SHATTERED UNIT LED TO VICTORY BY INJURED MAN

Andrew B. Kane, Iron Division Hero, Braved Machine Gun Fire

REFUSED TO KILL BOY

Smashes Enemy Piece With Rock After Remnant Crosses Vesle to Fismette

[This is the first of a series of special articles to be printed by the Evening Public Ledger recounting the heroic deeds of Philadelphia soldiers in the great war.]

At 3 o'clock on the morning of August 3, 1918, comprising the remnant of C Company, 112th Infantry, crawled out of dugouts and improvised trenches and swept through a stern of boche shells toward Fismette.

These gallant men of Pennsylvania's Iron Division were told to cross the Vesle River, that skirts the town and held their position.

Over 2000 yards of shell-torn ground they had to go to reach the objective and every foot of the ground was contested by the boche. A half hour after the band of Yankee fighters said farewell to the support troops their captain fell.

The deadly machine-gun fire of the boche had downed the company commander, with many in his unit, but a big six-footer, wearing the chevrons of a sergeant, filled the breach. He was Andrew B. Kane, of 2023 North Twelfth street, Philadelphia.

He had the initiative, courage and natural qualities of leadership that make the American soldier the best in the world.

Across the expanse of blood-stained field he had driven the boche. Another victory had been checked up to the credit of the Iron Division, and the shouting of the rifles could be heard. The Germans had destroyed the bridge and a deadly machine-gun fire into the ranks of Kane's men.

Not Stopped by Bullets Reorganizing his company Kane made for the smashed and tottering planks and in five minutes had crawled over the battered structure to the German side. Two machine-gun bullets hit him, but not once did he falter.

An ugly bullet wound in the right shoulder made it impossible for Kane to complete the river crossing. He was on his left hand he made for the machine gun. At twenty yards he hurled the rock. It struck the gunner and in an instant the boche machine gun spluttered.

The rules of warfare dictated the shooting of this German soldier into the line to the German's face, discovered that he was a mere boy. "I'll fight," said the sergeant, "but I won't murder." Then he smothered the boy with a heavy right toe and announced that one prisoner had been captured.

As the sun broke through the clouds of smoke, Kane prepared his defense. "We have reached our objective and will hold it," he said. Company C held it until a strong support came to him shortly after dark Sergeant Kane sustained a serious shrapnel wound. Two comrades carried him to the rear and twelve hours later the Iron Division hospitals he had been brought to America and is now the popular idol at the base.

His name is on the field of battle this youthful soldier has been decorated and a commissioned officer, but he never will lead another company into action for his gallant deed. He is interested that only a miracle will save it.

Kane declined to tell the story, for like other real heroes of Pennsylvania's famous Iron Division he has a "secret." "Every man did his bit," said the soldier, as he discussed his war experience today. "You know the Twenty-eighth Division got into the worst of the fighting and is entitled to that honored sobriquet, 'Iron Division.'"

"We went through Chateau-Thierry, but I pulled out of that fight unburnt. On August 9 I was hit four times, but the worst wound is on my leg. I do hope they save it, and I am sure that it is humanly possible it will be done in this hospital. Talk about the war? I don't like to do that because the story is an old one. My last fight was here. I can say that and speak honestly, and I thank God the war is over."

A sweet-faced woman, accompanied by a navy ensign, entered the room. She was the mother of the Philadelphia hero and the navy officer was her son. "The wounded soldier forgot his pain and, as a happy smile lighted his handsome face, he turned to the Evening Public Ledger reporter and made this request:

"Don't write much about me, but give the Red Cross and the Salvation Army a big boost. They are four-square and loved by every man in uniform. And don't forget President Wilson and General Pershing. They are great men and share honors with the soldiers. Many times before going into action my company would give three cheers for these men and then cheer our President."

A bit later, when the hero had dozed into sleep, Mrs. Kane explained why her gallant son admired the Red Cross and Salvation Army. "He has told me the Salvation Army people went right up to the firing line with food," she said, "and through their courage and loyalty to me."

FOUR KILLED IN RACE RIOT

Attempt to Lynch Negro Also Results in Many Being Injured

By the Associated Press

Winston Salem, N. C., Nov. 18.—Order was restored here today after a night of rioting in which four persons were killed and a score injured when a mob attempted to lynch Russell High, a negro, held in the city jail on charges of shooting a farmer, the county sheriff, and attacking the farmer's wife.

Arrival of 175 soldiers from Camp Greene early today had a pronounced effect on the mob, which dispersed after word had been passed around that the prisoner had been taken under heavy guard to another city.

The list of deaths included Rachel Levi, a girl who was shot while reaching out of a window of her home during the shooting; a farmer, the county sheriff, and attacking the farmer's wife.

