

NICETOWN TO HONOR TWO SOLDIER DEAD

Former "Buddies" Will Pay Final Tribute at Burials Next Week

FLOWER FUND COLLECTED

The first two Nicetown boys to return in flag-draped caskets from the battlefields of France, will be buried the first of next week with all the honors a loving neighborhood and former "buddies" can bestow.

The boys are James C. Kane, formerly of 4345 Wayne avenue, and Joseph T. Agostini, who lived at 1915 Roman street. The bodies of both young men came back home yesterday afternoon.

GALLI-CURCI RECITAL

Capacity Crowd Again Greets Great Coloratura at the Academy

The amazing popularity of Amelita Galli-Curci again was demonstrated last evening at the Academy of Music, when a crowd that filled the building to the doors and overflowed on the steps to the extent of 400 or 500 persons, greeted the great Italian coloratura on the occasion of her first recital here this season.

Mrs. Galli-Curci's program presented some novelties, at least as far as Philadelphia audiences are concerned, as well as some of the numbers in which she is supreme in the field of coloratura work. Among the former were an old Italian aria by Lotti, coupled with a modern Italian form by Donaudy, the "Mad Scene" from Thomas' "Hamlet," a florid but generally ineffective number, except in so far as it shows off the method of vocalization of the singer, and a beautiful Spanish song, "Suena o Vele." Among the familiar works were "Ah, Fors e Lui," Ardit's rollicking waltz song "Il Bacio," a group of American songs and the "Mad Scene" from "Laria."

sing them with an artistry which the purely coloratura work does not permit. She was well received, and gave many encores, widely contrasted in character.

Mrs. Galli-Curci was assisted by Manuel Heranger, flutist, who played obligato in the two "Mad Scenes" and played two solos of excellent style, and Homer Samuels, who displayed his usual, or, rather, unusual art as an accompanist.

BOY DRINKS GASOLINE

Three-Year-Old Child, in Hospital, Will Recover

Three-year-old Patsy Sciole's father bought a bottle of gasoline for cleaning purposes and put it in the back yard of the Sciole home at 232 North Fifty-fifth street yesterday afternoon. A short time later the boy drank some of the gasoline.
