

SHOT AS HE FIGHTS BANDIT IN SALOON

Bullet Grazes Eye of Proprietor of Place, Second and Wharton Streets

THUG BEATEN AND NABBED

Nicholas Motelatis, proprietor of a saloon at Second and Wharton streets, was slightly wounded when a bullet grazed the flesh above his eye during a fight last night with a man who, it is alleged, first attempted to extort money from him and when refused tried to hold up the saloon.

James McCabe said by police to have an associate of "Red" Murphy, notorious gunman shot and killed by a watchman a month ago, got the worst of the fight with the saloonkeeper. Motelatis, despite the wound across his head, bent the alleged gunman, disarmed him and then delivered him to the police.

He was held for the Grand Jury without bail by Magistrate Baker in the Seventh and Carpenter streets station charged with impersonation of a Government officer, extortion, assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill and carrying a concealed dagger, and with violating the Eighteenth Amendment, but would suppress it for a consideration—namely $200.

McCabe kept telling him to get out. McCabe abandoned his first line of endeavor and then proclaimed the saloon and its occupants were about to be held up.

"Everybody present please hold up your hands," McCabe is said to have cried.

Motelatis disregarded the command and grappled with him. They struggled about the place for some time when McCabe, it is alleged, pulled a gun and fired. The bullet grazed his opponent's eye.

Motelatis slumped up for a moment, but took up the fight again, disarming McCabe and beat him with his own weapon. The row in the place alarmed nearby residents, who telephoned to the police and it was at this point that patrolmen entered and arrested McCabe.

60 MARINES BEGIN DUTY OF GUARDING MAIL HERE

Number Will Be Increased to 100 in Near Future, It is Announced

Fifty marines are on duty here today guarding the mail trucks and railroad station postoffices, and fifty more are to be added to the local detail soon and will be under the command of Captain C. M. McClure and Second Lieutenant H. C. Blum.

A conference was held at Postmaster Bennett's office this morning to discuss the new rules for guarding the mails. It was announced that every train leaving Philadelphia for New York, Newark, Camden, Patuxent, Pottsville, Reading and Norfolk will be guarded by two marines. From the moment the mail leaves the postoffice until it reaches its destination an armed guard will be on duty.

Every mail truck leaving the central postoffice will be guarded by three marines. The guard will be on duty inside with the mail. They have orders to shoot to kill any one who attempts to interfere with the handling of the mails. Superintendent of Mails John A. Wynne said he expects to hold up a mail truck now must be crazy.

VETERANS TO MEET

Fourth Division Buddies to Hear Major Wynne Talk

Members of the Fourth Division, A. E. F., will have a grand reunion and smoker tonight at Grand Fraternity Hall, 1628 Arch street.

This is the first reunion of the Fourth Division Society of Pennsylvania, and it is expected that there will be at least a thousand "buddies" present from all over the State. Major Samuel O. Wynne will give an interesting talk on "Rounding 'Em Up," in which he will relate some of his experiences as a criminal investigator.

MEMORIAL FOR GRIFFITHS

Late Philanthropist to Be Honored at Services Tomorrow

A memorial service to the late George Griffiths will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church, Washington Square. Mr. Griffiths was an elder and Sunday school superintendent of the church and well known for his philanthropies. The speakers will be Dr. Robert Ellis Thompson and the Hon. John Wanamaker.

Twin Bed Lecture

"Mrs. Doreleigh has just decided to have her fur coat remodeled. She had just decided to talk it over with Mr. Doreleigh, who is trying to do as usual, to get a little sleep. Mrs. Doreleigh will see to it that he gets a little as usual."

YES, I think I'll have it remodeled. That's about time, too. I suppose you'd let me wear it until it fell off of me before you'd suggest having it remodeled. That's just like you. Talk to me in your wife's appearance. And get to quick enough to make good to have my old coat remodeled. I hear that I'd ask you if it didn't need it had enough. When did I get that coat, any way? How long have I worn it? Years and years.

Look at it. Have you ever looked at it? All liked up in front and down in back and the lining—have you seen the lining? And the buttons. They look as if the dog was cutting teeth on them. And the hair spots. It looks like the living room rug. You'd think it had eczema. But a lot you care. It could fall off me for all your care. AW, LET ME SLEEP.

Yes, that's it. Let me sleep. That's all I get out of you. Well, I'm going to have it remodeled. Don't care what it costs. It's small thanks I get for trying to save. Men think more of a woman who dresses up and looks her best. Isn't that so? (Loud snore.)

Dies in Reno

CLAIRE NAGEL, Third wife of Arthur Hammerstein, who died in Reno, Nev., last night

CLAIRE NAGEL DIES IN RENO, NEVADA

Third Wife of Arthur Hammerstein Expires Following Rumors of Separation

WAS STAR IN "TUMBLE IN"

Reno, Nev., Nov. 12.—(By A. P.)—Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein, formerly Claire Nagel, actress of New York, and wife of the son of the late Oscar Hammerstein, died last night at a hospital here.

