

DANIEL BAUGH, HEADED ART CLUB

Founder of Organization and President of Fertilizer Company Was 84

SERVED IN CIVIL WAR

Daniel Baugh, head of Baugh & Sons Co., manufacturers of chemical fertilizers, a founder and for many years president of the Philadelphia Art Club, died yesterday at The Breakers, Palm Beach, Florida. He was eighty-four years old.

Mr. Baugh lived at 1901 Locust street, but had been at Palm Beach throughout the winter. His wife was with him.

Mr. Baugh was born in Chester county October 22, 1836, and attended an academy in that county. Later he was a student at the Trenton Seminary. Upon graduation from this school he entered the business of his father, John P. Baugh, who then conducted a tinners' shop.

In 1856 the elder Baugh turned his attention to the manufacture of fertilizers, under the name of Baugh & Sons, a business which he conducted in Downingtown, Pa., where the business was conducted until 1860, when it was removed to Philadelphia, to become the Delaware River Chemical Works.

He becomes head of firm. This plant was one of the largest of its kind in the country. The volume of business increased rapidly. In 1887 the firm became an important institution, with its business extending throughout the United States. The firm became a corporation, with Edwin F. Baugh as its head. He died in 1888 and Daniel Baugh succeeded him.

Under his administration the institution grew to be one of the largest in the world. Branches were established in Baltimore and Norfolk.

In 1902 Mr. Baugh, as a member of Gray's galleries, was elected to the position when Lee threatened Pennsylvania.

Mr. Baugh devoted much of his attention to the encouragement of art. He was president of the Philadelphia Art Club, and was elected to that position for nine consecutive years.

He was for many years president of the Sanatorium Association of Philadelphia and had been closely associated with the development of several Philadelphia hospitals.

Director of Hospitals. He was identified with Jefferson Medical College and Hospital and Rush Hospital as a member of their boards of managers. He was also a member of the board of managers of the Howard Hospital. He was president of the School of Design for Women, a trustee of the Philadelphia Museum and a member of the Board of Relief Committee of Philadelphia.

In addition to his large holdings in the fertilizer industry, Mr. Baugh was affiliated with several financial institutions, including the Delaware Insurance Co. and the Grand National Bank. He was a director of the Philadelphia Bourse.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter and two sons. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Deaths of a Day CHARLES EVANS

Victorian Banker and Hotelman Dies in Atlantic City

Atlantic City, Feb. 28.—Charles Evans, dean of shore bankers, a retired hotelier who suffered a night of acute pneumonia, after an illness of four days, was one of the men who created a healthy and pleasure metropolis upon Absecon island in the Delaware Bay, two years old and had played a conspicuous part in the city's development.

Mr. Evans was born August 21, 1838, upon a farm in Springtown township, Delaware county, Pa. He was a member of the Society of Friends. He came to Atlantic City in 1860, twelve years after the incorporation of the town, and embarked in the hotel business, proprietor of the Seaside House, then situated half way between Pacific avenue and the present site of the Boardwalk. He invested in the land "made" by the receding ocean and at one time owned practically all of the property upon which the Seaside F. Eastlack Hotel and the homes of United States Senator Edge, Henry W. Leeds and other prominent citizens.

SCHUCK AND JAMES SEEK NEW TRIALS

Attorneys for Condemned Men Filed Formal Appeals for Rehearing

CASE TO GO TO HIGH COURT

Formal appeals for new trials for Raymond W. Schuck and Frank J. James, now in the "death house" at Trenton, awaiting execution for the murder of David S. Paul, the Camden bank messenger, will be filed by their attorneys this afternoon.

The request for new trials will be made to State Chancellor Edwin R. Walker, at Trenton. Refusal of the condemned men's plea will place the case before the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals for review.

Refusal of the appeal is believed to be a foregone conclusion, as the filing of the request with the Chancellor is merely a formality in the New Jersey courts.

J. Russell Carrow and John Harris, attorneys for Schuck and James, respectively, said today that their applications for a new trial were by virtually identical, each basing his appeal on the jury question and the contention that the crime had not been proved when the statements of the men were admitted as evidence at their trials.

The jury question has to do with women on the jury, the attorneys contending that it was not representative.

While Schuck and James have been sentenced to die the week of April 10, the filing of the appeals may stay of sentence until the request is either granted or denied. The applications for new trials will be argued during the week of the court and a decision reached by June.

Should the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals be against the condemned men, their cases can stay of sentence until the United States Supreme Court on the jury question and a delay of several years effected. This would entail great expense to the families of the men.

MARK GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Faas Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Faas celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home, 5038 Spruce street, yesterday, by entertaining their children and grandchildren.

Mr. Faas, artist and illustrator with the Public Ledger when George W. Childs was editor, and for twenty-one years an instructor of the Burlington Seminary at West Chester, is seventy-five years old, and in excellent health.

He is an exponent of the theory that a man keeps busy and cheerful in his activities he may be assured of long life. His own life has proved the theory, he says. However, he plans to retire this summer, and will go to Great Kills, Staten Island.

GIVES ANTI-TYPHUS RULES

Director Furbush Urges Cleanliness as Preventive of Disease

Strict personal cleanliness is urged by Director of Public Health Furbush as a preventive for typhus fever.

The director says that although the malarial fever has not been reported in this city since 1910, yet, due to its existence in New York today, there is a possibility of its being carried here.

Dr. Furbush differentiates between typhus and typhoid fever, saying "the former is usually carried by lice or other vermin, while the latter comes from contaminated food."

In a special bulletin issued yesterday, the health official stated that immigrants should be prevented from bringing this disease home by a careful medical inspection, proper delousing and disinfection.

SEEKS MISSING WIFE

Frederick Ransohoff, of Lumberville, N. J., appealed to the police here today to assist in his search for his wife, Mrs. Helma Ransohoff, thirty-four years old, who disappeared from Lumberville a month ago. Since the wife's disappearance one of Ransohoff's five children died in Cooper Hospital. The father has been caring for the remaining children.

HINTS PATROLMAN TRIED TO AID THIEF

Judge Monaghan Suggests Investigation of Man in Hold-Up Case

EFFORT TO SHIELD IS SEEN

Investigation by Mayor Moore of Director Cortelyou of a patrolman who apparently tried to aid a highway robber was suggested by Judge Monaghan today after he had sentenced the convicted man to ten years in prison.

Edwin Ryan, who gave an address in New York city, was convicted speedily today on a charge of robbing Thomas Jones, Bridgeton, N. J., February 14, at Darien and Wood streets.

Ryan was arrested by Patrolman Stook of the Eleventh and Winter streets station.

The trial had been scheduled for last Monday. At that time Stook informed Judge Monaghan that Jones knew little about the case, beyond the fact that he had been robbed, and that Jones would be unable to identify Ryan.

Judge Monaghan was not satisfied. He sent a court officer after Jones and postponed the trial. Jones today identified Ryan as the man who held him while two others took 88 from his pockets.

He also identified as his watch chain Patrolman Stook testified he found on the accused man.

When the jury convicted Ryan, Judge Monaghan questioned the defendant and learned he had been convicted of entering to steal in New York city. The judge then pronounced sentence.

The judge summoned Patrolman Stook to the stand.

"What was the idea of your telling me a week ago," he asked, "that the prosecutor did not know anything about this case?"

"I can't understand your motive in trying to mislead the court, and I believe the attention of the Mayor as well as the director of public safety should be called to this matter."

MEN ADMIT ATTACK

Speedy Indictment Asked for Assault of School Teacher

Henry Wilson, Kater street near Twenty-first, and Thomas Page, of Fitzwater street near Broad, both Negroes, are said to have made full confessions today to Captain of Detectives Snyder that they attacked and robbed Mrs. Marie Sterrett, a school teacher, near her home, 2025 Bainbridge street, Tuesday night.

What was the idea of your telling me a week ago," he asked, "that the prosecutor did not know anything about this case?"

Wilson and Page, who said they recently came here from Jacksonville, Fla., were taken to the Polytechnic Hospital Saturday night and identified by Mrs. Sterrett as her assailants. Mrs. Sterrett, who teaches in the Alcorn School, is a bride of six months. Her skull was fractured by a blow from a milk bottle wielded by one of the men.

FORM MEDICAL CORPS UNIT

Physicians Connected With Jefferson College Form Military Organization

The Jefferson Medical College has completed the organization of a reserve officers' medical corps unit.

It is one of the five units established in medical colleges throughout the country at the prompting of the surgeon general. The purpose of the corps is to provide the amount of training in military science required of medical men commissioned in the army. At the completion of the training men who have undergone it will be qualified for receiving commissions in the reserve corps.

In summer students will have the privilege of attending summer training camps, at which all expenses will be defrayed by the government.

J. W. Cobb, City Employee, Quits

John W. Cobb, a sanitary inspector in the Bureau of Health since his appointment January 30, 1918, resigned today. He will go upon the municipal pension fund. Mr. Cobb, who is seventy-six years old, lives at 925 Christian street.

LEGION WOULD SHOW WHERE PENNSYLVANIA TROOPS FOUGHT IN EUROPE

Harrisburg, Feb. 28.—(By A. P.)—Appointment of a state commission to go to Europe and mark the line where Pennsylvania troops fought in the world war was urged today by Major William J. Murdock, state adjutant of the American Legion, who was here looking up provisions of acts for similar purposes passed after the Civil War.

