

HITCHCOCK ASSAILS KNOX RESOLUTION

Adoption of Measure Called Attempt to Dictate Harding's Foreign Policy

IMMIGRATION BILL REPORTED WOULD ENTER ALL FIELDS

By the Associated Press. Washington, April 29.—Adoption of the Knox resolution would be an attempt to dictate the international policy of President Harding...

Assaults "Interference"

"It assumes," he said, "the right of interference which only the executive has power to negotiate. What has become of the far-famed co-operation between the executive branch of the government and Congress...

"There already is a conflict between the new executive and Republican leaders in the Senate. Are we about to witness an attempt to dictate to the President to ignore his recommendations, to override his protests in the matter of foreign policy?"

The measure, which this matter has been brought into the Senate and handled in the Senate is, perhaps, without a precedent. It is an attempt to be not through in any manner. There has been no discussion as to its merits or consideration of its effects.

"A resolution involving the foreign policy of the United States and assuming to dictate to the President of the United States is to be passed, to vote here without apparently any effort to explain its meaning or justify its enactment. It is to be passed through the Senate by a vote of 75 to 25, and through a city council when the votes can be counted upon."

The House immigration restriction bill was reported favorably today by the Senate immigration committee after elimination of provisions to award special privileges for entrance of minors and persons subject to religious persecution.

Kahn Wants Bigger Army. Chairman Kahn, of the military affairs committee, told the House today that an enlisted force of 168,000 men and 10,000 women would be required to meet the demand for reduction of government expenses. Mr. Kahn declared the secretary of war would be required to submit a plan for the reduction of the military establishment.

The War Department is strongly opposed to the plan, which would reduce the enlisted force to 100,000 men and 10,000 women. Mr. Kahn declared the secretary of war would be required to submit a plan for the reduction of the military establishment.

HONOR FIRST SETTLERS

Colonel Paxson Describes Monument for Tinicum Island. Colonel R. C. Paxson, addressing the Swedish Colonial Society last night, outlined plans for a statue which the society is to erect on Tinicum Island in honor of the first settlers in this region.

The site on the island has not been definitely chosen. Colonel Paxson said that the monument would appear honoring the memory of the Swedish settlers who built on that spot Prince Hall, the first dwelling by the colony. BRYN MAWR HEAD HAILS WOMAN ERA

President Thomas, at May Day Fete, Sees Full Sex Equality

WOULD ENTER ALL FIELDS

College graduates of today will see in their generation women active in statehood serving as United States senators, perhaps even in the presidential chair, according to Dr. M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr College.

In his address to the students at the annual May Day exercises today, the spoke of the many and varied interests of the women of this age and prophesied bigger and better opportunities than ever before.

"The talents that have been lying dormant in our country are being awakened," she said. "In your generation you will be in the midst of movements opening new and interesting fields to womanhood. We shall have to have great new women. Train your selves for the highest and best. Let woman be principled and unflinching in her demands for equal educational and professional opportunities on the teaching staffs of educational colleges of the country."

Criticizes Poor Rewards. "Few educational colleges today have women professors. If women are to be given equal opportunities in the professions, open hospitals to women physicians, open business and professional life to women. It has been a constant surprise to me to see women who are hard without reward. They spend years in study and preparation only to be given assistant positions as the highest round of the ladder. The woman who has the intelligence of a genius, awards and scholarships as a means of acknowledging work well done and encouraging to greater efforts."

Throughout her talk, as well as through the entire May Day exercises, there was brightness and joy aplenty, despite the early refusal of the sun to be so forthcoming in its rays. The day was bright and sunny, with a few clouds in the sky. The exercises were held in the gymnasium of the college. The exercises were held in the gymnasium of the college.

THINK RHODES GIRL SHOT FOR BURGLAR

Fatal Wound Made by Shotgun, Believed to Have Been Fired From Farmhouse

SUSPECT ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger. Lewistown, Pa., April 29.—Erma Rhodes, the fourteen-year-old Redville girl found mortally wounded on the McClure road, near here, Wednesday night, died of wounds from a double-barreled shotgun, and not from revolver shots of the law, as at first believed, the whole aspect of the case.

An autopsy performed late last night by coroner Barr revealed thirty-nine No. 2 shots imbedded in the girl's back and skinned the whole aspect of the strange case.

Flinding of the shots in the girl's body virtually corroborates the girl's brother, Reed Rhodes, a paupered prisoner, in connection with the shooting.

It is known the brother had no weapons but a 32-40 repeating rifle, which was found near the spot where the brother, after trying to drag his dying sister with him, abandoned her and took to the impenetrable wooded section of Jack's mountain.

The authorities are now working on the theory that the shotgun was fired from the window of near-by farmhouse, which, it is believed, the brother was attempting to rob.

It is believed the brother was attempting to force his way into a small garage on the farmhouse and had left his sister in the middle of the road to stand guard.

Apparently, the brother awakened members of the family at the farmhouse. A window was raised and then the sister shouted a warning to her brother and then started to run. It is believed the brother was fired from the window of near-by farmhouse, which, it is believed, the brother was attempting to rob.

Seeing his sister fall, the brother probably took her in his arms and sought to carry her to the nearby forest. Fifty yards from the spot where she was shot he was forced to abandon her.

Coroner Barr at first believed the girl's death had been due to three revolver shots in the right jaw. At the autopsy it was disclosed that the jaw was shattered by a shotgun charge.

The brother is now sought merely as a witness to clear up the mystery as to how Erma Rhodes came to her death.

POLICE TRAIL MEN WHO ROBBED BANK

Remaining Two Believed Hiding in Mine Drift Near Girardville

ENTIRE $5000 RECOVERED

Pottsville, Pa., April 29.—Two of the Girardville bank bandits are still at large, but the state police believe they are hiding in the mountains of the northwestern part of Schuylkill county.

A detail of motorcycle officers left here this morning when a hurry call the fugitives are believed to be hiding in the mountains. The motorist was rounding the Girardville bank is surrounded with mine drifts and openings, and it is believed the bandits have found refuge in one of these places.

John Bruhl, one of the men implicated in yesterday's robbery of $5000, was given the second degree today by state police, who questioned him several hours. It is said the bandits were John Barton and Samuel Heck, both having numerous aliases.

Bruhl, who had $5000 in bank funds in his possession when arrested, was the original intention of his little gang to rob the Mahanoy City bank. They made a surety on the situation and decided the risk was too great, so selected a smaller town.

The expedition was plainly mystified by the police got on the track of the fugitives even got out of sight of the bank, but they were not allowed to adopt an elaborate set of precautions adopted by the state police.

The bandits also overlooked one other precaution. They thought they had Charles Schreiner, Taylor Baranoff and Philip Portner, a clerk, and they hid up in the vault, and that they—the bandits—had time to escape. Baranoff's name was on the list of the bank, announcing the robbery to the citizens, started the pursuit. It is believed one of the fugitives was shot during the chase.

Bank officials say all loot has been recovered. The status of the chauffeur who drove the bandits who the second day after their escape, has not been determined. The police say it is an extraordinary coincidence that he should have been in the vicinity of the bank when the bandits were shot. It is believed he was hired at Mahanoy City to take the men to Ashland. There was a large party of men on the road at the time when they were shot. It is believed the bandits told him to wait. When they came from the bank they presented a pistol at his head and compelled him to drive off.
