

MAKES BIKE BETTER THAN A "FLIVVER"

Edgar H. Redington, North 28th Street, Wins Public Ledger Prize

VIEWS OF OTHER WINNERS

"With a few accessories, it's better than a flivver," is the impression of Edgar H. Redington, 2758 North Twenty-eighth street, a student at the Northeast High School, who was one of the fortunate ones to earn a Black Beauty bicycle by securing thirty-five subscriptions to the Evening, Morning and Sunday Public Ledgers.

"Since I received the bicycle," says Edgar, "I've been riding it during the day, and at night my main thought is to rest up for the next day."

"Beauty is the proper name for this wheel. If it had a windshield and a top it would be better than a flivver." In the short time of three days Orville Morrison, eleven years old, of 10 Keystone avenue, Upper Darby, gathered thirty-seven subscriptions to the Evening, Morning and Sunday Ledger and therefore won a bicycle.

Under the terms of the agreement with every boy and girl who enters the Ledger campaign, he was only required to obtain thirty-five subscriptions, but couldn't stop until he piled up thirty-seven.

Orville serves the Ledgers in Upper Darby, and has the knack of getting business. He is a pup at the Keystone Public School. Although he is a pretty busy boy, he says he will set a certain time aside each day for taking a ride astride his new bicycle.

Otto Schmidt, 4141 North Sixth street, another who earned a Black Beauty, sends word to other boys and girls who are striving for the bicycles that it isn't hard to get a book filled after the start is made.

"I know by experience," he writes "that this offer is a real one and that every boy and girl that works for one of these wheels will get it. I am so attached to my wheel that I hate to leave it long enough to eat my meals."

Joseph Beaver, Jr., 4000 Pechin street, Roxborough, extends thanks to the PUBLIC LEDGER for his bicycle, and states that many other boys and girls in that section are working to win the coveted Black Beauty.

John H. B. Bosbyshell, 1804 South Fifty-third street, writes that it took him seventeen days to secure the necessary thirty-five subscriptions, but that it was worth the effort.

BATHERS WORRY RADNOR

Censor May Be Named to Make Men Dress Modestly

The appointment of a hardened beach censor to take the strain of looking for no-piece and one-piece bathing suits off the harassed policemen of Radnor Township is being considered by John Kent Kano, police commissioner, and Chief of Police Sweeney.

The cause of all the worry is Earl's Dam, near the Radnor Hunt. Each Sunday and holiday sees as many as a thousand persons bathing there and the police must be constantly on the alert to see that fashionable, but skimpy, bathing attire does not shock the modest country folk who live in the vicinity.

"The men are the worst offenders," said Captain Sweeney. "Many of them appear in trunks, minus jerseys. Now I hold that if up to us to censor men's attire, also."

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

AUTUMN FASHIONS Hundreds of New Autumn Dresses Shown for the First Time

Canton crepe, satin-faced Canton crepe, crepe Georgette, crepe meteor, matelasse and lace, with graceful, flowing draperies from shoulder to hem; free-swinging panels that drop below the skirt and give the much heralded irregular length; side fullness that seems to drape of itself; new sleeves that apparently merge into the dress without any definite plan—many long, loose sleeves on the Persian order.

Elegant models, wonderfully simple, with many in black, the others in blue and brown, and priced from $60.00 to $155.00. The model sketched—$62.50.

Smart New Tweed Suits Arrive for Autumn

Greys, blues, browns, greens—beautiful tones; and there's something so smart and trim and English in their long, slender, well-tailored lines. Mountain sojourners and tourists will find these just what they need for immediate use. Prices—$30.00 to $47.50.

Worsted Jersey Suits, Autumn Models, $18.75

Smart New Top Coats and Wraps
