

KAISER TO STAY, GERMAN DECISION

Danger to Unity of Empire Outweighs Arguments for Abdication

HOHENZOLLERN HATED

Royal Castle in Berlin Strongly Guarded by Four Lines of Soldiers

Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger

For a time, at any rate, Wilhelm II is to remain on the throne. Such is the decision arrived at by the German Government in consultation with the party leaders, after a long controversy.

The argument urged by the Socialists was that, though President Wilson has not formally demanded the ending of the Hohenzollern dynasty, yet the Kaiser is regarded abroad as the symbol of the military system to which is ascribed the guilt for the war.

Special Cable to Evening Public Ledger

The Hague, Nov. 7.

Travelers from Germany with whom I have conversed confirm the impression that the Kaiser should be sent to St. Helena.

When the informant left Berlin a few days ago the people had not got so far as to insist on the Kaiser's going.

The royal castle is now strongly guarded. All around it is a hedge of infantrymen, not more than a pace from each other.

Boys "Out There" Know No Fear, Writes Philadelphia Soldier

The lurking death in the front line trenches holds no fear for the boys out there and they face it with a smile.

Jack Harris, a Philadelphia soldier, writes in a letter from a convalescent camp in France.

"I was up on the line," the letter reads, "the boys were always singing and yelling."

Foch Delivers Armistice Terms

Germany has decided to accept Foch's terms.

Amsterdam, Nov. 7.—Thousands of workers from factories and workshops in Stuttgart paraded the streets Monday and demanded the formation of a Workers and Soldiers' Council, says a dispatch received from Stuttgart.

German Social Democrats have notified the Government, through Friedrich E. Bert, the vice president of their party and president of the main committee of the Reichstag, that their representatives will resign their ministerial posts if the war is not brought to an immediate end.

FOE'S WHITE FLAG IMPRESSES FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 7.—News that a German white flag party had left for the front made a deep impression in France.

The last lingering doubts as to Germany's sincerity in asking for the Allied terms for an armistice, still held in certain quarters, seem to be removed.

On the contrary, the impression now held is that Germany is really worse off than generally believed.

The weather—the rain fell in sheets yesterday—the retreat of the Germans verges perilously near a rout.

The enemy is falling back on the Meuse before the French Fourth and Fifth Armies, which are driving in his rear flank and capturing many miles of territory.

The German white flag party may hear of the fall of the German Emperor's former headquarters at Charleville and Metz before they reach Marshal Foch.

Near the Meuse the American army, working in close touch with General Gouraud's forces, are demolishing bit by bit the powerful pillar of the German defense on the western front.

The destruction of this German bastion would involve the whole enemy retreat in disaster.

There is now no resting place for the German hosts this side of the Rhine. Indeed, it is not too much to say that the Germans are doomed to defeat without hope of recovery.
