

TWO OLIVER TWISTS, TWO ROMEO COMING

Rival Productions of Famous Stories Planned by Different Studios

By the Photoplay Editor

Manuscript rivalry, which may or may not be intentional, is responsible for four forthcoming productions of two plays—"Oliver Twist" and "Oliver Twist."

News of the "Oliver Twist" presentation is less definite, but interesting. Herbert Brown, who has been having legal troubles with Fox in connection with "A Daughter of the Gods," is said to have signed Kathleen Clifford, a diminutive musical comedy star and male impersonator, for the role of the all-star "wanted more."

It is reported the several productions are being rushed to completion by their directors.

Edward Jose, who is directing a new picture serial, with Pearl White in the stellar part, converted the entire floor of the Jersey City studio into one big set the other day.

Blushford Photoplays have introduced a fresh note in screen fiction. One of their new features is based on Emili Gaboriau's French detective story, "The Claque of Gold."

Two additions to the Famous Players series have been made in the persons of Lottie and Jack Pickford, sister and brother of Mary, respectively.

J. R. Willis, the artist, has developed a new method of animating cartoons and is at work on a series for Balboa, entitled "Hans-Fraid-o-Nuthin'."

As the members of the Rolin Company, which produces Father's comedies, were going home from work in a body the other night, a newsboy came up and, sticking a paper under the nose of one of the players, yelled "extra!"
