THE TOPKICKS U. S. RECEIVER Deputy Attorney General Asks Ouster of Union Casualty Appointee

ASSAULTS COURT RULING Says Federal Control Negatives State's Safeguards of Insurance Stockholders

During the argument before the United States Court of Appeals today on the appeal of State Insurance Commissioner J. J. O'Neil from the refusal of the local District Court to revoke the appointment of Samuel W. Cooper, as receiver for the Union Casualty Company, Deputy Attorney General William M. Hargest, said...

At the position taken by the District Court is legally tenable, then, argued Mr. Hargest, the State laws governing insurance companies and others theoretically the same will be made ineffective and the State department will be unable to assert the statutory authority to protect stockholders and creditors.

All that would be necessary for a company about to be dissolved by the State authorities to do is to transfer its assets to a non-resident stockholder, through whom the company could have a Federal court appoint a receiver, and thus prevent the State from closing out a company in financial difficulties.

The tangled affairs of the insurance company as disclosed in an investigation by the State Insurance Department and in dissolution proceedings in the Dauphin County Common Pleas Court have provoked much notoriety. On the eve of a hearing before the Dauphin County court for the dissolution of the company, on the complaint of Commissioner O'Neil, Homer G. Welch and the "Consolidated Investment Company," stockholders, obtained the appointment in the Federal Court of Mr. Choper, an attorney, to "preserve the assets" of the company.

This move, the State authorities asserted, was to forestall an investigation and to avoid the Federal court's jurisdiction in the management of the company, and the Federal court was asked to vitiate its appointment of Cooper. One of the grounds, and virtually the principal one, was that in view of the proceedings in the State court, the Federal court had no jurisdiction in the case.

After a lengthy consideration of the various legal questions raised the Federal Court refused to revoke its appointment of O'Neil, as commissioner, took an appeal.

When counsel for Welch and Cooper today asserted that Welch had no interest in the company other than that of a stockholder, Deputy Attorney General Hargest declared that Welch was one of the two active managers of the company.

WOULD FORM BUREAU OF STREET CLEANING Councils Get Bill to Divorce Work From Highways Branch

A bill to create a Bureau of Street Cleaning and separating it from the Bureau of Highways, with which it has been merged since the Blankenburg administration went into office, was introduced in the Common Council today by Chairman Gaffney, of Councils' Finance Committee.

The present street-cleaning system of the city is under Chief William H. Connel, of the Bureau of Highways. Connel has been regarded as the foe of street-cleaning contractors because of the heavy fines he imposed on them for delinquency in their work.

No provision is made for the appointment of a chief for the proposed Bureau of Street Cleaning, but a transfer of $70,000 from the Common Council to the proposed Bureau funds is asked in the bill to provide for the salaries of three assistant engineers, twenty-two inspectors and street-cleaning division under Chief Connel.

The Gaffney bill further provides for the immediate transfer of $15,000 to take care of organizing the new bureau.

THREE HOME DEFENSE BILLS INTRODUCED Provide Maintenance of Soldiers' Families, Drill Grounds and Wireless Telegraph

Three bills looking toward Home Defense were introduced in Councils this afternoon. A skeleton bill providing for the maintenance of the families of the men on call for the ground at Broad and Arch streets, introduced by Councilman Isaac Hertz, chairman of the Joint Special Committee of Councils for the maintenance and relief of families of soldiers who go to the front, introduced by Councilman Hertz, and a bill to amend the act in relation to the amount necessary and that Councils will appropriate this. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

Edward Haws, of the Thirty-seventh ward, introduced a measure directing the Mayor to enter into negotiations with the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Arts regarding the renting by the city of the plot of ground at Broad and Arch streets to be used as a recruiting station and drill ground.

The bill carried with it an appropriation of $2000 and was referred to the Committee on City Property. The money will be used to pay the ground rental of the station in 1917.

A bill introduced in Common Council providing for the appointment of three men to look into the matter of establishing wireless communication between the Department of Public Safety and the various police stations was introduced by the Council. The committee will be urged at the next session. It was argued that the present system of communication does not provide against the crippling of police stations by any one who has access to the telephone wires.

U. S. Anthem in Medley. An ordinance to prohibit playing the U. S. Anthem as a medley with other music for dancing was read in Council today and referred to the Public Safety Committee. The request was made to Councils by Mayor Joseph E. Potts, of the Second Class, of Sixty-third ward.

Defense of State in Hands of 15 Leaders

A meeting of these directors sitting as a general council was immediately arranged and with the exception of three, whose engagements would not permit attendance, all met in this city this morning and have been in consultation since 10 a. m. The meeting was carried through the luncheon hour and in the afternoon the council broke itself up into subcommittee conferences for discussion of detail.

The headquarters of the committee of public safety will, according to the decision of today's council and the executive committee, be located at Philadelphia.

The committee of public safety, comprising more than 200 members, will be subdivided and each member appointed by the various present activities so as to give the Commonwealth the benefit of their wide experience and skill. The executive committee felt that only in this way could the urgent defensive needs of the Commonwealth be provided for and its citizens assured of a wise expenditure of money and effort to result in the highest percentage of efficiency and maximum of result.

