

U. S. Giant Dry Docks and Newest Submarine : Girl Thespians : A Dancing Don't

HOW NOT TO DANCE. In the "dancing don'ts," by leading masters, dancing with cheeks close or touching is considered among the objectionable forms.

TWO GIANT NORFOLK DRYDOCKS for the use of the Navy have just been completed. Battle-ships Nevada and Wisconsin are shown in docks.

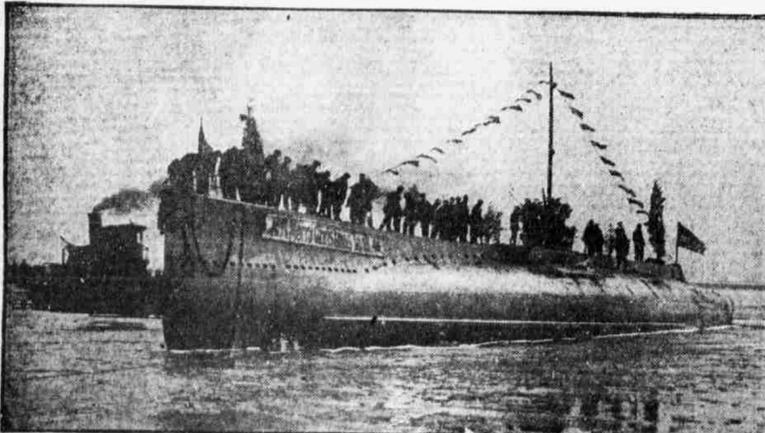

ALWILDA JARDEN, as Pattie, and Elizabeth Comer, as Recruiting Sergeant, of the Holman School for Girls, who will appear in "Quality Street."

AS MISS WILLOUGHBY, little Elizabeth Elliott, quaintly garbed, shown above, will be seen in "Quality Street," tonight, at the Bellevue-Stratford.

IN THE GROUP are shown nine women physicians and two nurses of this city, who did war work in France. They were guests yesterday of the Women's Medical College campaign committee at the Hotel Adelphia. From left to right they are: Standing—Dr. Marianna Taylor, Miss Blanche Murray, Miss Edith Irwin, Dr. Maud Kelly, Dr. Edith Taft Moorehouse. Sitting—Dr. Mary Evans, Dr. Mary N. McLachlan, Dr. Marie K. Formad, Dr. Caroline M. Purnell, Dr. Regina Downie and Dr. Alice Weld Tallant.

SUBMARINE S-16, the last word in submersibles, was added to the U. S. Navy recently at Bridgeport, Conn. Without fueling she could travel to Japan and return, according to cruising tests made.

DESPITE SNOW AND WIND of yesterday, many were seen enjoying the skating on the lakes of Fairmount Park.
