

NANCY WYNNE IS INTERESTED IN BOXHOLDERS OF TODAY'S SHOW

Very Large Number of Persons Have Subscribed to the Bryn Mawr Show and Boxes Will Be Filled With Society Belles and Beauz

THE Horse Show and the different affairs going in connection with it and a number of entertainments for the Earle-Clayton wedding party will be the chief happenings of the day, and, believe me, these will be some happenings, I'm thinking. To begin with, so many persons who have returned to their country houses have not been in town yet, for they are still scared to death about the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the city, so you see there will be many to see today who have been away since the Devon show in May.

Sir Adam Beck, who with Lady Beck will be the guest of the Herbert Lloyds, has taken a box, and there will be the usual boxholders and the usual dress-makers' models and everything else calculated to make the show the fetching outdoor affair it always is.

The little debs will be on view for the first time this season, several of the parents having taken boxes. Katharine Hancock, whose father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Hancock, have a box, will entertain every afternoon, and Anne Meirs will also have a number of the buds in her parents' box.

Among the regular boxholders will be Jack Valentine, Doctor Stout, William Barnes, William Wanamaker, whose beautiful little debutante daughter Isabel will exhibit her horses at the show on some days and entertain in her box on others; Mrs. Edward Schmidt, Charley Munn, Sam Curwen, John Crozer, Aleck Van Rensselaer, Charlie Da Costa, Victor Mather, Charlie Wheeler, William Ellis, the Charlie Dolans, Charlton Yarnall, Eddie Cassatt, De Witt Cuyler, Billie Clothier, Edward Stetsbury, Bob Montgomery, Henry Tammall, George Rosenberger, the Walter Ferrards, Edwin Vane and his debutante daughter Charlotte, who is very pretty and attractive; William Lieber, Sam Riddle, Bob Strawbridge, William Wright, Samuel Vaucian, George H. Earle, Jr., Miss Amy du Pont, J. N. Few Jr., and his new bride, who is Mrs. Alberta Hensel; William Donner, Hincle Smith, Charles Mather, John Hampton Barnes, Plunkett Stewart, Lewis Riley, Mrs. Frank Clyde, Theodore Ely, W. W. Atterbury, Aleck Cox, Archibald Barkle, Charlie Harrison, Franklin McFadden, Ben Rush, Charles Cox, Doctor Baker, Richard Meirs, R. Penn Smith, J. Harry Dinston, Isaac Clothier, Drexel Paul, Herbert Lloyd, Mahlon Hutchinson, Tom McKean, Albert Rosenthal and several others.

Mrs. Rob Griffiths entertained at luncheon today for the bridesmaids of the Earle-Clayton wedding. Her daughter, Mrs. Neddy Page, is to be in the bridal party, which reminds me I hear the cavalry will not return as soon as the infantry from the border, which is a bit hard on the little brides. Mrs. Page has been erroneously spoken of as a war bride, which is rather foolish, considering her engagement to Neddy was announced long before there was any idea that things were going to get any more serious in Mexico and the wedding was to have taken place this coming month, so naturally it was easy enough to hurry things when the call came for the troops to go to the border, and there was certainly no sudden engagement and rushed marriage, which is the general way for a war bride. To go back to the Earle wedding entertaining this evening, Pater and Mater Earle will give a dinner at their Bryn Mawr home for the whole party and tomorrow the Claytons will entertain at supper.

One hates to hear of broken engagements, yet it is so much better for a girl to break her engagement than through lack of moral courage allow it to go on without love. I heard of a little happening this summer which concerned two persons who were engaged and who for some reason spent the entire summer without seeing each other. Well, as time came to return to town the girl in the case suddenly realized that she had not missed him a bit all summer, and fortunately she did the obvious, honest thing, and sat down and wrote to him and told him the truth, that she had discovered that she had not missed him a bit and had had a wonderful time without him. It may have been a bit hard on her personal vanity, but his answer told her that her letter had been a perfect godsend, as he had gone through the same experience and had been afraid to tell her, and so had decided he would be a sport and go through with it. And they are both living happily ever after and are good friends, which is greatly to the point, don't you think?