Major Murdock said he hoped action would be taken by this Legislature to provide for such a commission to be composed of men who took part in the engagements and whose action could be accepted as accurate as well as of officials when the time comes to erect memorials to the men from the Keystone State on the battlefields of the greatest of wars.

"Pennsylvania has marked the places where her sons fought in the war for suppression of the rebellion, and I trust steps will be taken by the General Assembly to see that something is done in Europe very promptly," said Major Murdock.

MOORE WILL GIVE GIRLS' SCHOOL PLAN

Document Filed Today Reveals Details of $3,000,000 Institute as Memorial to Parents

TRUST IS ESTABLISHED

The will of Joseph Moore, Jr., who lived at 1827 Walnut street, and died the last male member of his family, was probated today. It reveals in complete detail his provision for a girls' school foundation to be known as the Moore Institute, which is to be maintained as a perpetual memorial to his father and mother.

Mr. Moore was prominent in social and financial circles of Philadelphia. In 1914 he was chosen president of the Philadelphia Clearing House, was for more than twenty-five years president of the National Bank of the North-west Liberties, and served as trustee in many organizations of a charitable nature, as well as private nature.

While the value of his holdings at death is given at "upward of $2,000,000" in the instrument filed today, it specifically provides that the estate shall be held in trust until its accrued value reaches at least $3,000,000, one-third of which shall be used to purchase a site and building for the proposed girls' school, the remainder to constitute an endowment.

Other wills probated include those of Louis H. Mohler, 1926 West Columbia avenue, $25,000; George Giles, who died in Freiburg, Switzerland, $8,800; Joseph Glenna, who died at the Jewish Hospital, $4,000; and W. F. Absentzer, 5512 Cambridge street, $15,000.

Inventories of personal estates filed today are as follows: Rebecca E. Seary, $7355.97; Henry Schickel, $4775.01; and Hannah Sickles, $25,106.74.

Letters of administration were granted to the executor of the estate of Arthur W. Hood, 243 West Rittenhouse street, who has the largest and residual property were valued at $600.

THREE FIREMEN INJURED

Hurt at Blaze in North Seventeenth Street Building

Three firemen were injured yesterday fighting a fire in the two-story store and dwelling of J. H. Lear, at 246 North Seventeenth street. A policeman of the Fifteenth and Vine streets station saw smoke coming from the basement and sent in an alarm.

The firemen, who were treated at Hahnemann Hospital, are Richard Boyle, No. 3202 Sanson street; James Lipton, 1218 Westmoreland street; and Bernard Chodwick, 2241 Carpenter street. All were treated for cuts from broken glass and being overcome by smoke.

The fire started in the basement in a pile of rubbish and papers, and made considerable dense smoke, which greatly hampered the firemen.

WALWORTH UTILITY BILL FACING VETO

Jersey Legislature Ready to Override Governor Edwards' Objections

THREE SESSIONS THIS WEEK

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Trenton, Feb. 28.—The Legislature will be in session three days this week. This should enable Republican leaders to get some definite action on measures in which they are vitally interested.

In the Senate, the Anti-Saloon League anticipates a report on the Van Ness prohibition enforcement bill. A report tonight would permit the Senate to take a vote tomorrow or Wednesday.

Republicans anticipate a veto by Governor Edwards of the Walworth Senate bill for reorganization of the public utility commission to be composed of three instead of five commissioners, at salaries of $12,000 a year. A veto would be promptly overridden by the Legislature, Republicans agree.

Banking and other financial interests, vitally affected because the state has been so long without a reorganized utility board, may take the initiative to have the governor and Republican senators agree upon nominees for a new utility commission in order that various security issues pending applications for increases in tolls fares and proposed tariff revisions for other utility corporations may be quickly disposed of.

Appropriation Bill Ready Senator Arthur Whitney, of Morris, will introduce probably tomorrow the annual appropriation bill. Appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to June 30, 1922, contained in the bill, it is understood, will be practically within the recommendations of Governor Edwards' budget message for expenditures of approximately $15,350,000. The bill proposes an appropriation of $200,000 for equipping the county's constabulary.

Some idea of a Republican party policy on the constabulary issue may be known before the session opens tonight. The Republican state committee meets today for the formal selection of twenty-one women members of the constabulary, in accordance with a 1921 law. After the women are duly chosen the constabulary question will be discussed and a vote taken for information of the Republican legislators.

Mrs. Margaret B. Latrod, the Newark assemblywoman, has been induced by the Essex county Republican committee to accept a second state committee representative.

To Curb Druggists Practitioners Governor Edwards is receiving advice from many quarters as to the kind of man to be selected for state commissioner of education, succeeded by Dr. Calvin Kendall of Princeton, who may decline another five-year term because of ill health. Various quarters credit the reports that Henry Snyder, superintendent of the Jersey City schools, will be named as state commissioner for the term beginning July 1.