NEW CITY BONDS, OVERSUBSCRIBED, BRING PREMIUM

New York Trust Company Pays 102,858 for $70,000 Issue

THIRTY BIDS ARE MADE

Total Offers Reach Five Times Par Value of Amount Disposed Of

The offer of $7,000,000 of thirty-year 4 1/2 per cent municipal bonds was five times oversubscribed today.

The successful bidder, for the entire lot was the Guarantee Trust Company of New York, with an offer of 102,858. This bid nets the city a premium of about $200,000.

Thirty bids were made for the big block of bonds, the higher bidders being New York banking houses and syndicates. Local bids were made principally for small lots of the bond issue.

The winning bid was higher than that for the last offer of city bonds, June 12, this year, when $5,500,000 of municipal securities was sold. The highest bid then was 102,177.

Other bidders today were: William Salomon & Co., New York, 102,853 for entire lot; Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and William A. Reed, 102,827, for entire offer; Harris, Forbes & Co., Reilly, Brock & Co., National City Company and First National Bank of New York, 102,182 for entire offer; Drexel & Co. and Brown Brothers' Co., 101,729 for entire offer.

The Penn National Bank of this city, bid on lots of $100,000 each, with bids ranging from 101.5 to 102.16; Central National Bank, bid of 101 for $200,000 lot; Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, bid of 102.5 for a $100,000 lot; People's Trust Company, bid at par for $25,000, and the Corn Exchange National Bank, offers for four lots of $250,000 each, bids ranging from 101 to 101.5.

The bonds sold today are a part of the $6,000,000 transit loan of 1915 and a part of the $42,000,000 loan of 1916 for general municipal improvements. Plans for further bond issues will be taken up by the capital issues committee at Washington tomorrow. City officers will appear before the Federal body and press the city's needs for an increase in the general loan funds for improvements.

U. S. TAKES MARINE CABLES

Wilson Directs Burleson to Operate System After November 2

Washington, Nov. 18.—Government control of all marine cable systems, organized and existing under United States flag, will be assumed by proclamation of President Wilson, it was officially announced today.

The President in his proclamation declared: "I take possession and assume control and supervision of each and every marine cable system and every part thereof owned or controlled and operated by any company or companies organized and existing under the laws of the United States, or any State, Territory, or possession, or any other authority, and all materials and supplies connected therewith."

At the Postoffice Department today it was stated that the present wire control officials probably will direct operation of the cables.

BOARDS MAY MUSTER OUT

Crowder Wants Local Bodies to Discharge Drafted Men

A plan to muster out the drafted soldiers through the same channels by which they were drafted, is being recommended by Provost Marshal General Crowder, it is reported, has pointed out that there would be a great deal of trouble in having the local boards muster out the men and that this could be done with appropriate certificates by the provost marshal.

At a caucus this evening, which was held at the headquarters of the provost marshal, it was decided to have the soldiers receive their discharge papers when they return to their homes, after parades and reviews, instead of being mustered out in the camps and sent back home as individuals.

STUCK TO BURNING VESSEL; PRAISED BY CHIEF OF NAVY

Frank J. Shannon, Young Philadelphia Wireless Operator, Stood With Comrades and Fought Flames When Rest of Crew Fled—Helped Stand Off Submarine

Frank J. Shannon, twenty years old, whose home is at 5308 Haverford av., has been commended by Secretary Daniels for exceptional heroism, displayed when the oil tanker, George G. Henry, was threatened with destruction by fire on July 27.

Shannon was one of five men who stuck to the ship and helped subdue the blazing oil after the rest of the crew had fled in small boats. The Henry was later picked up by another Government vessel and towed to port.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES REVIEW OF MOONEY CASE

Without Comment Highest Tribunal Rejects Plea of Condemned Labor Leader

By the Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Supreme Court refused today to review the case of Thomas J. Mooney, labor leader, under sentence to die December 13 for murder in connection with a bomb explosion two years ago in San Francisco.

Mooney's counsel appealed to the Supreme Court after a Governor fight in California to upset decisions of the State courts. In asking the Supreme Court to review his case, Mooney charged that his conviction had been obtained through fraud on the part of the district attorney, who in making use of perjured testimony, had failed to disclose to the jury the efforts to obtain a new trial.

In acting on Mooney's petition today, the court merely announced its decision through Chief Justice White, without comment.

The case has attracted country-wide attention. In response to appeals for his release, President Wilson twice has telegraphed California Governor Fox, suggesting that clemency be considered.