Not that I would advocate breaking an engagement for small reasons or a mere whim, but if two persons find that they do not care for each other it's so much better to make the break before marriage than to regret it afterward.

NANCY WYNNE.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stetsbury will entertain at dinner on Sunday night in honor of several out-of-town guests who are here for the horse show at Bryn Mawr.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Mulford, of Washington lane, Chelton Hills, will entertain informally at dinner this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. W. Hincle Smith will give a stag luncheon on Sunday at his home in Bryn Mawr.

A number of out-of-town visitors to the horse show will be entertained at dinner this evening by Mr. W. Plunkett Stewart at his home in Haverford.

Mrs. Alexander J. Cassatt and her grand-daughter, Miss Lois Cassatt, have closed their Newport home and will return to Haverford to attend the horse show.

Sir Adam Beck and Lady Beck of Canada, arrived in this city today to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lloyd at their Bryn Mawr home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Wright, Jr., of 877 West Chelton avenue, Germantown, have their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Wright, 35, as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Wright will occupy their new home in Germantown about the first of November.

Photo by Wm. Stowell Ellis.

MISS WINFRED YOUNG

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill Williams, of 188 West Coulter street, Germantown, will close their Longport cottage in October and return to town for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Williamson Roberts, of Bella Vista, Villanova, who spent part of the summer at Narragansett Pier, are spending three weeks at White Sulphur Springs, and will return home about October 5.

Friends of Miss Catherine Ann French, of Villanova, will be glad to hear that she is recovering from her recent illness and left for Atlantic City this week to spend a fortnight or more.

Miss Isabel Stoughton, of East Washington lane, has returned from a trip to Maine, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Ann Stoughton. She stopped in Boston on her way home to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rowley, whose marriage took place last May. Mrs. Rowley was Miss Catherine Hunter Davis.

Miss Julia Learning Wood, daughter of Mr. R. Francis Wood, of North Wayne avenue, is spending a few weeks at Wernersville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Barabot, of Wayne avenue, Wayne, have taken apartments at the Tracy for the winter.

Mrs. Taylor Walthour, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Anna Mary Walthour, and son, Mr. Taylor E. Walthour, of 1814 De Lancey place, has returned from Jamestown, R. I.

Miss Louise Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harding, is the guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Mencke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Mencke, at their home, 8111 Sherwood road, Overbrook, this week. Mr. and Mrs. Mencke spent the summer at Rangleys Lakes, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Monroe, who spent the summer at Waterford, Me., have returned to their apartment at Hamilton Court.

Mrs. Howard A. Miner, who has been spending a fortnight in New York State, will return to her home, 4009 Baltimore avenue, on Saturday.

Mrs. W. P. Milburn, of Hamilton Court, Thirty-ninth and Chestnut streets, has returned from Atlantic City.

Mrs. Charles Soleiac, who spent the summer in Williamstown, Mass., has returned to Hamilton Court.

Miss Mildred Elsenhower, daughter of Mr. William R. Elsenhower, of West 10th street, Germantown, will attend school in New York this winter.

Miss Cora Wetherill, of Hamilton Court, has left Southampton, L. I., for a motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robbins and their daughter, Miss Frances Robbins, of Webster avenue, Wyncoote, who have been spending the summer at their cottage at Longport, N. J., will return the first of the month.

Mrs. William Hunter, of Jenkintown, has her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Hunter, and their family as her guests for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will leave the first week in October for Pittsburgh, where they will make their home in the future.

Miss Nan Kent and her sister, Miss Marjorie Kent, of Bent road, Wyncoote, will leave today (Thursday) for Auburn, N. Y., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Houser for a fortnight.

Mr. George Kent recently returned from an extended trip through the West and left this week for London, Eng., where he will live in the future.

Mrs. James Elverson, Jr., who has been spending the summer at her home on Long Island, will return to her town home, 2924 Walnut street, next Monday.

