

FOOTBALL CRITICS AGREE ON PERSHING FOR FIELD GENERAL ON 1918 ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

ENTER BY DICKSON, "MIRACLE MAN" OF FOOTBALL UNIVERSE

Former Penn Coach Qualifies for Hall of Fame by Beating Lehigh, 14-3, With League Island Team Tutored Only Two Days

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

THERE have been "Miracle Men" in baseball who carved their names in the hall of fame, and many have tried to pull the sensational stunt in football with more or less success. No one, however, unqualified as a Miracle Man of the gridiron until Byron Dickson trotted into the picture last week.

Dickson's new eleven is known as the League Island Navy team, and the win over Lehigh last Saturday was one of the biggest surprises in years. The Navy knew only three or four signals, and their plays consisted of a line back, end run and a kick.

In justice to Lehigh it must be stated that two of the best men, Wysocki and Severin, were not in the game, and Coach Keady was away looking over the Muhlenberg team, which plays in South Bethlehem Saturday.

It was Dickson's personality that carried the team through to victory. He made a speech to the men before the game which aroused their fighting blood, and they went out to do their best or perish in the attempt.

IN THE first half Lehigh stroked many beautiful passes for good gains, because the Navy had no idea how to stop that sort of attack. Between the halves, however, Dickson outlined a defense which worked beautifully in the final periods.

Lehigh Starts Against Gobs Like Sure Winner

LEHIGH started out like a sure winner and started a march to the goal line. The League Islanders seemed powerless to stop the attack and every one believed the score would be a large one. However, as the final chalk-mark hove into view the defense stiffened and a forward pass which landed behind the goal line gave the Navy the ball on the 20-yard line.

In the second period Lehigh worked the ball down to the 25-yard line, and after three ineffectual attempts to advance through the line, Dowd dropped back and sent a dropkick over the crossbar for the first score of the game. The kick was a wonder. As soon as the ball left Dowd's foot it sailed high in the air like a spiral punt, landed on the crossbar, bounded a couple of times and fell on the other side.

League Island started to score in the third period and was favored by all of the breaks. Budd blocked a kick and Willroth, after recovering the ball, carried it to the 12-yard line before he was downed. From that point Wade crashed over the goal line on the third play. In the fourth period Webb got off a bad punt and Stone, after catching it, ran 50 yards for a touchdown. That finished Lehigh.

Wade looks like a wonderful football player, both on the attack and defense. He is the best line-busher I have seen this year and will develop into a star. He is only nineteen years old and played on the Lowell (Ky.) High School team. Stone and Shinner are good and Goldstein, at quarter, is an excellent field general. He did not make a mistake in the game.

Budd, at left guard, is the class of the East and could make any college team. No ground was gained through him and he opened holes in the line wide enough for an army truck to drive through. Motter, at center, also played well.

THE Navy team will play out the schedule of the Maroons, meeting Brown at Fortville Field on November 16 and Georgetown in Washington on November 23. The eleven shows much promise and should be even better than the Maroons after another week of practice. Frank L. Poth, Dickson's assistant, has helped considerably in developing the team.

Frank Poth's League Island Scrubs Make Good

THE entire League Island squad is showing things worth while in a football way. Lining up to the reputation of the first team, the service scrubs turned loose on Hog Island yesterday afternoon at the Shipbuilders' athletic field, Ninety-fourth street and Tenthum avenue, and trimmed the riveters by the decisive figures of 15-0. The League Island second team is being coached by Frank L. Poth, and they showed a brand of football that was surprising in view of the fact that they have had very little practice together.

Poth, who is also assisting Dickson in coaching the first team, has had charge of the second eleven only one day, and in that time he taught the service boys enough football to beat the team that defeated the United States steamship Minnesota. The sailors did not have many trick formations, but they could fight, and it was the spirit that put over the victory at the Hog Island field.

"When you consider the fact that I gave these boys a new set of signals on Saturday," said Poth, "you must admit that they played great football. They were a little off in their team work in the first period, but then they got going in the shape. With a little more drilling they will be able to give our first team a great attack. This man Watson is a wonder and I'm going to have a hard time keeping him on my second eleven. When By Dickson sees him in action he probably will be moved to the first eleven."

THE defeat was no disaster to the Hog Island eleven and coaches Fuller and Dyer should not be discouraged. The riveters fought all the way. It was a clipping game and appreciated by the non-spectators.

Hollenback Laboring Under Difficulties at Penn

OUTSIDE of this game there were few surprises Saturday. Swarthmore defeated Penn, but the result was a foregone conclusion to those who had seen both teams in action. Ray Mercer's men got the jump on the Red and Blue and held it until the last five minutes of play, when the "subs" stepped in and scored two touchdowns. At that, Penn made a good showing when everything is considered. The team was all shot to pieces early in the season when Folwell was taken sick and Bill Hollenback stepped into the breach. Bill has worked wonders with the squad in the short time he has been out and deserves lots of credit. No one ever undertook a more difficult job.

