

LATIN PLOT BY LUXBURG BARED

Teuton Intrigue Sought to Link Chili, Argentina and Bolivia

AGAINST UNITED STATES

Lansing Publishes Telegrams Showing Former German Minister's Connivance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Secretary Lansing has made public the complete record of Count Luxburg, former German charge d'affaires to Argentina, in the German Government's South American intrigues.

One of the messages revealed that Luxburg had induced the President of Argentina to sign a secret agreement with Chili and Bolivia, a "mutual rapprochement for protection against North America."

In Latin-American diplomatic quarters here it is regarded as certain that the disclosures will result quickly in an Argentine declaration of war against Germany.

The disclosures of Secretary Lansing include forty secret telegrams which passed between Count Luxburg and the German Foreign Office in July, August and September, when relations between Germany and Argentina were strained over submarine warfare.

The correspondence deals largely with efforts made by the German minister to prevent any rupture of relations with Argentina, and throughout the dispatches there was a warning to the Government of Mexico, in many of the dispatches.

Evidence of the apparent pliability of the Argentine President and of the opposition of Minister of Foreign Affairs Pascual de Mexico, in many of the dispatches.

The disclosures complete the story of Luxburg's intrigues, which gave out the famous "spurious vernekt" messages. They are of importance chiefly because they show the President of Argentina, in many of the dispatches, to be particularly interested in this time, when Luis Cabrera, envoy of the Government of Mexico, is on his way to Argentina to attend a so-called neutrality conference.

CONVICT ASKS PAROLE FOR YOUNGER BROTHER

When But One Release is Possible, Makes Generous Christmas Sacrifice

TRENTON, Dec. 21.—In connection with announcement by the State Board of Pardons of paroles there came to light today a real human interest story—that of a young man's sacrifice in order that his brother, who is even younger, might be set free.

Albert and Perry Vresland, of Passaic county, are the youths. Albert, who was 16 years old when sentenced five years ago to serve from nine to thirty-three years for burglary, petitioned the board for parole.

Perry, who is twenty-four and who was sent to prison two years ago for a term of five to fifteen years for larceny, also presented an application.

During consideration of the cases the board called the older boy before it and asked him which should be freed in the event that only one parole could be granted.

Without hesitation Perry urged that his brother be the one, saying that he had never had a chance, was younger and had been in prison longer.

Albert is free as a result, while Perry will spend his Christmas as a convict.

WARN AGAINST WILES OF FEMINE SPIES

Seductiveness of Women Agents Subject of Instructions to Sammees

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 21.

The seductiveness of beautiful women spies is made the subject of a special warning in a circular card issued to every officer and soldier in France by an adjutant general at the command of General Pershing.

"Under the heading in large type, 'Don't talk too much,' appears the following: 'Never forget we are at war with an enemy that is always listening. Always look with suspicion on strangers. Never tell anything of a confidential nature to anyone, as women are the most successful of all spies.'

This word of caution was issued because it has been the experience of every nation at war that women and girls find it easier to extract military secrets by the average soldier, while regarding questioners with suspicion, fails to comprehend the extent to which the enemy is using attractive girls.

The warning continues: 'The seductiveness of any one who asks questions of a military nature, or appears unduly interested in military information even though he may appear to be an American officer. Don't offer unasked information. You have no right to tell any one where any unit is or what military information comes into your possession unless it is your official duty to do so.'

"Don't tell him anything you wouldn't be willing for the enemy to hear. For similar reason never enter into correspondence with strangers. It is one of the many schemes used by enemy agents to gather information.

"On the street or in public places remember you have no right to discuss military matters nor the general situation, be loyal to your Government and your superior. He is one of the many schemes used by enemy agents to gather information.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

"Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

The forward says: 'Remember, the enemy has agents always alert to gather information. Details apparently unimportant may be combined with other details gathered by the enemy and become information of great importance to him. Don't forget that news travels so quickly under modern conditions that bits of information you write home may be in the hands of the enemy in a short time afterward.'

"Then follows a list of 'Don'ts' in writing letters and postcards barring references to localities, movement and condition of troops, losses and the effects of hostile fire.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN HAD SECRET PACT

Provided for Offensive Alliance Against Other Powers in China

AIMED AT U. S., IS BELIEF

Text of Treaty Made Public by Workmen and Soldiers' Soviet at Petrograd

PETROGRAD, Dec. 21.—Text of a secret Russo-Japanese treaty dated March 2, 1916, providing for an offensive alliance of those two powers against any other power attacking political supremacy in China, was made public by the Workmen and Soldiers' Soviet today.