Mrs. Edwin Lavino, of East Graver's lane, Chestnut Hill, who is spending some time in Atlantic City, will return at the end of the week. Mrs. Thomas Griffith, of Texas, who was Miss Eva Lavino, is visiting her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Frederick Bradley, Jr., of New York, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, to be called Holbrook Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Downey, of Bala Cynwyd, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emma B. DeWald, to Mr. Stanley F. Cooper, of 1828 North Broad street. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mrs. George R. Van Dusen, of West Evergreen avenue, and her daughter, Miss Katherine Van Dusen, have returned from Seal Harbor and Froot's Neck, where they spent the summer.

North Philadelphia

Miss Elizabeth Kitchman and her niece, Miss Elizabeth K. Coyne, are on a cruise to Alaska. On their return they will spend the winter at 2937 North Broad st.

MISS ALICE M. ZAHM

MISS ALICE M. ZAHM

DR. FRANK O. NAGLE

Organist of Fletcher Methodist Episcopal Church Will Marry Doctor Nagle

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Alice M. Zahm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Walter Zahm, 1321 North Fifty-third street, to Dr. Frank O. Nagle, of 1825 Chestnut street. No date as yet has been set for the wedding.

Both Doctor Nagle and his fiancée are well known in local musical circles. Miss Zahm is organist of the Fletcher Methodist Episcopal Church, Roxborough, and Doctor Nagle, a graduate of Hahnemann Medical College, took three years of post-graduate at the Universities of Breslau and Vienna, specializing in eye diseases.

A pretty wedding took place in St. Monica's Roman Catholic Church, Seventeenth and Ritter streets, at 1 o'clock today. The bride was Miss Alice M. Zahm, of 1321 North Fifty-third street, and the groom was Dr. Frank O. Nagle, of 1825 Chestnut street.

The marriage of Miss Irene Ruth Hees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hees, of 3822 New Queen street, Falls of Schuylkill, to Dr. Albert Osborne Day, of 418 East Chelton avenue, Germantown, took place yesterday afternoon in St. Timothy's Protestant Episcopal Church, Roxborough, at 5:30 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James B. Halsey, pastor of the church. The bride was attended by Miss Hattie A. Porter and Miss Ruth Metzinger and the bridesmaids were Misses Doughterty, Appleton, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Misses Halsey, of Trenton, N. J., as matrons of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Wannamaker, Miss Harriet Smith, Miss Katherine Smith and Miss Cordelia Smith. Mr. Harold Tiffany will act as best man.

A surprise party was given last night by Mrs. J. Cooney for her daughter, Miss Marie Cooney, at 703 South Fifty-seventh street. Among the guests were Miss Loyola Finney, Miss Catherine Curtin, Miss Nan Pratt, Miss Helen Cooney, Miss Catherine McLaughlin, Miss Nan Murtha, Miss Marie Cooney, Miss Catherine Cooney, Miss Henrietta Wala, Miss Marion Donnelly, Miss Bonnie Donnelly, Miss Gertrude Craig, Miss Anna Hedding, Mr. Ray T.H. Chester, Mr. Walter Trumpf, Mr. Jack Meade, Jr., Mr. D. Curtin, Mr. William Stringer, Mr. Gus Aberle, Jr., Mr. Harry Edgar Porter, Mr. Joseph Mills, Mr. Wilbur Porter, Mr. Percy Wolfe, Mr. Harry Stovman, Mr. E. Brette, Mr. B. Clinger, Mr. Paul Barber, Mr. Harry J. Schofield, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Craig.

West Philadelphia

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Godshall and Mr. Rexford P. Bennett, of Carbonate, Pa., will take place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. S. Godshall, 4275 Baltimore avenue, on Saturday evening, October 28, at 7 o'clock. Miss Godshall will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Harry K. Marey, of Trenton, N. J., as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Wannamaker, Miss Harriet Smith, Miss Katherine Smith and Miss Cordelia Smith. Mr. Harold Tiffany will act as best man.