Penn State slipped out of a tight hole in the game with Wessickon barracks, emerging with a 6-0 score. Reade's team has been weakened in the last week by the transfer of several "arsity" men to officers' training schools and the substitutes have not yet rounded into form.

Syracuse either has a strong eleven this year or Dartmouth is exceptionally weak, for the New Yorkers walloped the Big Green team in Springfield, Mass., by the score of 24 to 6. Pittsburgh played a game with the scrubs on Forbes Field and the Navy smothered St. Helen's Training School 6 to 0. Columbia seems to have a good team this year and won from Amherst 21 to 7. Fordham kept up its winning streak, trimming St. John's by the score of 27 to 0.

Our West, the biggest surprise was the triumph of Purdue over Chicago at Lafayette, Ind. The Boilermakers won by the score of 7 to 3, scoring the first victory over the Maroons in twenty-four years. The other battles were played according to form.

Next Saturday will be a big day on the gridiron. Pitt plays at 1, at Pittsburgh, Lehigh mingles with Muhlenberg, Penn State will entertain

Promoter Coffroth Guest at Dinner Here Tonight

Prospective Referee of Dempsey-Levinsky Fight to Discuss Plans for Benefit Show.

BOXING MEN TO ATTEND

WHETHER James W. Coffroth, the coast boxing headliner, officiates at the Jack Dempsey-Battling Levinsky bout at the Olympia on Wednesday evening, he will visit this city and meet all the boxing leaders.

James F. Dougherty, promoter of the Dempsey-Levinsky fight, will act as host to Coffroth. At this dinner plans for a monster benefit boxing show in aid of the war work fund will be discussed.

Coffroth is much interested in Dempsey. He saw the conqueror of Fred Fitzton and the legitimate heavyweight challenger make his start and he has watched his rapid advance to the top with keen interest.

Dempsey may break training long enough to make the trip here tonight to attend the dinner. Last night Manager Jack Evans stated he would try to induce his protégé to start and present a battling Levinsky will linger at Bridgeport until Tuesday morning, when he will make the journey to this city.

Young Metcalf had a good work-out against Iolo at the Cambria last Friday night and now says he is ready for Joe Burman. He meets the Chicago bantam in the third bout.

TENDLER BEATS CALLAHAN

Southpaw Lightweight Winner in Wind-Up at National Club

Law Tendler and Frankie Callahan furnished a lively six-round scrap at the National A. A. Saturday night, in which the local bantam won the decision. Callahan started each round with a rush and in the first session it looked like surety that the English heavyweight was dropped to one of his knees near the ropes by a hard body blow.

SCRAPS ABOUT SCRAPPERS

Joe Mendell is getting into shape for several months in the States, and is now training with Joe Moran, the College bantam, at Long Beach, N. J.

Law Tendler will travel to Cleveland, Ohio, to meet the Irish bantam, Mike Mitchell, at the National A. A. for the Warner-Tune. Matt Hinkle is promoter of the show.

Jack Scoules, trainer of Law Tendler, will be in the city next Wednesday night, at the Philadelphia Tennis School at Elphinstone and Baltimore roads.

Frank Donato, manager of Battling Jack, is ready to send the prize against all of the local bantams and lightweight boxers.

Tom Center, the English heavyweight, is anxious to meet Jack Dempsey for the Red Cross fund.

Manager Rains Says Show Is Certain to Be Success

Leon Rains, the energetic and enterprising business manager of the Dempsey-Levinsky fight, said he is much impressed over the reports that Battling Levinsky would not decline to start on Wednesday night. Just now Leon is concerned in only two things—that of staging the show as advertised and taking care of the patrons.

STAR ENDS LOST TO WEST PHILLIE

Wood Dislocates Right Shoulder and Will Be Out for Season

CAPT. MUNROE ENLISTS

Schoolboy Contests on Schedule for This Week

FRIDAY Interacademic League—International Acad. vs. Friends' Centre at Fort Fourth and Parkside avenue. Penn Charter School vs. Germantown Academy at Owen Lane. Union Fun Competition—West Philadelphia vs. South Philadelphia, at Houston field. Other contests—Radnor High School vs. Berwyn High School, at Radnor; Ridley Park High School vs. Brynmawr, at Brynmawr; Lansdowne High School vs. Germantown High School, at Elks Park; Woodbury High vs. Haddonfield High, at Haddonfield; Central High vs. Germantown Friends', at Germantown; George School vs. Western School, at George School; Cross Country Races—Philadelphia High School versus championship cross-country race, Fairmount Park.

The West Philadelphia football team, which scored its first victory of the Public School League season over Germantown High on Friday, suffered a severe loss when it was learned that the two ends, who were mainly responsible for the win, would be out for the rest of the year.

