Nancy Wynne Tells of the Tait McKenzies Being Presented at Court—News About Other Philadelphians in Europe

I HEAR that the R. Tait McKenzies are having a beautiful time in England, and were presented at the Court of St. James. The presentations took place at the Royal Garden party which place at the King and Queen gave on the 21st of July instead of the usual three-evening courts. The evening courts were postponed on account of the miners' strike.

Perhaps later we will hear a detailed account of the presentation. I hope so, as it will surely be different from the usual ones. The evening dress, the headpiece and long train cannot well be worn. There's something about the King George that I like very much. And how delightful I like very much. And how delightful I like very much.

Perhaps later we will hear a detailed account of the presentation. I hope so, as it will surely be different from the usual ones. The evening dress, the headpiece and long train cannot well be worn.
