

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Flag Day for Italian Red Cross—Severe Accident
Deplored by Nancy Wynne—Other Things Are Discussed

DO NOT be surprised if a charming young girl with dark flashing eyes and a smile that could melt the coldest of hearts attempts to pin a flag or some other patriotic emblem on your coat. If you do not have one, you are not of these damsels do it, for if you are not of these damsels you are liable to be stopped all day for the same purpose. Perhaps these same small Italian girls are so busy with their own little affairs that they do not have time to buy an emblem from each other. In that case neatly tuck your little flag in your pocket and see how many more chances you may get to be tagged for the cause of Italy and her Red Cross.

You see, when the Italian commission comes here next week their fellow countrymen who are now citizens of the United States are anxious to give them at least $100,000 toward the Red Cross, and this means has been taken to add to the already large fund of more than $500,000 which has been collected from the Italian colony in this city.

I hear that more than eighteen Italian moving-picture theatre owners have volunteered to donate one day's receipts to the cause, so it is quite sure there will be a tidy sum to hand to Prince Udine and his colleagues when they finally arrive at the home of liberty.

FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Packard, of Villanova, will be very sorry to hear of the very serious accident which befell their son, George Packard, Jr., about a week ago. He was riding in a farmer's wagon about the place and fell to the ground, and as I heard the story, and I think the facts are correct, the wagon ran over his face and he is very badly hurt. The child is in the hospital, and the doctors hope to be able to remove some of the scars of the very severe cuts.

MRS. HENRY BRINTON COXE, who has so efficiently discharged her duties as chairman of Department 10, of the American Red Cross Auxiliary, which, when it was called on last summer to lead the troops passing through this city was not a Red Cross, but a part of the National Preparedness League, which later merged with the Red Cross, has resigned, and in her place is Mrs. Theodore W. Cramp. Mrs. Cramp presided yesterday at a meeting of the chapter at Mrs. Deane's house, at Eighteenth and Locust streets. Mrs. Cramp joining her later, also Mrs. Tom Robins, who is one of the vice chairmen.

Considering the torrid weather just befalling yesterday's storm broke it was rather late to have gathered together some forty odd women. And one thing which struck me particularly was that so many of them declared their intention of remaining home a part of if not the entire summer and said they would hold themselves in readiness for the calls when they came. The making of huge vats of coffee was quite a problem for a while. Though many held coffee-making to be one of their achievements, none could be found to volunteer to make it in such wholesale quantities, until finally Mrs. Curtis Patterson offered to lend her cook for the emergency. NANCY WYNNE.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dillingham, of Baltimore, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beulah Edith Dillingham, to Mr. Edward Hazlehurst, son of the late Edward Hazlehurst, of this city.

Mr. Franklin T. Clark, whose marriage to Miss Katharine R. Conger takes place in Princeton June 23, will entertain his best man and ushers at dinner at the Germantown Cricket Club Thursday, June 21.

Mrs. William Townsend Wright, of St. David's, left for Newport Wednesday afternoon, where she will spend the summer. Mr. Wright will go up on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale, of Stratford, left on Wednesday for a motor trip to Washington, D. C.

Miss Charlotte Brown, of Drum Rock, Chestnut Hill, is spending several days as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meigs, of Bryn Mawr.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard T. Converse, of Rosemont, will entertain at dinner this evening in honor of Miss Helen Mary Austin and Mr. Harry Pollard Converse, whose wedding will take place tomorrow afternoon. The guests will be members of the bridal party, among whom are Miss Irene Austin, Miss Anna A. Austin, Miss Jean Liester Austin, Miss Lydia Y. Craig, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Mary Pierce and Miss Ellen Converse. Miss Austin gave a luncheon for her bridal party on Wednesday and Miss Craig gave a luncheon and yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Meyer, of 420 West Chestnut street, Chestnut Hill, will entertain her bridesmaids and bridesmaids at dinner on Monday night of next week. The guests will be Miss Margaret Emack, Miss Helen Foster, Miss Susan Herbertson, Miss Harriet Street, Miss Frances O. Merly, Miss Sarah Roberts and Miss Mildred Howlett. Miss Meyer's marriage to Mr. J. Beresford Emack will take place the following Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles G. Wetter, of 4035 Pine street, has gone to Fort Niagara, where her son, Mr. Charles H. Wetter, is training with the officers' reserve corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fitch, of 3110 West Coulter street, Germantown, will occupy their new home in the Huntingdon Valley after July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flavell, of Wayne avenue, Germantown, are spending some time with friends in Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. McKeone announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss M. Louise McKeone, to Mr. George Gardner. Mr. Gardner is at present a sergeant in the United States marine corps and is on duty with that branch of the service in France and upon his return home will be married.

