

COUNCIL APPROVES BUS LINE FOR CITY

Long Debate Precedes Adoption of Ordinance—Zone System Is Decided On

MAY START ON SEPTEMBER 1

After a debate of nearly two hours Council passed an ordinance yesterday which will permit operation of motor buses on Broad street by the Philadelphia Transportation Co. The ordinance must be signed by Mayor Moore and approved by the Public Service Commission before it becomes effective.

Expects No Trouble

Mr. Raymond said he expected no trouble getting both the signature and the approval. He said single-deck buses will be used first. Next summer double-deck machines will be added. Twenty machines are now under construction and these will be added to the rate of one a month until ninety are in operation a month until ninety are in operation.

The running time between Olney avenue and the Navy Yard will be about five minutes. When operations are started the cars will be run on an eight-minute schedule in the middle zone and a twelve-minute schedule in the two outer zones.

Amendments to ten of the fifteen sections of the bill offered by Joseph P. Gaffney were opposed by James A. Develin, who in the committee on transportation and public utilities redrew the original measure submitted by the transportation company in the form that yesterday returned Mr. Gaffney opposed with but one exception several amendments presented by Mr. Develin. The amendments of Mr. Gaffney that were unacceptable to Mr. Develin were defeated in a strictly factional vote. In a similar manner the amendments of Mr. Develin unacceptable to Mr. Gaffney were approved.

Develin Reads Petition

Mr. Develin read a petition signed by residents in the neighborhood of Mr. Gaffney's home in South Philadelphia asking passage of the bus ordinance with the original zones. Mr. Gaffney retorted that petitions were "pokes" to the declaration of Mr. Develin that Mr. Gaffney should have attended the meetings of the committee on transportation. Mr. Gaffney replied that his presence would have been useless, as the bill was "a favorite ordinance destined to go through." Simon Walter, Vore member from the Fifth district, said the measure had been "steam-rollered" through the committee.

In the end, however, all the Vore members joined with the administration members in passing the ordinance except Mr. Walter and William E. Taylor, who voted from the Second district, the vote being 17 to 2. Mr. Walter said the reason for his negative vote was his dissatisfaction with the maximum fare to be charged in each zone. It limits the franchise granted to the company to fifteen years, but with the provision that after the expiration of five years Council may terminate the franchise by giving the company two years' notice of that action; fixes a limit of $100 to be paid each year by the company, and requires the company to pay the city 5 per cent of its gross receipts of fares annually, the minimum sum to be paid each year being $7500.

The discussion of the bus ordinance was postponed on the three amendments before the city to the construction of the Roosevelt boulevard, Erie and Hunting Park avenues and Sanson street between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-second streets.

LICENSE FOR NEAR-BEER

Dealers in Malt Beverages Must Obtain the Court's Permission

As a result of an appeal by licensed saloonkeepers, Judge Gregg, in the license court, yesterday issued a warning to nonlicensed persons, issued a warning to saloonkeepers that they were prohibited from selling malt beverages containing malt that they were violating the Brooks high license law and are subject to prosecution.

A score or more licensed saloon men complained that soda fountains, cigar stores and lunch counters were selling "near beer" and other drinks containing one-half of 1 per cent alcohol without taking out liquor licenses.

The law specifically provides, "said Judge Gregg, that all places that desire to sell malt beverages are required to get a regular saloon license, such as provided for the sale of intoxicating drinks prior to the advent of prohibition."

LARGE GRADUATING CLASS AT BUCKNELL

University Sends Out 188, of Which 160 Are in College Department

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY

Lewisburg, Pa., June 16.—In the annual announcements of Bucknell University's seventeenth commencement today by President Emory W. Hunt, a successor in English literature, to carry on the work of Prof. Enoch Ferrine, of New Jersey, who died a short time ago, was named in Amos Lee Herold, who is instructing at Columbia University. He is a graduate of Washington and Lee University class of 1900 and spent several years teaching at the University of Cincinnati.

A new instructor in electrical engineering is George Allison Ireland, Bucknell, 1915, who has been control specialist at the Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co. For instructor in Spanish, E. Belfort S. de Magalhães, who was a member of Lafayette College teaching force last year, will take charge as soon as he receives his Ph. D. degree from Columbia University.

Among the 188 graduates, of whom 160 are in the college department, seventeen school of music and eleven home economics, George Loxley Lowry, the honor college man, is a grandson of the Rev. Robert Lowry, D. D., famous as a hymn writer, author of "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" and "I Need Thee Every Hour," and a son of the Rev. Henry Moore Lowry; of Friendship, N. Y., who participated in the baccalaureate Sunday services.

Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, as usual, furnish more than one-half of the graduates. For the girls, the highest honor in graduation went to Katherine Luetta Wagner, of Lewisburg.

The graduating class includes the following from Philadelphia and those who won honors:

George Ewan Gaskill, Charles Afflerbach Reed, Stephen Fraley Puff, Norman Roy Appleton, Roy Allen DeLoach, Harry John Wagoner, James Campbell Craig, Paul Stolz, George Walter Lee, Jr., Camden, N. J., Eval William Ingram and Felix Piekarski, both of Nanticoke, Pa., honor.

Fair Dealing Pays

□ We are much pleased with the many favorable comments that we are receiving in regard to our attitude in not joining the craze for "Reduction Sales."

□ Thinking people everywhere are becoming more and more skeptical regarding these "Sales," because they logically reason that when dealers can afford to make such tremendous cuts and discounts, their original prices must have been extremely high.

□ We always mark our goods at prices that will yield us a fair profit, as we can't afford to sell at a loss, and really do not see how any one can do so, and stay in business.

□ Our customers tell us that they find our regular prices lower than in the stores which have announced reduced prices, and as we are making a profit we can only conjecture what the other stores must have asked before they made their reductions.

CARPENTIER FILM SHOWN

A private showing of a film featuring Georges Carpentier, the French prizefighter, was given last night by the Joseph Faussett Bellak Post, No. 195, of the American Legion. The motion picture was shown in the Bellevue-Stratford ballroom, which was well filled with legion members, their friends and relatives. The purpose of the entertainment was to bring forward the patriotic side of Carpentier's life and actions in the recent world war. Judge John M. Patterson spoke during one of the intermissions, expressing his hearty approval of the purpose and ideals of the Legion.
