Nancy Wynne Sees a Pretty Frock—She Hears of Entertainment Next Saturday in Longport for Seamen's Church Institute

I WAS sitting on a station platform the other day thinking, "My goodness, you don't even see any pretty dresses, do you? These last days of August," when I burst upon my vision but Corinne Freeman, wearing one of the prettiest pink crepe de chine frocks I have seen this season.

It was a one-piece frock made with a V-neck in front and a square cut collar at the back of the neck. The sleeves were long and held in at the wrist. The skirt was finished with a wide hem and three wide tucks at regular intervals to within eight inches of the waistline. A narrow cord of pink crepe was arranged loosely about the waist. The hat was a large model of rose pink rough straw and the brim was edged with a turned-in narrow knife.

On Saturday night the Delphian Players have been engaged, and they will present several sketches, after which there will be general dancing. It will be a very large affair, judging from the demand for tickets, and every one is going. Among the patrons from this city are Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Huns, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swager, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Lavino, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Yerkes, Miss Margaret Lennig and Miss Edith Adams.

HEARD the other day that Dr. and Mrs. Tom Royster would be stationed in Columbia, South Carolina, for some years now. You know they had been in the Virgin Islands ever since they were married, and in June they were called back to the states. Dr. Royster is a surgeon in the navy, and his wife is a nurse.

HE WAS very small, but mother said that he might come to the table if he would behave like a big man when the company came that evening. He would have to be served last, even at dessert, and he must not talk or ask for things.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES
