at any time in the future, should she ever care to do so, to reclaim her baby.

In the few months that will yet elapse before it will be necessary to have recourse to these measures, the State will make every effort possible to get in touch with the women whom they will be applicable and secure their promise to accept this solution of the misfortune which the war has brought upon them.

SLAV OFFENSIVE RENEWED IN EAST CARPATHIANS

Austrian Drive to Retake Lemberg Met by Invaders.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25.—The first great battle since the Austrians began their northward drive to recapture Lemberg is being fought in the south of Stanislau along the eastern Carpathians, according to advices received here today.

Only meager dispatches have arrived here from the new Galician battleground. These indicate that for the present the conflict around Stanislau overshadows the developments in Poland.

Francis Joseph has massed a great army within the angle formed by two railroads southeast of Stanislau. This Austrian force is attempting to press north to the Dniester and force a crossing at Halicz, less than 70 miles from Lemberg itself.

Over a five-mile battle front extending from Stanislau east to Tysmenicza, several Russian regiments are stubbornly resisting the advance of the Austrians.

Dispatches to the War Office today indicated that the Russians are slowly retreating before superior forces, retreating for strategic reasons upon the city of Halicz is being held in the bank of the Dniester. Because of the swollen condition of the river, a crossing at any point but Halicz is out of the question, and the Russian General Staff is confident that the Austrians will have had at this point if not south of the river.

RECALL OF GERMAN ATTACHE INVOLVED IN FRAUD MAY BE ASKED

Federal Court to Take Up Case of Captain Boy-Ed Through State Department—Letters Connect Him With Probe.

Third Arrest in Plan to Send Reservists Home by Means of Fraudulent Passport Made in Hoboken Today Obtained False Certificate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Federal Court officials today planned to ask the State Department at Washington to investigate the connection of Captain Boy-Ed, German naval attache at Washington, with the second case of fraudulent obtaining of passports within two months.

Unable to probe the attache's case locally, the officials here believed that the Secretary of State should ask his recall.

A third arrest in the case was made today. Richard Madden, employe of a Hoboken dance hall, who is said to have secured the birth certificate, under Madden's name, for Richard Stengler, was arrested by special agents of the Department of Justice at Hoboken.

Madden was arraigned this afternoon before Federal Commissioner Houghton and held for the Federal Grand Jury in the sum of $15,000 bail. He was committed to jail in default of bond.

After his arraignment Madden declared that he had never meant to conspire against the Government. He declared that some men in Hoboken had told him that he could get a good job if he secured his birth certificate, and with it procured an American passport for use in foreign countries. He got the passport, but never received anything for his effort.

This second conspiracy was disclosed last night by the arrest of Richard Peter Stengler, a member of the German naval reserve, who lives at 25 St. Nicholas avenue, and Gustav Cook, a waiter.

Letters that passed between Stengler and the naval attache, it is said, show that the latter defrayed, or was willing to defray, the expenses incidental to the issuance of the passports.

This charge was emphatically denied by Captain Boy-Ed. "It is true that I know slightly this man, Stengler," Captain Boy-Ed said, "but that is the extent of my knowledge of this matter. I know nothing of what you say about passport fraud, or of any attempt to send German reservists back to the Fatherland improperly."

That the new attempt to violate the passport laws progressed no further than the issuance of one passport is due, the Federal authorities say, to the fact that Stengler's young bride, formerly Miss Annie Pope, of Atlanta, Ga., induced him to confess.

PETROGRAD ADMITS FURIOUS ASSAULTS IN NORTH POLAND

German Offensive Continuous From Bobr River to Vistula.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25.—Furious attacks are being delivered continuously by the Germans along a front extending from a point near Jabvalno, on the Bobr River, to a point near Bobzanov, on the Vistula, the War Office admits in today's report.

Official news of the breaking of the German lines in the Augustow forest by two regiments of the 24th division of the Russian army.

The battle along the right bank of the Narow River, between the armies of Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Grand Duke Nicholas, is extending. The Russians have hurried reinforcements to check the Russian advance near Ostrolenka and Ossowitz.

All along the East Prussia-North Poland line the Slav invasion is to open a route for a fresh invader of East Prussia.

SERBS AGAIN INVADE AUSTRIA

Counter Demonstration to Relieve Pressure on Russians.

GENEVA, Feb. 25.—Serbian troops invaded Austrian territory on the night of February 20 and 21 near Bielina, opposite Ratcha and at Mitrovitza, penetrating from one to four miles across the frontier, according to a dispatch received here.

The object of the Serbian offensive, it is believed, probably is to force the Austrians to set back to the Austrians the troops operating against the Russians.

RUSSIANS TAKE TRENCHES FROM AUSTRO-GERMANS

Gains Reported at Height 901 and Elsewhere in Carpathians.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25.—Capture of three lines of Austro-German trenches on Height No. 901 in the Carpathians is reported by the War Office, which relates that the foe was driven out by storm. Success at Muknace also is chronicled.

Ferocious attacks have been repulsed at Koslomoka, which for some time has been an Austro-German offensive. East of Lupkow the fighting has been desperate, but Slav counter-offensives are said to have checked attacks. On the Doline-Gallice road an offensive movement has been arrested, today's report adds.

WAR WILL END THIS YEAR, PREDICTS GERMAN EMBASSY

Plan to Starve Out Kaiser's People Folly Say Officials.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—That the European war will not last beyond the 1915 food crop harvest was predicted by a German official here today. "The British army," it was stated, "has been unable to overwhelm us, our submarines have paralyzed their dread-nought navy. France is suffering terribly from devastation and now they are making their last play—trying to starve us out."

"They will learn before another six months that Germany is self-supporting. Our next potato harvest will prove the folly of their present course."

"The war can be expected to end as soon as Great Britain realizes our invulnerability."

ALLIED SHIPS SHELL TURKS Part of Dardanelles Fleet Attacks Island of Tenedos.

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—An Athens dispatch reports that seven French and British warships shelled the Turkish camp and fortresses on the Island of Tenedos, off the coast of Gallipoli, here today.

Turkish artillery replied and the warships soon drew off. These ships are part of the fleet that is attacking the forts on the Dardanelles.

BRITISH TAKE AFRICAN POST

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 25.—It is officially announced that on the night of February 22 the British northern force attacked Nonidaa Goanika, in German Southwest Africa. The assault was made simultaneously on two positions, both of which were occupied after desultory fighting on a small scale. No casualties were reported by the British.

Funeral of George H. Cartaret
