

THE CRACK OF THE HUNTSMAN'S RIFLE RESOUNDS THROUGH THE DEER REGIONS OF PENNA. TODAY

OFF THROUGH THE WOODS FOR DEER
Huntmen in all parts of Pennsylvania are enacting this scene. The deer season opened today and spurred on by the crisp late fall weather the sportsmen turned out in force.

CLIFF HUNTING ON THE CHESAPEAKE
Duck shooting is excellent where the birds pass by in their flight to the feeding grounds at the mouth of the Susquehanna River. Wild celery fields that abound on the lowlands of the Bay region attract the birds.

HERE'S A LAST LOOK AT THE OLD IMMIGRATION STATION

Even Uncle Sam must give way to the rush of improvements along the Delaware River front. At least a million immigrants have landed at the Washington avenue shed since its erection in 1884. The Pennsylvania Railroad, in making improvements, found the structure in the way, so it is being demolished along with other buildings.

HOW THE SMALL BOY DOES HIS HUNTING

The youngster's equipment is not so deadly or impressive as is that of the older nimrod, but it gets results, and that is all that really counts. Some tasty vegetable—a carrot, perhaps—lured the unsuspecting rabbit to his fate in the home-made trap.

UNCLE SAM SAVES ODDS AND ENDS IN HIS POSTOFFICE

The truck holds 750 pounds of twine, saved and reeled in a single month at the St. Louis postoffice. Formerly the bits were burned. At the ends of the truck are specimens of waste paper receptacles made from refuse boxes. They are used on the main floor of the postoffice.

AMERICAN FLAG MEANS "HANDS OFF"

(c) Underwood & Underwood. This stamp of protection assured the safe arrival of a case of goods consigned to a Philadelphia firm from a Dutch shipper. The belligerents, however, do not always respect the Stars and Stripes.

LATEST UNIT FOR U. S. HARBOR DEFENSE

(a) International News Service. The torpedo boat destroyer Wadsworth, which recently slipped from the ways at the Cramps' yards, is the most perfect ship of its class naval engineers have produced.
