

INNOCENT, STILL GERMANY'S POSE

Teutons Blame Plight of Nation Upon Entente Countries

England and France Regarded as Remorseless and Unrelenting Enemies

Washington, March 21.—Germany is not repentant. The hardships the country is undergoing are attributed to a relentless enemy. The United States, however, is looked upon by the people as their savior. An official report on the situation in Germany received here stated:

"The public feeling regarding the Entente is very mixed. From the public journals one gains the impression that there is a more or less spontaneous propaganda to make France the villain in the play, with England the close second. There is also a great deal of bitterness against the Belgians, who are accused of committing many depredations in the districts they occupy."

"The United States is in the public mind, rapidly assuming the character of savior. Columns are printed praising the high qualities of our troops in the Rhineland. Trade papers write with unconcealed malice about the probability of American trade crowding out British trade in the world's markets."

"One gathers, perhaps wrongly, that some of the German national egotisms has vanished. One point here is distinctly noticeable; notwithstanding the fact that the recent disclosures must convince every individual in Germany that his own government was entirely to blame for commencing the war, one never reads of a single hardship that the German people are undergoing that is not ascribed bitterly to the ruthless and relentless enemy."

Affame Over Rolling Stock

"All Germany is aflame with indignation because the Allies had the hardihood to demand that the rolling stock that the Germans had stolen from Belgium and France be returned at once. Dozens of similar cases might be described. While most papers admit that Germany suffers a crushing defeat, signs of repentance are conspicuous by their absence."

"It is noteworthy, probably the most significant fact of all, that the Allies are seldom made by the newspapers of the 'Entente,' but the enemy or 'our enemies.' If there is any spirit of reconciliation extant, it is not noticeable. The Peace Conference has to deal with a people who people are undergoing that of a justifiable victory by superior numbers and their own stupid diplomacy, not by the fact that they were defending a wrong against right."

"The Rhenish-Westphalian coal regions are handicapped by continual abortive strikes, which are fomented by bands of Spartacists, who are going about terrorizing the Catholic workmen. There has been a distinct tendency on the part of the most influential men to seek to attach themselves to France. Some time ago the Berliner Tageblatt attacked the Koenigsche Zeitung, the latter the great organ for the district, most savagely pointing out its extreme chauvinism during wartime in contrast to its present attitude. It is assuming a present. When one takes into consideration, however, that this region is strongly Catholic, its antipathy towards Berlin becomes quite comprehensible."

Would Evade War Burdens

"The Separatist trend, particularly noticeable in Rhenish Westphalia, Bavaria, Upper Silesia and North Schleswig, probably gains much of its strength from the desire to escape as much as possible from the financial and financial burdens. Berlin points out that this scheme will not work, and indicates Galicia is to form an integral part of the new Polish republic. They have been given to understand by the Allies that it will have to share the war burden imposed upon Austria."

"It appears that Germany's only hope to prevent utter ruin is the formation of a stable government, and the resumption of peace-time industries and commerce. It also seems clearly evident that the spirit of the people towards the Allies is such that it is necessary that Germany be crippled permanently in military affairs in the interest of world peace. While the new democracy is vociferously hailed in many quarters, there is no doubt that in case of German victory, practically the entire German nation would have willingly remained loyal to their autocratic monarchical form of government."

"The Germans are as insincere and unfair as they have ever been, and their egotism makes them feel that since they cried for peace—rather than continue the war on their own ground—they should be treated with the most tremendous consideration and kindness, and they feel themselves justified in blaming present ills on the Allies."

HAVERFORD TRUSTEES HEAR STUDENTS' PLEA

Act Today on Petition Against Compulsory Religious Meetings Attendance

The protest of Haverford College students against compulsory attendance at Thursday religious meetings will be considered this afternoon at 409 Chestnut street by the college board of trustees. The undergraduates give three principal reasons for their action. They assert that "the vast majority of the students at Haverford are not in sympathy with the doctrines of Quakerism," that "compulsory attendance at religious services is in all cases objectionable," and that "the spirit of meeting at present is in no wise compatible with sincere religious worship."

LOAN HELMETS NOT FOR SALE

Washington Headquarters Flooded With Letters Including Money. Washington, March 21.—As a result to the published accounts of the Victory Liberty loan organizations having a large supply of captured German helmets, the public bureau here inclosing money with orders for the helmets. Publicity managers have returned the remittances, explaining that the $5,000 helmets were "purchased" for $1 from the War Department only because the War Department could not give them away legally, and that in turn the resale of the helmets to Liberty loan district publicity managers was similarly factitious.

And So They Were Married

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

RUTH stared at the money Scott had handed to her as though she couldn't believe it possible. Just then money was what she most needed, and here it was in her own fingers and in abundance apparently.

"Where did you get it?" she queried. "Oh, that's a secret." "Scott, tell me, I want to know." "Scott" gave it to me. "What for?" "A debt of long standing." "Not this much," Ruth's tone was incredulous. "Oh, it isn't so much; remember, you haven't counted it yet." Whereupon Ruth did count it and found $200.

"It isn't all for me?" "Yes, it is; it's for you to get a new spring outfit with." "But Scott had won $600 on a little five of living could not possibly be insurance money. The other $400 he had reinvested, and the relief from the strain he had been under made him almost content to keep the thing up. Ruth was able now to get a few foolishly expensive things, things that were entirely inappropriate for the wife of a poor man."