MRS. JOHN WHITE GEARY, JR.
Mrs. Geary was Miss Elizabeth E. Wister. Her marriage to Mr. Geary took place yesterday in the Lady Chapel of St. Luke's Church, Germantown.

banquet at the Old York Road Country Club on Tuesday night.

Mrs. L. R. Hawk, of Oak Lane, gave a luncheon and "500" on Tuesday at the Old York Road Country Club.

Mrs. Vanetta Huppette, of 4668 Wayne avenue, Germantown, has as her guests Miss Mary Shuster, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Mabel Weston, of Baltimore; Mr. John M. Edlin, of Texas; Mr. Read Leonard, of the Philippine Islands, and Mr. Clinton Lyberg, of Columbus, O.

Mrs. Millard R. Berger, of 5185 Warrington avenue, gave a luncheon last evening followed by games and dancing in honor of Miss Elizabeth Sampson, whose marriage to Mr. William John Jamison will shortly take place. The guests at the shower were Mrs. Anna Sampson, Mrs. John Jamison, Mrs. Edwin Tuttle, Mrs. A. E. Telfer, Mrs. Orlean R. Trill, Mrs. Frank Corlan, Sr., Mrs. Frank Corlan, Jr., Mrs. Clara Seal, Miss Marie Ziegler, Miss Caroline Waldron, Elizabeth Jamison, Miss Marie Coleworthy, Miss Isabelle Coleworthy, Miss Mary Kerkeslager and Mrs. Nina Powell.

Mrs. C. Perry Wentz, of 4400 Walnut street, and her son and daughter will leave this week for their summer home in Scranton, Pa.

Mrs. Edmond Graf, of 927 South Sixteenth street, is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Richard Smith at Fort Landen, Pa.

The Gamma Chapter of the Phi Delta Psi Sorority elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Miss Marian P. Matthews; vice president, Miss Nellie Decker; treasurer, Miss Margaret Ermico; secretary, Miss Marion McCallahan. A arch chapter, Miss Francis Hallahan and Mrs. Dorothy Clark, Mrs. Samuel Frame, a member, entertained the chapter last evening at her home, 6047 Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Slattery, of 1008 South Sixth street, have opened their home at Cheltenham for the summer.

A delightful birthday surprise party was given Miss Sarah Smith at her home, 1462 North Sixth street, by a number of the young school set. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Newkirk, Miss Lillian Shriver, Miss Gladys Crangle, Miss Irene McCurry, Miss Florence Humm, Mr. Arthur Bookmeyer, Mr. Arthur Houchens, Mr. Carl Leonard, Mr. Graham Keller and Mr. Frank Wolf.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Weston, of 1923 Jackson street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Carolyn Weston, to Mr. Frank J. Bradley, on Tuesday, June 12. The ceremony took place at the Church of St. Monica, Seventeenth and Bitter streets. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, after a wedding trip, will make their home in Erie, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Lefkowitz, formerly of this city, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Hettie Lefkowitz, to Mr. Jules Rosenberg, of New York.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the North Philadelphia Business Men's Association held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Robinson Building, Germantown avenue and Junia street, with the president, Mrs. Priscilla Wrigley, presiding. This association is an emergency aid for the community, its object being to relieve all the needy of the section. A strawberry fete will be given by the auxiliary on Tuesday night, June 19, in its assembly room. Assisting the president are Mrs. Samuel Gordon, vice president, Edward E. Ziegler, secretary; Mrs. W. Stokes, Mrs. William Lomas, Mrs. William Robinson, Mrs. H. Heckler, Mrs. Samuel Robinson and Mrs. H. Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boyer, of 3431 North Eighteenth street, have given in their summer home.

Mrs. Charles McKner, of Ontario and Nineteenth streets, is spending some time in Ocean City.

