

FRANKFORD LEGION DEVELOPS RAPIDLY

No. 211 Has 600 Members, 35-Piece Band and Full Orchestra

TO GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

Six hundred paid-up members, a band of thirty-five pieces, and a full orchestra—these are the achievements of Post 211, the American Legion, reported yesterday.

According to Comrade Winter, Post 211 situated in Frankford, has also developed a football team which is semi-professional and the members of which are all enrolled in the post.

There was a meeting of this post last night at which plans were discussed for a minstrel show to be given at the post.

Post No. 153 of the American Legion, which is located in the Thirty-second ward, and the commander of which is E. S. Postdammer, 1818 North Broad street, adopted a resolution last night urging upon the new Congress the necessity for the modification of the war risk insurance act.

The hazard and danger of American Legion George H. Imhoff Post No. 153 opened last night in the Second Regiment Armory, Broad and Diamond streets, with dancing and entertainment features.

Two hundred energetic former service men of Lawrence E. De Laney Post No. 28, American Legion, held a keenly contested election of permanent officers for the year 1920.

Post No. 427, American Legion, of Swarthmore, has been named in honor of Lieutenant Harold Ainsworth, who was killed while on duty as a pilot in the army air service.

George Westworth Carr was unanimously re-elected a delegate to the county committee of the American Legion by Post No. 270 of the Thirty-fourth ward, which has its headquarters at Sixty-fourth and Callowhill streets.

Post No. 270 elected the following officers: Post commander, Vincent A. Carroll; vice commander, William H. Graham; post adjutant, Frank W. Clift, Jr.; treasurer, Charles Hunt; insurance officer, Samuel J. Shuttleworth, and post historian, George W. H. Hicks.

The Twenty-fourth Ward Post No. 81, American Legion, elected as officers for 1920: Lucien A. Hauslein, post commander; J. Clark, vice commander; Judson F. Vogdes, Jr., finance officer; Robert H. Kall, post adjutant; the Rev. Dr. R. H. Gerhardt, post chaplain; George E. Douglas, post historian, and Dr. George C. Parry, representative on county committee.

The finance officer and adjutant were made members of the executive committee, with the following elected members: Mr. Douglas, Doctor Parry, E. E. Kellar and Frank J. Duffey. The elections were all closely contested with the exception of Post Commander Hauslein, who, having no opposition, was elected unanimously.

John A. Callahan, chairman of the athletic committee, announced that a plan was under way to obtain a

SCHOOL GARDENS URGED BY GARBER

Superintendent Asks Education Board to Provide More Extensive Plots

STRESSES VALUE OF WORK

Geography and gardening courses in the public schools are being reorganized so that each will be an integral part of the other. Superintendent Garber and many of the teachers believe school gardens make the children more observant, more keenly interested in nature, and better able to understand soils, vegetation and other geographical subjects.

Doctor Garber has put the matter of school gardens before members of the board of education in an effort to obtain more extensive garden plots and efficient garden teachers for the coming season.

"I should like to stress the value of garden work," said Doctor Garber, "as a basis for comprehending such facts as geography instruction as pertaining to plant and animal life as affected by soil and climate, the nature and products of vegetation under varying conditions, the keener observation and interest in nature, the health and character. Many of the teachers say it stimulates home gardening, the promotion of thrift and the development of a better community spirit. "As one of the principals expressed it, school gardens change the dead words of agriculture and geography into living realities. Along the lines of civics and good citizenship, too, the gardens have developed in the minds of the pupils a regard for the property of others. Even the pupils heretofore who have responded to its influence. It gives occupation to children during July and August, and so keeps them off the street."

Principals of many schools are asking that expert garden teachers be provided, and that the work be extended this spring.

Mayor Smith, the presidents of Select and Common Council and members of the Park Commission are named in the suit, which was brought by lawyers for Henry C. Dyer, a taxpayer, on behalf of himself and other citizens. The removal of trolley tracks on Nineteenth streets is sought and all vehicular traffic within the original boundaries is asked to be stopped at once.

Taxpayers yesterday started legal proceedings to compel municipal authorities to restore Logan Square to its original condition, cutting off Nineteenth street or any other roadway bisecting any portion of the square, as a result of the construction of the Parkway.

GRAY CRITICIZES ROTAN

Lawyer for Detectives Held for Extortion Denounces Methods

ADVERTISING

Allegations that the office of Samuel P. Rotan, district attorney, did not enforce cases against persons who turned evidence for the commonwealth and criticism of the methods of the district attorney's office in handling prospective witnesses was voiced yesterday afternoon in the central station by William A. Gray, in the capacity of counsel for the defense of Detectives Jacob Gomborow and Thomas McColloch, charged with extortion and conspiracy to intimidate. Gray denounced the methods of the district attorney.