There is a bill pending in the Legislature to increase the state commissioner's salary from $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

Medical men have bills ready for action in both houses to seek to further regulate osteopathy and chiropractic. Senator Barber, of Warren, a medical practitioner, is backing the Senate bill to abolish the state board of chiropractors, and Majority Leader Rowland stands sponsor for a similar House measure. Both bills propose that the governor shall name a chiropractor to the State Board of Medical Examiners.

While the chiropractors are being fought in both legislative houses, the osteopaths having one representative on the State Medical Board, are seeking to establish a separate state licensing department.

SOME LIGHT SENTENCES JUSTIFIED, JUDGES DECLARE

Refuse Direct Comment on Mayor's Reference to "Chicken-Hearted"

Judges in Philadelphia courts, while surprised at Mayor Moore's after-dinner comment that jurists are "becoming chicken-hearted," decline to express themselves as to their interpretations of the statement.

Judge Charles V. Audenried takes this attitude: "I am just minding my own business, and therefore I have nothing to say in this matter."

Judge William H. Staake, who has not tried many criminal cases, calls attention to the record of long sentences imposed by Judge Monaghan.

"No one except a trial judge is justified in saying whether a sentence imposed is too light, for no one outside a trial judge knows the inside facts of a case," he said.

"This is Judge J. Willis Martin's idea. Sentences are very often dependent upon the human side of the case. Perhaps the prosecutor wishes a defendant to have another chance. Perhaps the defendant has a wife and children dependent upon him. Perhaps the defendant may have been guilty of a series of offenses, and is therefore not entitled to the same consideration as the man who is in a way of anger or remorse has lost his head and committed a crime. Who knows? You know we judges, very often, go outside the courtroom and look into the psychological aspects of the case."

Judge Horace Stern: "Every case must be decided on its own merits and peculiar phases, and no general rules can be laid down. Every person, you know, has his own opinion as related to individual sentences imposed."

HANNUM TO BE JUDGE

To Be Appointed to Delaware County Orphans' Court When Bill Passes

John Hannum, Sr., will be the appointee as Orphans' Court judge for Delaware county, upon passage of the law creating that office.

That he will be appointed by Governor Sprunt was indicated in a statement made at a testimonial dinner to Chief of Police E. J. Sweeney, of Haverford township, on Saturday night.

Mr. Hannum is one of the best-known lawyers in Delaware county, having practiced in the courts of that county over a long period of years. His son, John Hannum, Jr., has held the office of district attorney in Delaware county, and both father and son are personal acquaintances of Governor Sprunt.

A bill is now in the Senate, introduced by Senator A. D. MacDale, of Newlin, creating the Orphans' Court in that county. The population of a county passes the 150,000 mark, creation of such a court is mandatory. Therefore, the measure will pass. For more than a month there has been speculation as to who would be selected for the judgeship.

TIPSTAVES' GRAB DUE TO HIT SNAG

Bill to Increase Pay of Court Officers to Be Amended or Killed

OPPOSITION TOO STRONG

By a Staff Correspondent Harrisburg, Feb. 28.—Just as the Sowers underworld bill struck a snag in the House on third reading and was shot back to committee, so it is expected the Brady tipstaff "grab" will meet obstruction tonight when it comes up for third reading and final passage in the lower chamber.

The bill introduced by Representative Brady from President Judge Brown's ward, the Fifteenth, would increase the salaries of all tipstaves in Philadelphia, in the Common Pleas, Quarter Sessions and Municipal Courts from $2000 a year with bonus to $2500 with a bonus. A movement is under way, it was learned today, to have the bill amended so as to reduce the increase by about half, or have it committed to the House committee. It is amended the cost to taxpayers will be $50,000 annually.

One proposal is that the bill be amended so as to make the new salary no greater than it is now, with a bonus added by court. This would make the statutory salary $2400. The increase at this time would carry the court officials in making up next year's municipal budget.

The Dix bill providing for floating short-term loans for street paving and fire equipment is up for final passage in the House tonight. It amends the city charter and is backed by Richard Wieglin, president of City Council, City Solicitor South, however, has suggested amendments with a view of also limiting such short-term loans to street paving.

Mr. Sweeney's proposals may result in Victim Who Contributes $8 Gets Twenty-five-Cent Refund Masked robbers held up John Stach, 2147 Weikel street, and James Leech, 3132 Gault street, at Allegheny avenue and Wylie street last night. From Stach they obtained $8 and from Leech thirty-five cents. Stach told them it was a long walk home in the rain. "All right, take this," said a bandit, handing a quarter to his victim. Leech, who had contributed only thirty-five cents to the fund of robbers, made no comment about walking and got no refund. He figured that his refund on thirty-five cents, if his partner only got twenty-five cents after contributing $8, would be so small it would not pay for a car ticket. So he kept silence.
