

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Private View of Paintings by Lieutenant Farre, of the French Aviation, Notable Affair—Little Betty Has That Rare Quality, Charm

The French war relief committee of the Emergency Aid is planning a wonderful evening at the Bellevue-Stratford on Friday at half past 8 o'clock. There will be the formal opening of an exhibition of paintings by Lieutenant Henri Farre, of the French aviation, and Commandant Georges Talamon will make an address. Lieutenant Benoit will explain the story of each. There will be many thrilling episodes. I can tell you, and Lieutenant Benoit speaks English perfectly, as his mother is English.

In addition to these officers, all of the French aviators, who are at present in the city will be there. Captain Hertzau, upon whose shoulders has fallen the mantle of that other hero, Georges Guynemer, unequalled during his brief life. (Captain Hertzau is only twenty-four years old and has twenty-six German machines to his credit, as well as numerous encounters.) Captain Flachaire, who has given two exhibitions of his skill in this city, is also exhibited.

After the film showing Lieutenant Farre will do the honors of the exhibition when the audience proceeds to the galleries in the south garden, where the original pictures will be. Many of them were painted by him from sketches taken in the clouds. Among the interesting pictures are portraits of his fellow aviators in their leather get-ups—one of the dead Guynemer, one of Flachaire, one of Hertzau, with all his honors on his breast—the Legion d'Honneur, two Belgian decorations, Croix de Guerre with no fewer than seventeen palms, representing as many citations. In fact, he has to wear two crosses that the seventeen palms may find room on the ribbon of the cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Stotesbury are going to give a dinner at their home, 1225 Walnut street, before the exhibition, and have asked a number of young girls and men to meet the young Frenchmen.

The private view is to be held on Friday, but the exhibition will be open April 10 to 14 inclusive, the naval ball on April 6, making it impossible to have the exhibit on view then.

THE opera was well attended last night. A good many persons, you know, are back from the South, and altogether it was a brilliant house. The news from the front is so much better this week it seems as if it were not out of place to be enjoying oneself. Mrs. Eddie Cassatt had her mother-in-law's box last night and entertained her sister, Miss Smith, Lois Cassatt Thayer and Kitty Brinton. The George Childs Drexels had Mrs. Tony Biddle in their box. Mrs. Biddle has been stopping with them for several days.

Without being awfully pretty, isn't Margaretta Jeanes a dear? She's so young and fresh and sort of sweet. She had on the faintest frock of white silk inset with blue roses and finished about the waist with a slender silver cord.

Another matron who looked perfectly charming was Mrs. Eli C. Price. She wore a lovely frock of turquoise blue, with much tulle of the same shade. Altogether it was a decidedly stunning house.

IN CHESTNUT HILL there lives a small mis, who, besides being one of those few fortunate ones blessed with curls and dimples, is also heavily endowed with that elusive quality known as charm. With such deadly weapons at her command it is easy to imagine the havoc she plays in the minds of Philadelphia's future citizens.

At the marriage of Miss Eugenia Barrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barrie, of Havertown, and Mr. Samuel Evans Slaymaker, Jr., of Philadelphia, which will take place on April 29 at the home of the bride, the attendants will be Miss Margaret Barrie, a sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miss Helen Jameson, Miss Gladys Jameson, Miss Marian Conroy, Miss Eleanor Flinn-Brown, Miss Louise Nickerson, and Miss Anne Genette Cottrell, bridesmaids.

Mrs. John T. Carpenter has opened Rose Cottage, Hadron, and is entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Freeman Bowley, and her child, Lieutenant Bowley is in France.

Dr. and Mrs. George Fales Baker, who have been spending the winter at the Bellevue-Stratford, will open Edgemere, their Lakewood home, on Saturday.

Mrs. M. A. Brew and Miss Eugenie Brew, of the Normandia Apartments, are spending some time at the St. Charles, Atlantic City.

The Rev. William R. Bonnell, O. P., who has recently been appointed chaplain of a cavalry regiment at Fort Myer, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Evander B. Bonnell, of West Spruce street, for a few days.

The Highland Park branch of the Red Cross will give an entertainment and musical concert at the Highland Park school, on West Chester street, on Saturday.

Mrs. John L. Fryburg is in charge of the affair, and a most attractive program has been arranged.

Mrs. McQuillan, who has been invalided home, will tell of some of her experiences while driving an ambulance in France. Corporal Ralph Tomlinson was to have sung, but his unit has just been sent to one of the embarkment ports.

The Benedict Club, which is composed of twenty-three young men, mostly pupils of St. Joseph's High School, will give a dance at the Philomusian Club tomorrow evening.

Mr. Louis Slattery is chairman of the entertainment committee and Mr. Joseph Timmons is president of the club.