A surprise party was given last night by Mrs. J. Cooney for her daughter, Miss Marie Cooney, at 703 South Fifty-seventh street. Among the guests were Miss Loyola Finney, Miss Catherine Curtin, Miss Nan Pratt, Miss Helen Cooney, Miss Catherine McLaughlin, Miss Nan Murtha, Miss Marie Cooney, Miss Catherine Cooney, Miss Henrietta Wala, Miss Marion Donnelly, Miss Bonnie Donnelly, Miss Gertrude Craig, Miss Anna Hedding, Mr. Ray T.H. Chester, Mr. Walter Trumpf, Mr. Jack Meade, Jr., Mr. D. Curtin, Mr. William Stringer, Mr. Gus Aberle, Jr., Mr. Harry Edgar Porter, Mr. Joseph Mills, Mr. Wilbur Porter, Mr. Percy Wolfe, Mr. Harry Stovman, Mr. E. Brette, Mr. B. Clinger, Mr. Paul Barber, Mr. Harry J. Schofield, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Downey, of Bala Cynwyd, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emma B. DeWald, to Mr. Stanley F. Cooper, of 1828 North Broad street. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mrs. George R. Van Dusen, of West Evergreen avenue, and her daughter, Miss Katherine Van Dusen, have returned from Seal Harbor and Froot's Neck, where they spent the summer.

North Philadelphia

Miss Elizabeth Kitchman and her niece, Miss Elizabeth K. Coyne, are on a cruise to Alaska. On their return they will spend the winter at 2937 North Broad st.

THE BREADMAN WHO WAS DEAF

Dearest Children—Once upon a time there was a family consisting of a father, mother and a few children. I must not make it too definite or you will be thinking of some one in your neighborhood. Well, the mother was a very good mother, but she had a voice that used to SHRIEK!

This family moved to a new neighborhood and a new breadman came. He was deaf! His voice was soft and low. Although the man of the house had called the mother's attention to her voice, it was not until the soft-voiced breadman came that she saw—what? Not that HER voice was loud, BUT she saw and heard how delightful the soft voice of the breadman sounded.

It is interesting as you go through life to see how people influence you. The breadman, a perfect stranger and deaf at that, did what father and the children could not do—make mother keep her voice LOW.

If you know some one who is deaf and not dumb, listen to him—see if it does not help you learn to keep your voice low. Remember the deaf breadman.

FARMER SMITH, Children's Editor.

Our Postoffice Box

Mildred Rabinoff, of North Seventeenth street, felt much cooler this summer every time she looked at her Rainbow button. It made her think we had just had a shower!

THE WINGS OF THE MORNING

By Louis Tracy

THE STORY TELLER PAIR

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

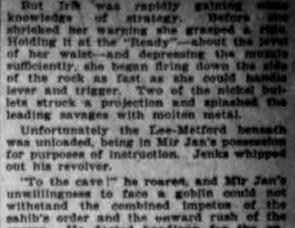

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

THE WINGS OF THE MORNING

By Louis Tracy

THE STORY TELLER PAIR

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

IRIS DEANE, daughter of Arthur Deane, owner of the London and Hongkong bank, was the first to see the boat. She was on the bank when the steamer's siren was heard. She saw the boat and she saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it. She saw the man who was in it.

LUIGI RIENZI 1714 Walnut Street Opening In Our Rebuilt and Enlarged Shop Thursday, Friday and Saturday Will Be Given an Exhibition of Tailleur Costumes, Dresses, Wraps and Suits for Autumn and Winter In the Order Department Is a Carefully Selected Exhibit of Paris Model Gowns and Original Rienzi Creations Waists Millinery Furs

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES Public Speaking Banks Business College Neff College Strayer's Business College Temple University Friends' Select School GERMANTOWN FRIENDS' SCHOOL Young Ladies and Girls Phila. School of Design for Women

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA OFFERS EVENING COURSES Accounting and Commercial Law Real Estate and Insurance Advertising and Selling Finance and Banking

Mercersburg Academy Building Construction Course NIGHT CLASSES Magazine and Book Illustrating Mercersburg Academy

ASHBURN'S CURTAIN SHOP