By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

For the first time during the series with Cleveland, which ended today, the Athletics blanked the Indians in the first inning...

Ray Eaten was suffering with a sore thumb and was given a day off, and Wally Schang went to third base.

The Athletics then went in and put together two runs. Umpire Ornton, stationed at third, discarded his coat because of the intense heat just after the game got under way.

Graney singled to left. Chapman fled to Bode. On the hit-and-run play Grover made a fine catch of Speaker's line drive and threw to McNinnis, doubling up Graney.

RELIEF COMING BUT HOT WAVE HAS KILLED 12

Weather Wizards Predict It Will Be Cooler by Tomorrow

41 PERSONS DIED TODAY

Many Are Prostrated and Mills and Factories Are Forced to Shut Down

Table with columns: Time, Today, Yesterday, Total, Min. Shows temperature readings for various times of the day.

Forty-three persons died from the heat in Philadelphia today. With the new fatalities the list of heat victims since the wave arrived Monday is raised to 120. Sixty-four died yesterday. Tuesday's toll was thirteen.

Relief is in sight. Forecaster Bliss, of the Weather Bureau, made the welcome announcement that the worst would be over by tonight. With favorable winds tomorrow should be from six to eight degrees cooler than today and almost comfortable.

Today, however, was equalled only by Tuesday for stifling heat. In fact the higher humidity generally caused even more severe suffering. The mercury was at 95 by 3 o'clock and promised to go higher before nightfall. Forecaster Bliss said 95 might be reached before the cool wave at nightfall he hoped for.

GRIS OVERCOME AT WORK

Seven girls were overcome by heat today while working in the plant of Valkone Dye and Fine Works, Mascher and Turner streets. Five were treated in the mill, and two were taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

More than 1000 horses have died during the heat. Since Monday watering wagons of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have finished thousands of buckets of water to horses throughout the city and in addition thousands of thirsty pedestrians were supplied with drinking water.

Frank B. Rutherford, operative manager of the society has appealed to some of the largest teamsters in the city to keep as many horses off the streets during the hot wave as possible to avoid their being overcome by the excessive heat.

This afternoon after the close of the New York Stock Exchange the Governors had a meeting and acted favorably on a petition to close the exchange on Saturday because of the excessive heat. Similar petitions were circulated on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and the New York Produce Exchange. Horace M. Lee, secretary of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, said that no action had been taken in Philadelphia, but that the Governors would probably hold a meeting tomorrow morning. It is expected that the exchange here will be closed also.

To make matters worse the humidity today is 76, which makes the heat seem more intolerable. The humidity yesterday was only 62.

The Weather Bureau in Washington announced today that the almost unprecedented heat wave which has gripped the entire East Coast will weaken and somewhat tonight. According to the announcement all indications are that the mercury will airplane skyward again after a short spell of cooler weather.

Reports show that the hot spell has broken somewhat in the Lake Region and in the Ohio Valley. It is due to break here about tonight.