Classes No. 11 and 20 of the Memorial Chapel of the Holy Communion, Twenty-seventh and Wharton streets, will give an entertainment followed by dancing on Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The program includes motion pictures showing a 220-mile ride over the Rocky Mountains on an electric train and a short talk by Miss Gertrude Harriet Shearer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry La Rue Thompson, of Sharpless avenue, Oak Lane, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son.

The marriage of Miss Virginia E. Adams and Lieutenant Louis M. Goehring was solemnized at the Hotel Rittenhouse at noon on Saturday, March 30. Miss Adams was attended by Miss Ariel Galtie, Ensign Tolford B. Null served as best man. The Rev. Mr. Blair officiated. The ceremony was followed by a luncheon and dancing. The decorations were carried out in the morning.

Mrs. Goehring is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Adams, of Lisbon, O. Lieutenant Goehring, who is stationed at Camp Meade, Md., is the son of Senator and Mrs. John M. Goehring, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The marriage of Miss Mary A. Dalton, of Chester, and Mr. Esch A. Kahlitz, of Media, will take place next Saturday evening in the Providence Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Chester, at 6 o'clock. The reception will be held at the home of the bride immediately after the ceremony.

The bride will be attended by her cousin, Miss Mary A. Goodhart, as maid of honor, and by Miss Doris V. Reinhard and Miss Anita Jones as bridesmaids. Lieutenant Clarence Rabbitt will act as best man for his brother, and the ushers will be Mr. Elwood Garrett, Mr. Allan B. Dalton, Mr. Thomas Fleck and Mr. Clarence D. Donaldson.

A dance was given last evening for the benefit of the Home for Aged Couples under the auspices of a meeting of the Rev. Mr. Miller, 4925 Osage avenue, at the Philomusian Club, 2844 Walnut street.

MRS. A. D. SMOKER AND HER PET

Mrs. Smoker appears to have her hands rather full with Mr. Dog, if we judge from the picture the cameraman took. But she has her hands full in other ways, too. She is chairman of a rummage sale, which is to be held on Friday and Saturday of this week at 127 South Twelfth street for the benefit of the Presbyterian Orphan Asylum, at Fifty-eighth and Chester avenue.

USAAC ACTORS WILL AID LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN

Ambulance Men in 'Good-by, Bill' to Work for Women's Committee Here

The "Usaac" players of the United States army ambulance corps, at Allentown, who open their comedy of soldier life, "Good-by, Bill," at the Garrick Theatre next Monday evening to raise funds for overseas athletics and recreation, have been enlisted in the Liberty Loan drive in Philadelphia. Eighty strong, the "Usaac" are to work under the direction of Mrs. J. Walter Thompson, chairman of the women's Liberty Loan committee, in accordance with plans laid out by Lieutenant Colonel Clarence B. Franklin, of the ambulance service.

Every day, when the soldier-players from the Allentown encampment are not busy with their duties, they assist in the drive, making speeches, joining in the house-to-house canvasses and touring the city in the interests of the loan. The "Usaac" band, from the University of California, is to make daily trips through the city to arouse enthusiasm in the loan campaign. The soldiers will travel on trucks especially donated for the purpose by several of the business firms in town.

In addition to their active participation along these lines in the campaign for war finance, the "Usaac" also will send propaganda every vaudeville house in the city. By permission of the military authorities, Private William B. Kernell, author of the music of "Good-by, Bill," has written a Liberty Loan song especially for the drive, which is to be heard for the first time in the soldiers' play next week and which has been offered to every playhouse in the city for the week. Officers of the "Usaac" have been informed the production of which the soldiers are bringing to this city.

Hunting a Husband

CHAPTER XXVIII Settling the Problem I HAVE not seen Jim yet. I wanted to get out in the open air. I thought if I could get the sunshine into my blood and the fresh air into my lungs I would be better able to come with things.

"And I did feel better. Happier and more lighthearted than I have been for a week. I rode home on the top of a bus; it is always the way to forget oneself, for when you are with people you can see that there are many other people who are far more unhappy than you. Your own problem is lightened in the thought that you are not alone in it."

"I was leaning over the side of the bus. I watched a big gray motor glide past and I saw a man in a dark suit and a voice with that entrancing touch of the Irish in it. 'It's luck a day that brings me here—' 'I'm curious, it was Captain Donovan who grasped the back of my seat. He was in his immaculate uniform, a target for women's eyes. I was rather proud, just vain, perhaps, when he sat down beside me. 'Where have you hidden yourself the last time I had seen you? It was clever of him to infer that I had kept myself away. But it was in keeping with his mellow voice and charming manners. 'And you?' I asked. 'I'm curious, it was Captain Donovan who grasped the back of my seat. The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, Mr. Peter T. Halahan, wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with tulle. Her tulle veil was caught with real orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss McMichan's only attendants were her two little cousins, Miss Rosalie Halahan and Miss Mary Halahan, who acted as bridesmaids. They wore simple frocks of white net with wide blue sashes and pink hats, and carried baskets filled with sweet-heart roses.