The statement said it was believed this pact referred to the United States. The treaty was signed by former Foreign Minister Sazonoff and Baron Motono, Japanese Minister to Russia, who later became Foreign Minister. It expires in July, 1921.

A high Foreign Office leader today declared that the peace literature circulated by the Soviet had "greatly influenced" Germany on the Russian front. This German, it was declared, "no longer desire to fight on any front."

The newspaper Isvestia today published letters from Kaiser Wilhelm to the Russian Czar, written in the summer of 1914, in which the German Emperor blamed England for harboring anarchists and proposed joint protest by other European nations.

The newspaper alleged that a visit of a British squadron to Russia about that time was for the purpose of strengthening the ultra-liberal party in Russia.

JAPAN WOULD STRIKE GERMANY IN SIBERIA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Germany was anxious to strike at Japan by occupying Siberia, according to advice reaching here today.

This information, coupled with Russian publication of an alleged Russo-Japanese agreement to pounce on any nation attempting supremacy in China, created a profound impression in official and diplomatic quarters.

Some Allied diplomats were said to favor the Siberian move, in view of the German warlike have notes.

"Don't express your opinion on military matters nor the general situation, be loyal to your Government and your superior. He is one of the many schemes used by enemy agents to gather information.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

The forward says: 'Remember, the enemy has agents always alert to gather information. Details apparently unimportant may be combined with other details gathered by the enemy and become information of great importance to him. Don't forget that news travels so quickly under modern conditions that bits of information you write home may be in the hands of the enemy in a short time afterward.'

"Then follows a list of 'Don'ts' in writing letters and postcards barring references to localities, movement and condition of troops, losses and the effects of hostile fire.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

The forward says: 'Remember, the enemy has agents always alert to gather information. Details apparently unimportant may be combined with other details gathered by the enemy and become information of great importance to him. Don't forget that news travels so quickly under modern conditions that bits of information you write home may be in the hands of the enemy in a short time afterward.'

BRITON AND SAMMEE MERGE HOLIDAY JOYS

Comrades of Two Nations Join in Christmas Celebration

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELDS, Dec. 21.

For the first time in history British Tommies and American Sammees will celebrate Christmas together.

Arrangements were being completed today for a series of mutual holiday "shindigs" and "blowouts"—circumstances permitting.

The Americans are widely scattered, making gatherings difficult, and in some cases impossible, but some sort of a celebration is to be held wherever Tommies and Sammees have a chance to meet.

British fighting men, like Americans, have their own gifts from home—gifts delivered even to dugouts and to their temporary shell-hole homes on the very first line.

Crackers, candy, cigarettes, cigars, games and other things which British home folks have learned from other war Christmasers are the sort of gifts which the entire fighting men want most, constitute the bulk of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Special dinners are being prepared, incidentally a canvass of the Tommies' presents.

Behind the lines, in ruined villages and camps, concerts and special vaudeville performances have been arranged as part of the British army's celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

BOY OF 14 HANGS HIMSELF

Brooded Over Chiding From Father on Purchase of Shoes

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Raymond G. Hogan, fourteen years old, a member of the Freshman class in the Stephen High School, committed suicide by hanging to a bedpost at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hogan, at Steelton.

He wrote two or three letters "good-bye" and left a note, reading: "The boy recently bought a pair of shoes and his father chided him mildly for the purchase. His companions said he brooded over this matter."

Contributions of more than $100 and pledges of about $50 in addition have been obtained in behalf of the fatherless children of France through efforts of a committee of the Emergency Aid.

The newspaper Isvestia today published letters from Kaiser Wilhelm to the Russian Czar, written in the summer of 1914, in which the German Emperor blamed England for harboring anarchists and proposed joint protest by other European nations.

The newspaper alleged that a visit of a British squadron to Russia about that time was for the purpose of strengthening the ultra-liberal party in Russia.

"Don't express your opinion on military matters nor the general situation, be loyal to your Government and your superior. He is one of the many schemes used by enemy agents to gather information.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

The forward says: 'Remember, the enemy has agents always alert to gather information. Details apparently unimportant may be combined with other details gathered by the enemy and become information of great importance to him. Don't forget that news travels so quickly under modern conditions that bits of information you write home may be in the hands of the enemy in a short time afterward.'

"Then follows a list of 'Don'ts' in writing letters and postcards barring references to localities, movement and condition of troops, losses and the effects of hostile fire.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

The forward says: 'Remember, the enemy has agents always alert to gather information. Details apparently unimportant may be combined with other details gathered by the enemy and become information of great importance to him. Don't forget that news travels so quickly under modern conditions that bits of information you write home may be in the hands of the enemy in a short time afterward.'