The executive committee met in a strenuous session today, discussing out details and seeing that nothing was overlooked. It is believed that the Legislature, on learning of the high type of men heading the various departments, will stop its hesitating and make an appropriation which will comprehend the vast undertakings contemplated.

MINISTERS' FUND ENTERS SUIT AGAINST TAXATION

Presbyterian Nonprofit-making Body Claims State Law Exemption Suit to prevent the city from collecting a personal property tax of $5629 from the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund was begun today in Common Pleas Court No. 1. The Ministers' Fund is a life insurance corporation which has been operating since 1912 for profit, according to statements in the bill in equity directed against the Board of Revision of Taxes.

That the city taxing authorities ever obtained a tax return for the $5629 was a mistake, the equity bill says, because in 1912 non-profit-making insurance corporations were exempted by the Legislature from being taxed on personal property. It is stated that this act had been passed, some one in the fund offices filed out a tax return blank for fund personal property worth $1,407,283. When the passage of the act was finally discovered the Board of Revision of Taxes asserted that the tax must be paid anyway, because the return had been made and the assessment confirmed.

LONDON STOCK MARKET

Business Is Small as Holidays Approach—Americans Nominal LONDON, April 5.—A holiday feeling prevailed on the Stock Exchange today and little business was transacted. The market generally was firm. The exchange will be closed tomorrow, Holy Saturday and Easter Monday.

The gilt-edged section was hard on the reduction in the Bank of England's rate of discount. Allied bonds were strong, and especially French 5s, which touched 8 3/4. A further break in Teutonic exchange at Amsterdam also helped.

It was necessary to bridge several sections of the mill over the stream. A report that the fire might have been started by a German sympathizer is given no credence.

Americans Aboard Five Ships Sunk

Following is the disposition of Captain O'Brien, steamship Aztec: At 9:30 p. m., April 1, nine miles west southwest of Light, while on bridge captain saw a large flash on portside forward to bridge. Simultaneously heard an explosion. Explosion not loud, but appeared to have great force, and boat soon listed to one side. No submarine was seen.

Ship settled back, began to sink forward, listed to starboard and continued to sink very rapidly. Explosion disarranged lighting system and wireless. Ship in complete darkness. All efforts made to dis- cover presence of submarine, but nothing was seen. After ten minute ship was completely under forward, stove shining, but sky overcast with frequent rain and hail squalls; light westerly gale blowing and sea rough.

About 9:46 Captain gave order to abandon ship. Three boats launched. First and third starboard side and second on port side. Captain tried to get ship's papers, but when he returned on deck boat No. 2 was gone. According to the mate she had been broken up getting away from ship, being on weather side. Boats No. 1 and 3 successfully launched, containing all the remaining crew. Owing to darkness and rain it was impossible to tell who was in boat No. 2.

No. 1 boat contained nineteen men—Lieutenant O'Brien, eleven armed guard, first mate, third mate, third engineer and two crew members. O'Brien and captain saw no trace of No. 2 boat. No. 3 boat was lost sight of after fifteen minutes. Aztec was visible after twenty minutes, then disappeared in rain squall.

Aztec had colors flying over stern, but carried no lights at time of sinking. After three hours No. 1 boat picked up by French patrol boat, which, after unsuccessful search until daylight for other two boats, proceeded to Brest, where survivors landed on 2d inst.

$14,000,000 SOUGHT IN DU PONT SUIT

Eleanor Du Pont Perot Seeks Return of That Amount to Treasury

WILMINGTON, Del., April 5.—The now-famous Du Pont powder suit, the result of a family dispute, took on a new angle today when Eleanor du Pont Perot, one of the complainants, filed a suit with Judge E. S. Bradford in the United States District Court here this afternoon against E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and its directors.

The complaint charges the diversion of $14,767,920 from the treasury to purchase stock used in bonus distribution. An accounting and restoration of the money to the treasury is asked for. The court issued a writ, which is returnable on April 24.

The du Pont suit is one of the most interesting business suits which has ever been tried in any court in the United States. This trial is the result of questions at issue in the case of the late Mr. Perot, president of the company and the du Pont Securities Company, and his associates purchased the stock for themselves as individuals.

In the first hearings held on the suit, it was alleged that the late Mr. Perot, president of the company and the du Pont Securities Company, and his associates purchased the stock for themselves as individuals.

As the twelve jurymen filed out of the courtroom it so happened that Ezekiel Hackney, probation officer of the criminal courts, entered and recognized one of the jurymen as an old criminal.

Mr. Hackney said he felt it his duty at once to inform Judge Rogers that he had recognized one of the jurors as an ex-convict.

He first stated his knowledge to Thomas J. Meagher and the latter at once became interested, particularly as he is counsel in several cases which are listed for trial before the same panel of jurors next week.

Meagher and Hackney approached the bar of the court and Hackney then told the judge his story.

Judge Rogers said he regretted very much that he had not known there was an alleged convict serving on the jury sooner. Meagher then explained that he was counsel in a number of cases listed for trial before the same panel of jurors next week and in the interest of his clients he felt that the discovery warranted immediate investigation.

Judge Rogers said the court was of the same opinion and he would direct that such an investigation be immediately made and would appoint Meagher and Hackney to conduct such an investigation. Mr. Meagher said he would start the investigation immediately.
