

CLERGY MAY OPPOSE SUNDAY BALL IN PARK

Sabbath Association Indicates Some Action Will Be Taken on Fairmount Decision

WILL NOT DISCLOSE NATURE

Action may be taken by the Philadelphia Sabbath Observance Association on the move made yesterday by the Fairmount Park Commission in sanctioning Sunday sports. The nature of the plans being considered to fight the decision is not disclosed.

The Rev. Thomas T. Mutchler, secretary of the association, which has led the fight against Sunday sports in Fairmount Park, today refused to comment on the commission's action.

The playing of uncommercialized baseball, golf and other outdoor games in Fairmount Park and in all other parks and places of recreation under the supervision of the park commission on Sundays has been officially sanctioned.

This action was taken at the monthly meeting of that body yesterday. The matter was first introduced in the commission one month ago by William Findlay Brown, and was referred to the committee on superintendence for consideration.

Have Held Extensive Sessions It was disclosed during the session that the committee has held several executive sessions recently, and had before it the Rev. Mr. Mutchler and representatives of other religious organizations, which have opposed the proposition to permit games of any character to be played on Sundays in the people's pleasure grounds.

The matter was brought to the attention of the commission yesterday by Chairman Eli K. Price, of the committee on superintendence, who submitted the following report:

"The committee on superintendence, to which was referred for inquiry and report the subject of playing such games as baseball, tennis and other sports in the parks on Sundays, has carefully considered the subject, including a number of communications from individuals and organizations, expressing views both for and against the use of the parks for games on Sundays.

Golf Played at Cobbs Creek "The game of golf has been regularly played on the public course in Cobbs Creek Park on Sundays ever since the course was opened by the commissioners three years ago, while baseball has been constantly played in various parts of Fairmount Park on Sundays for some time, without objection by any one.

"It has not been the policy of the commissioners to interfere with any kind of recreation in the parks under their control, so long as it is conducted in an orderly manner and with due regard to the rights of others than those engaged in it. This result is one that in the opinion of the committee can be readily secured in every case by proper supervision by the park guards under the general direction of the chief engineer.

WAR TAX ON PARADE SEATS

Collector Lederer Says Ten Per Cent Must Be Paid

Officers and owners of the seventy-odd parade stands that dot the line of parade of the Twenty-eighth Division will be compelled to pay a 10 per cent tax on every seat sold, according to an announcement by Collector of Internal Revenue Lederer today.

Those exempted include seat holders in the state, municipal and various welfare organization stands. Action was taken by Collector Lederer on the question of imposing the so-called war tax after he had personally made a round of inspection over the route of the parade.

PRICE WILL DIRECT NEW STATE GUARD

General's Appointment, Announced by Governor, Generally Approved by Veterans

GALLANT WAR RECORD CITED

Brigadier General William G. Price, Jr., commander of the Fifty-third Artillery Brigade, of the Iron Division, is to command the reorganized National Guard of Pennsylvania.

This announcement was made by Governor William C. Sproul at the banquet given in honor of Major General Charles H. Muir, commander of the Twenty-eighth Division, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel last night.

General Price will be elevated to a major general, taking the place of Major General Charles M. Clement, of Sunbury, who commanded the guard regiments until they were inducted into the army in August, 1917, but who was disqualified for physical reasons and retired.

"I am proud of Brigadier General Price as a type of the National Guard of Pennsylvania," said Governor Sproul, amid cheers. "Following my custom of seeking the best man I know to stand up alongside of me, I have asked this man to become commander-in-chief of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. We are going to reorganize; we are going to have a new guard; and we are going to have a guard that will preserve the honor and traditions of this Twenty-eighth Division as a perpetual glory and credit to the state."

The appointment of General Price to command the state forces meets with the approval of Guard officers throughout the state. It is a fitting tribute, they said today, to a man who went into the army as an infantry officer and came out as a brigadier general of artillery in competition with the best men of the United States regular army.

The post was tendered to General Price by Adjutant General Beary on behalf of the Governor early in April. At the time General Price was still in France with his command. He will assume his new duties as soon as he is mustered out of the service and the Legislature confirms his appointment. Plans for the reorganization of the Guard, however, are only tentative, and General Price will probably be the prime factor, with the Governor and other state officials in the complete reorganization. General Price has been a soldier since May 24, 1880, when he enlisted as a private in Company E, Sixth Regiment, N. G. P., now the 111th. During the Spanish-American War he was lieutenant colonel of the Sixth Regiment, and on April 23, 1901, he was elected colonel of the Third Infantry, now the 110th. He was made a brigadier general of the National Guard, commanding the old First Brigade, on April 6, 1910, succeeding Wendell P. Bowman, promoted to rank of major general.