Frank Wood, the best wingman, who snatched the forward pass which resulted in a touchdown against Germantown, injured his right shoulder in the game and an X-ray photograph showed that the shoulder was dislocated.

To add to the trouble, Captain Harold Munroe, the other wingman, has enlisted in the motor transport service, and expects to be called in a short time. The loss of these two players will handicap the West Phillie boys in a serious manner.

The next game for West Phillie will be played next Friday at Houston field against South Phillie. It is the only game scheduled for the week in the Public School League, but the Inter-academic League will get under way on the same day with Episcopal and Friends' Central and Penn Charter and Germantown.

Besides the league games there will be four independent games played. The other fall sports also will get under way this week, when the schoolboys start soccer and cross-country. In the soccer matter Central High plays Germantown Friends and George School will oppose Westtown School at George School.

There are no league games listed for Saturday, but three stellar independent games will be contested. The big one of the trio will be between Norristown High and Reading High. Norristown has a clean slate so far this season with six victories without a defeat.

DISCIPLINE LACKING IN PENN FOOTBALL

Sweeping Changes Will Be Made by Hollenback. Will Drop Joe Straus and Bunny Lerch

SMITH TO BE QUARTER

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK

IN THE clamor and glory of a 26-13 victory for Swarthmore are the out-of-gear rumblings of friction in Pennsylvania football. The Little Quakers won on Franklin Field Saturday because they played the better game; the Big Quakers lost because they did not give their best.

No man can exert himself to his utmost unless he has brought himself to perfect perfection, and no man can bring himself to physical perfection unless he adheres to training rules. It is a known fact that several of the members of the Red and Blue squad have broken the laws of physical hardness for football and many will be the surprises on Franklin Field this week.

Big Bill Hollenback, broken-hearted and dejected by the way his players flayed against the Garnet, solemnly received after the game that he would have discipline among the players at any cost, discipline above victory, discipline above reputation. Big Bill has made up his mind—nothing can shake him from his determination. Things will burn when the Penn coach takes the field this afternoon.

Straus Will Be Dropped

There are going to be sweeping changes in the personnel of the team, especially in the backfield. Joe Straus, one of the offending players, will be dropped once and for all and wee Shorty Smith will be the quarterback. The brand-new Penn backfield probably will consist of Smith, quarterback; Crawford and Roseau, halves, and McNichol, fullback.

It's a long way back since Penn has given such a weak exhibition as in the first three periods of the Garnet battle. There was no snap to the playing of the so-called big Quakers and they were in hot water continually. An example of the mental condition of the players is had in the case of Bunny Lerch, the acting captain.

There was a strong, almost due west wind sweeping across the field when the toes were made. When the teams went to their positions it was generally thought that the Red and Blue had lost the game, for Penn was defending the east goal, with the wind facing and was lined up to receive the kick.

Lerch Springs Best Garnet Play

Novapner men were so sure that the Red and Blue had lost the game that they sent such a message over the wires. Yet Lerch WON. It was the best Swarthmore play ever pulled by a Penn man.

When Lerch was taken out of the game at the end of the first quarter, instead of sitting on the bench, he went to the dressing room and donned street clothes. Then he disappeared. Nothing was seen of him during the rest of the afternoon.

Penn hopes are not dead by any means, but it's up to the players. Even Bill Hollenback, one of the master coaches of the country, cannot turn out a team worthy of the name unless the men train. It remains in the hands of the players themselves whether Red and Blue football this year is going to be a flat failure or a fair success. Few look for startling feats, for the available material is not comparable with that of yesteryears.

The Red and Blue still has a pinch. It may not be a Jack Dempsey wallop, but it's there nevertheless, and this was demonstrated in the close minutes of the fray when Penn scored two touchdowns in rapid fire time.

Second-Stringers Have Punch

It was a farcure of the old Pennsylvania spirit that has made the Red and Blue famous even in defeat, and it was carried on by second string but conscientious players. McNichol, Brian and speedy Shorty Smith, none of whom started the game, were the ones who put over the wallop.

Swarthmore deserted every point, and Dr. Roy Mercer has a team that is going to uphold in true Garnet style the splendid football traditions of the Little inn. The whole backfield played well, but Johnny Earp, who fought for Episcopal last season, was the sensation. His seventy yard run on an up tickle play was one of the most brilliant dashes seen on Franklin Field in a decade and it placed the Garnet in a position to score its second touchdown.

He had five attempts at field goals and he failed in all, but otherwise he showed good football. Stove, Gaffner and Gieges also worked excellent on the offense.

Of the Swarthmore linemen Larkin and Walker stood out most prominently. Walker followed the ball like a steam roller and his recovery of fumbles gave the team a clear field in several golden opportunities. It was Larkin who broke through and blocked a Roseau punt.

Voters of Pennsylvania

Every individual and home in Pennsylvania will be benefited by the proposed State Constitutional Amendment permitting a $50,000,000 bond issue for better roads.