PENROSE CENTER OF SENATE FIGHT

Progressive Republicans Begin Effort to Prevent 'Old Guard' Domination

REVOLT IS THREATENED

Washington, Nov. 18.—Senate progressives today opened their fight to prevent the Republican "old guard" from monopolizing power after March 4.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, progressive Republican, introduced a resolution to amend Senate rules so that the chairman of any of the "big eight" Senate committees cannot be a member of any other of the "big eight."

The eight committees are Finance, Foreign Relations, Military Affairs, Naval Affairs, Appropriations, Interstate Commerce, Judiciary and Postoffice, upon which will rest responsibility for formulating reconstruction legislation.

Vigorous efforts have been made to prevent Norris going ahead with this fight, since he gave notice last Friday of his intention. But Norris refused to listen and today had a resolution referred to the rules committee, which is controlled by Democrats.

Some Republicans, therefore, are seriously considering the advisability of urging Penrose not to insist on the Finance chairmanship, it is stated.

At a caucus this evening, which was held at the headquarters of the provost marshal, it was decided to have the soldiers receive their discharge papers when they return to their homes, after parades and reviews, instead of being mustered out in the camps and sent back home as individuals.

REPORT KAISER PLANS TO ENTER GERMANY AGAIN

Disturbances in Holland Said to Be Responsible for Decision

NOT A WELCOME GUEST

Count Merely Granted Hospitality as Duty to His Government

By the Associated Press

London, Nov. 18.—The Prussian Soldiers and Workmen's Committee learns that William Hohenzollern intends to return to Germany because of disturbances in Holland, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Lokal Anzeiger, of Berlin, says he is likely to be permitted to return.

A dispatch from Maarn, Holland, says that Count Charles von Helldorf, son of Count Godard, in an interview today declared that his father was unaware of the intended coming of the former German Emperor until last Sunday when the Dutch government telephoned asking him if he would receive the exile. The count acceded to the request as a duty to the Dutch government.

The former Emperor's host seems somewhat embarrassed over the delicate case given him, as his family has considerable English connections. Count Charles said that he asked the former Emperor: "How long will you remain?" "That depends upon the Dutch government," was the reply.

There are no indications that the former German Prince intends to join his father. The former Emperor's host seems somewhat embarrassed over the delicate case given him, as his family has considerable English connections. Count Charles said that he asked the former Emperor: "How long will you remain?" "That depends upon the Dutch government," was the reply.

THIRD U. S. ARMY MOVES RAPIDLY TOWARD RHINE

Dickman Resumes March Into German Territory After 10-Mile Advance

TEUTONS GIVE UP GUNS

42 Cannon Surrendered, Including Monster Weapons Which Shelled Verdun

With the Americans Advancing toward the Rhine, Nov. 15.—The Third Army resumed its advance into German territory at dawn today.

In their first day's march the Americans reclaimed nearly 500 square miles of French territory. Most of the towns, which had been badly shot up a few hours before the Americans reached them, the Germans had not blown up any of the bridges or roads.

The few inhabitants hailed the Americans with delight. The advance proceeded smoothly, averaging three miles an hour. Today's advance is in the direction of Longuy, Arley and Audun, all of which lie close to the frontier.

OPEN CONFERENCE FRENCH RE-ENTER ON PEACE LIKELY

Senate Discussions on Moroccan and Legionnaires Treaties Also Expected to Be Public

WILSON FAVORS PLAN TOWN WILD WITH JOY

By the Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 18.—The peace conference which it is expected will be an open conference. And it is understood that the United States Senate will be asked to open up its discussion of the peace treaties when they are submitted to it for ratification. President Wilson is said to favor this idea. It carries out his announced program of "open government."

This does not mean necessarily that everything will be discussed in its entirety in the French press during the war. They also were their new allegiances, or shoulder tags.

Soon after dark the boys of Lorraine had had unceremonious bicycle tire, that had remained hidden from the Germans during the many long months, rode out to meet the column marching toward Chateau Salins. The French tricolor could be seen in the early morning light flying from the first houses of the town, although the rest of the German troops had not yet left.

Lorraine's Joy Overflows The streets were filled before the troops came into sight and when the head of the column appeared, with General Logan in the lead, it was received with the shouts of the old men, women and children rushed out with improvised paper flags, laughing, shouting and weeping in turn.

The first automobiles, containing French officers, were taken by storm and loaded to overflowing with boys and girls dressed in their Sunday clothes, cheering for France and singing the "Marseillaise." The town of Chateau Salins, the only music the town afforded executed the national anthem from records that had escaped the eyes of the Germans.

It was difficult to conceive that Chateau Salins could ever have been anything but French. After forty-seven years of German rule the town always had been French. It was not until the French troops had been driven out that French towns that had never known other than French rule.