Miss Hannah Frith Evans, of West Ontario street, has gone to the Wesley Inn, Ways, Pa., to remain through the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jennings and their family, of 3522 North Eighteenth street, will leave on Saturday for their summer home in Ocean City.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Rosenblatt and their son, Mr. Herbert Rosenblatt, of 1256 West Erie avenue, are occupying their cottage in Atlantic City, and will remain at the shore until autumn.

Mrs. William Hugh McConnell gave a lawn party Wednesday at Fisher's Park for the members of the T. W. V. Club of Toga. Her guests included Miss Florence Williams, Miss Dorothy Wardle, Miss Lida Taylor, Miss Katherine White, Miss May Taylor, Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Vera Westcott, Miss Ashby Yates and Miss Vera Welzel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Burleigh have returned from their wedding journey to Buffalo and through the West and are now at home at 1912 North Marine street. The bride is Miss Olive E. Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stewart, of Christiana, Pa.

Mrs. Theodora Baldwin, of 4216 Pechin street, entertained on Tuesday evening at her home. Mrs. Clifford McMaster, Mrs. William Steiner, Mrs. Wilbur Steiner, Mrs. Walter S. Barley, Mrs. Robert White-side and Mrs. Vernon Frame were the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ingham have returned from their wedding journey and will be at home at 2716 Lancaster avenue. The bride was Miss Emma J. Ingham, daughter of Mr. George Schuch, of 3441 Ridge avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hey have returned from their wedding trip and are receiving at 6516 Lincoln drive. The bride was formerly of City Line, Roxborough. Her bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon S. Neill, of 1624 South Broad street.

LEOPOLD-FLOOD
An unusually pretty wedding took place last night at 7:30 o'clock in St. Peter's Church, Roxborough. The bride, Miss Annette Flood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Flood, of Wayne avenue and Horner street, became the bride of Mr. Leopold Flood, also of Germantown. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward P. Keeling, rector of the church. Miss Flood was given by four aunts, and the bridegroom a very charming frock of white satin and heavy silver jewelry. The bride wore a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Harry Butterworth was mistress of honor and Miss Emily was maid of honor. They selected frocks of apricot colored tulle, covered with overdresses of tulle the same shade. A smart touch was given by four apricot-colored tulle feathers artistically arranged among the folds of the tulle, giving the effect of pockets, which are so much the vogue these days. Their hats were of apricot tulle trimmed with French flowers and they carried well-fashioned bouquets of ward roses, pink sweet peas and larkspur. The bridesmaids included Miss Florine Butterworth, Miss Margaret Puffus, Miss Helen Gray, Miss Edith Burk Estabrook and Miss Elizabeth Alloway, who wore gowns of turquoise blue tulle, with overdresses of blue tulle, trimmed with blue ostrich feathers. They wore hats of turquoise blue trimmed with French flowers and carried old-fashioned bouquets of ward roses, pink sweet peas and larkspur. Two little flower girls were Miss Edith Flood and Miss Gretchen Leopold, who wore scarlet frocks and carried baskets of sweethearts.

Mr. Leopold had Mr. E. E. Price as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Harry Butterworth, Mr. Wesley Williams, Mr. Herbert Leopold, Mr. E. H. Burk, Estabrook, Mr. Samuel Marshall and Dr. Raymond Leopold.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The church was decorated with pink bouquets and roses. Flood was gowned in real lace combined with silver. She wore a hat of pink chiffon trimmed with wheat.

After an extended wedding journey Mr. Leopold and his bride will live in Minneapolis, Minn.

HEYDRIK-EYLES
The marriage of Mr. William J. Heydrick and Miss Helen Esther Eyles took place last evening at 7 o'clock in the Church of the Atonement, Fort-seventh street and Kluge-vening avenue. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Charles W. Stricker. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by Miss Ethel Irene Brewer as maid of honor. The two little flower girls were Miss Helen A. Little and Miss Elizabeth H. Little, nieces of the bridegroom. Mr. Charles H. Eyles was best man, and the following gentlemen acted as ushers: Mr. Reed Kayser, Mr. Francis H. Taylor, Mr. Clifford E. Hood and Mr. Herbert M. Packer.

A small reception for the immediate families and a very few intimate friends followed the ceremony, and was held at the Rittenhouse.

