COURTS AID RESORT PLANS

Cape May County Boulevards Rushed When Injunctions Fail STONE HARBOR, N. J., May 8.—The recent decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City, which granted the application for a writ of certiorari brought against the Cape May County authorities to prevent the construction of the Coronet's Inlet Bridge Boulevard has awakened renewed interest in the proposed all-resort automobile route from Atlantic City to Cape May.

This has been further stimulated by the dismissal of the injunction to stop the building of the Seven-Mile Beach Boulevard, connecting the boroughs of Stone Harbor and Avalon.

With these suits out of the way, the contractors on both the Coronet's Inlet and the Seven-Mile Beach Boulevards are pushing both improvements to completion. At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Cape May County, held last week, an effort will be made to formulate a policy of public improvements satisfactory to all the resorts in the county.