The charge against the detectives was made by Alexander Loef, a grocer, of Eleventh street and Fairmount avenue.

After two hours' testimony, during which several witnesses were heard and several lengthy wrangles between Mr. Gray and James Gay Gordon, representing the district attorney's office, the accused detectives were held in $1000 each by Magistrate Meolary.

An official report of the action of the court in the case will be made to Director of Public Safety Wilson for his action.

Don't let that noble resolve to do your Christmas shopping early go the way of most good resolutions! The campaign for early Christmas shopping has done much to relieve the annual burden that must be borne by the merchant at Christmas time, yet we have much to learn concerning the methods of curing the habit of procrastination.

The proprietors of the Chestnut Street Shops ask that you co-operate with them as far as possible in "putting one over" on the "thief of time."

NEVER has there been such interest in the buying of Christmas gifts as there is this year. It looks as if a great many Philadelphia families are going to have an electrical breakfast on Christmas morning. It is possible, you know, to cook your entire breakfast at the table if you have an electric stove and an electric percolator. An electric toaster is a handy little article, and the electric waffle iron is the solution of the problem of having your waffles crisp and perfectly browned.

At the store of J. Franklin Miller, 1612 Chestnut street, where I saw these things, there were also electric chafing dishes, irons, tea kettles and warming pads. This last-named article would be an ideal Christmas gift for an invalid.

QUALITY in overcoats is a thing to which you should give serious consideration when it comes to making a purchase. If you select an overcoat of good quality you will be repaid many times over for your foresight. It will give you good service, and not only that, but the feeling of confidence that always accompanies the well-dressed man. There is something about a fur-collared coat especially—a certain luxurious air—which sets it apart from the general run of overcoats. The quality of the material is so warm and comfortable looking. MacDonald & Campbell, 1334-36 Chestnut street, are showing a great number of these coats in various materials—fleeces, friezes, chevrons and double-faced materials—and the collars are of fine Hudson seal, otter and beaver.

THAT useful article, the watch, has become so indispensable that we are loath to part company with it and needs must carry it with us in the evening as well as in the daytime. And so the jewelry wrist watch has come into being, and a very decorative little article it is. At the stores of I. Press & Sons, Chestnut and Eighth streets, 1017 Market street and 909 Market street, you will find many exquisite little timepieces which would make much appreciated Christmas gifts. One which I thought very attractive was octagon shaped and set round with diamonds. A row of deep blue sapphires emphasizes the outline and adds much to the beauty of the watch. Tiny round watches, circled with diamonds, are most attractive, too.

THE faint perfume of spring, the warm breath of summer, the cold blast that is winter's and the mellow ripening touch that autumn gives—all these things go into the making of the delicious fruits which are arranged so attractively in the Hallowell gift-gaskets. For Christmas gifts they are most acceptable. You may choose from a number of styles and sizes the basket which you like best and it will be reserved for you, then filled and dispatched the day before Christmas. It is in your power to select your own, before the rush that accompanies Christmas week. Henry R. Hallowell & Son, Broad street below Chestnut, will gladly assist you in selecting from their luscious fruits those that are to fill your gift-basket.

ONE solution, or rather a number of solutions of the "What-to-give-father-for-Christmas" problem is to be found at the store of the J. B. Shannon Co., 816 Chestnut street. There are tool cabinets and chests, machinists' tool chests and empty tool chests—for the man who leaves his hatchet and saw on the cellar steps or places equally unappreciated. Then you might give him a Rodgers scroll saw with emery wheel or a star scroll saw or a Goodell scroll saw and lathe. For the man who is fond of sports there are guns and revolvers and fishing tackle. Razors, rubber-stamping brushes, razor strops and stropping machines are other suggestions. For boys there are ice skates, roller skates, sleds and pocket knives—besides the things mentioned above.

"Dear Mary: You can't imagine how much fun I had over a Christmas surprise I gave to Tom and the children!

"Early in December I went to Blake and Burkart's, picked out a phonograph, and told them to put it aside for me—a beauty, too. The men did not bring it home until almost Christmas Day—Tom was at the office—the children were at school—I hid it in the closet under the stairs, put some old overcoats over it, and there it stood till Christmas morning! The cook and I played Santa Claus about 6:30 A. M. and moved it out into the center of the living room, right beside the Christmas tree.

"Mary dear, you never saw such a fuss as Tom and the children made! We played it all day long. There's nothing like music—it seemed to make us all happier and I am so glad that for once I wasn't too late, like Mrs. Greene, who waited until almost Christmas before going to get an instrument, and then couldn't get one at all . . ."