"Then follows a list of 'Don'ts' in writing letters and postcards barring references to localities, movement and condition of troops, losses and the effects of hostile fire.

"Don't allow friends at home to publish your letters in newspapers. Don't put too much faith in the discretion of the people you write to. They may be very patriotic, yet quite unable to recognize an enemy agent or what information may be of value to the enemy.

Then follows a section, informing the soldiers what they may write and to whom, instructing that no communication shall be had whatsoever with enemy prisoners of war.

Another paragraph instructs the men to carry no notebooks, maps or paper containing military information, as they may be stolen by enemy pickpockets or captured.

46 KILLED, 40 HURT IN RAILROAD SMASH

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 21.—Forty-six were dead today and forty injured, several probably fatally, in a rear-end collision between two passenger trains at Shepherdsville, Ky., twenty-three miles south of here.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

The collision occurred at 10:30 p. m. when the Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, crashed into the rear of the Hardtco, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train.

WILL PERMIT CZAR TO LEAVE RUSSIA

Slavs Grant Request of Germans That Nicholas and Family Be Freed

PETROGRAD, Dec. 19 (delayed), via London, Dec. 21.

Former Czar Nicholas and his family are to be permitted to seek haven in some other country than Russia.

It was authoritatively stated today that a decree would be issued Thursday allowing members of the imperial family, "including those at Tobolsk," to "go abroad" in compliance with their request.

This action of the Bolsheviks is due to insistence of Germans in the armistice negotiations.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

The German negotiators, it was stated, had raised the question of disposition of the former members of royalty at Brest-Litovsk. The Bolshevik leaders asked the opinion of the Grand Duke Nicholas Mikhalovich and Paul Alexandrovich, who suggested that all members of the royal family be allowed to leave.

AUDIT OF INSURANCE FUND BOOKS DELAYED

Special Accountary Unable to Get Access to Compensation Board Records Now

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.

When Miles M. Dawson, the New York actuary engaged by Auditor General Snyder to make a special audit of the State compensation insurance fund, came here today and asked to see the books he was told that he would first have to get permission of the board.

The chairman of this board is Harmon M. Kephardt, State Treasurer, who is slightly ill at a Harrisburg hotel, and there will be no meeting of the board until January. Dawson reported to Snyder but made no other efforts.

The Auditor General said that Dawson had come here merely to get a general view of the situation and had no intention of making a formal examination at this time. He added, however, that the audit will be made when he is ready.

Members of the board have questioned the right of the Auditor General to withhold the pay of clerks and other employees of the bureau until the board explains the nature of their duties and says whether or not their services actually are necessary.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

The Auditor General's reflections on the conduct of the insurance funds affairs were made for the purpose of weakening the compensation scheme and are therefore an attack on labor itself.

HERE ARE THE GIFTS FOR LAST-MINUTE SHOPPING: Prompt Deliveries, Complete Stocks, Shop on a Transfer to Save Time. Lit Brothers. ONE YELLOW TRADING STAMP WITH EVERY 10c PURCHASE ALL DAY.

Jewelry and Silverware—Elegant Assortments—the Markings Are Astonishingly Small. $5 and $6 Silver-Plated MESH BAGS $2.95. Sensational Values at... $12.98, $15, $18, $20 to $35. $15 Diamond La Vallieres $12.50.

FURS: These Are Days of Superb Values! Thanks to these savings of 20 per cent to 30 per cent on the season's smartest furs, many a woman will be the proud owner of a new fur coat or set this Christmas. SCARFS $62.50 Taupe Fox Scarfs, $52.50.

Hundreds of Styles & Matchless Values in This Christmas Clearaway of OUTERWEAR. Fur-Trimmed and Plain $22.50 Poplin Suits, Special. Misses' Practical Coats $9.75.

A Wonderful Sale of MEN'S FINE WINTER OVERCOATS. Makes This the Ideal Place to Purchase This Most Useful and Practical Gift. $15 Values $20 Values $25 Values $28 Values. $11.50 $15 $17.75 $20.

Philadelphia Trust Company. AVIATION SERVICE. AVIATION work requires the most intensive sort of study and concentration and the aviator's mind should be kept free from worries of any nature. Men in this branch of the service may relieve themselves of the cares of managing their personal affairs by making our Trust Department responsible for their property, real or personal, irrespective of location.

Philadelphia Trust Company. 415 Chestnut Street :: 1415 Chestnut Street Philadelphia.