BROOKS-ALLEN
The wedding of Miss Agnes E. Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Allen, of 42 Winona avenue and Mr. Marion Courtland Brooks took place today in the West Side Presbyterian Church in Germantown, at 4 o'clock. The Rev. William Purser Lee performed the ceremony. Miss Allen was gowned in velveteen satin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Miss Allen's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. August Blie. Mr. Brooks had Mr. Richard Brooks as best man. After the ceremony a reception followed for the two families. After an extended trip to Texas and Louisiana, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will live at 424 Queen lane, Germantown.

Mr. Clarkson asked the "Army and Navy mothers" to invite the sailors, in small as well as large groups, to their homes, and suggested that of automobile hire and a number of games might not be amiss in the life of a "jacks".

J. Lewis Clark, of the international staff of the Y. M. C. A., outlined the work of that institution in war camps abroad, and proposed that if army cantons are established near the barracks in the United States thousands of American women would be employed in "servicing soldiers" before they were sent to France.

Hold Conference With E. L. Tustin, of Food Conservation Committee, and Discuss Suggestions

Ernest I. Tustin, of the committee on food conservation of the United States National Tea, called a conference yesterday to discuss means of conserving the State food supply. Mahlon Newton, president of the Philadelphia Hotelmen's Association, and J. Miller Frazier, president of the Pennsylvania State Hotelmen's Association, submitted suggestions as follows:

"In a communication to all hotels, restaurants and rest hearing houses request that they conserve water by turning off the one and one-quarter pounds, duckings and sucking pigs be eliminated from the bill of fare.

"Also suggest to hotels operated on the American plan that menus be reduced in number of articles offered as much as possible, and have a printed request to patrons to exercise care and economy in ordering meals.

"Further suggest the use of sea food where feasible and curial the use of beef and old potatoes.

"Impress the necessity of using reasonable portions daily, particularly of such items as potatoes. Green vegetables and fruit should be used as much as possible.

"Also suggest that all employees be instructed to co-operate in making a saving in every department.

"In larger houses, suggest that printed cards be placed on the tables, calling attention to what is being accomplished, and request co-operation in patron's own homes."

It was pointed out that the hotels here serve an average of 50,000 persons a day, and that the chief waste is in the homes. The Union League has notified all members that its menus have been cut down, and asks for care and individual supervision in the homes of members.

THE GRIZZLY KING

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
The Author of "Kazan"

THE STORY THIS FAR
High up in the mountains of British Columbia, in the Great Divide, lives Thor, King of the Grizzlies. He is a big, powerful fellow, with a mane of black hair, a nose like a bulldog, and a voice that can be heard for miles. He is the ruler of the grizzlies, and he is a very wise and brave leader.

CHAPTER XIV—(Continued)
SITTING, he was afraid to come out. These strange pursuers that had come up out of the valley had filled him with a deadly terror. Pioneers had told him that the grizzlies killed and devoured man as they feasted. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

THE GRIZZLY KING

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
The Author of "Kazan"

THE STORY THIS FAR
High up in the mountains of British Columbia, in the Great Divide, lives Thor, King of the Grizzlies. He is a big, powerful fellow, with a mane of black hair, a nose like a bulldog, and a voice that can be heard for miles. He is the ruler of the grizzlies, and he is a very wise and brave leader.

CHAPTER XIV—(Continued)
SITTING, he was afraid to come out. These strange pursuers that had come up out of the valley had filled him with a deadly terror. Pioneers had told him that the grizzlies killed and devoured man as they feasted. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

THE GRIZZLY KING

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
The Author of "Kazan"

THE STORY THIS FAR
High up in the mountains of British Columbia, in the Great Divide, lives Thor, King of the Grizzlies. He is a big, powerful fellow, with a mane of black hair, a nose like a bulldog, and a voice that can be heard for miles. He is the ruler of the grizzlies, and he is a very wise and brave leader.

CHAPTER XIV—(Continued)
SITTING, he was afraid to come out. These strange pursuers that had come up out of the valley had filled him with a deadly terror. Pioneers had told him that the grizzlies killed and devoured man as they feasted. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning.

He had never before seen a grizzly, but he had heard of his strength and his cunning. He had never before seen