Miss Nagel and Hammerstein were married in Jersey City June 9, 1919. She was his third wife. Last spring it was rumored they were separated, and that probably accounted for Mrs. Hammerstein's presence in Reno at the time of her death.

At the time of her marriage Miss Nagel was appearing in "Tumble In," one of Hammerstein's productions.

Their romance began one sultry afternoon in his offices in Broadway when a very pretty and very blonde girl applied for a part in a then unnamed musical piece he was casting. This was Miss Nagel. After several delays, the producer consented to see her and she was engaged for the corset girl in "Tumble In."

Miss Nagel's temperament so impressed her manager that he promoted her to the role of the little girl in the roof scene who sang "Won't You Help Me Out?" Her singing of lively little numbers appealed to the producer as much as it did to audiences.

Mrs. Hammerstein's home was in Buffalo, N. Y., had been on the stage about three years, having appeared in that time in the Ziegfeld Follies, in "Rock-a-Bye Baby," and in "Jack of Lantern" in support of Fred Stone.

Mr. Hammerstein first married in 1903 Miss Jenn Kent Alliston in Jersey City in April, 1910, she obtained a divorce at Reno on the ground of non-support. They had one daughter, Miss Elaine Hammerstein, now a well-known actress in her father's productions and in pictures also.

Mr. Hammerstein married again in September of the same year. His second wife was Joan A. Houghland, and before her marriage a choir singer in Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn. She obtained a divorce on May 15, 1915, at Newark, N. Y.

"So far I've been married three times. Each marriage has been a failure. Claire Nagel at times is the most angelic woman in the world. I never had a wife I was more interested in. The days of our courtship were the happiest of my life. She was a real pal. I found her a good little sport and a fascinating companion."

"When we were married she seemed to change. It wasn't long before I knew I had made a great mistake. It was a question of temperament and temper. I don't want to talk about that, but Claire's temper was well, unwell."

Members of the Fourth Division, A. E. F., will have a grand reunion and smoker tonight at Grand Fraternity Hall, 1628 Arch street. This is the first reunion of the Fourth Division Society of Pennsylvania, and it is expected that there will be at least a thousand "buddies" present from all over the State. Major Samuel O. Wynne will give an interesting talk on "Rounding 'Em Up," in which he will relate some of his experiences as a criminal investigator.

Oh, very well? You're trying to be sarcastic, are you? That's all I get for my struggling and saving and slaving for you night and day? Ask you to have my old coat remodeled. Not that I'd ask you if it didn't need it had enough. When did I get that coat, any way? How long have I worn it? Years and years.

Look at it. Have you ever looked at it? All liked up in front and down in

SPIESE RECEIVERS GIVEN EXTENSION

Credit Corporation Affairs Will Now Undergo Country-Wide Probe

TO SUE ALLIED CONCERNS

A country-wide investigation of affairs of the National Guarantee Credit Corporation and auxiliary concerns will be made possible through extension of the temporary receivership by the company today by Judge Rogers in Common Pleas Court No. 2.

A request for such an extension was made by Byron A. Miller, of counsel for the receivers. Mr. Miller also requested permission of the court to bring suit against Justice & Co., the Federal Guaranty Company and the National Music Stores, all branches of the National Guaranty Company.

Hundreds of complaints have been pouring into the receivers, Thomas H. Meagher and Francis A. McAdams, since the National Guaranty Credit Corporation was forced into the temporary receivership two weeks ago. The complainants, all investors in the stock of credit company and its branches, asserted that the affairs of the various companies were being conducted in an extravagant manner, and there was considerable loss of the concern's weathering the storm.

Suit against Worth & Co., which sold the stock of the National Guaranty Company, was brought by the receivers. Dr. Herbert A. Arnold, resigned yesterday when he announced that he was not satisfied with the way affairs of the concern were being conducted by Franklin Spiess, vice president and general manager of the credit corporation, and also an officer in each of the other organizations named.

News that Dr. Arnold had resigned has caused a general scurrying for cover among other officers of the organization.

Several officers of the credit corporation and its auxiliary companies, having heard that criminal action would be taken, are now seeking to withdraw gracefully from the tangled financial affairs of the various companies which are involved.

Receivers for the Credit Corporation have been hard at work upon the books and documents of the firm having found evidence of a mysterious disappearance of approximately $200,000. Checks for this amount made payable to Worth & Co., but cashed by Franklin Spiess without ever having passed through the account of Worth & Co., were discovered by the receivers. Francis M. McAdams and Thomas J. Meagher.

Spiess organized the credit Corporation and then organized Worth & Co., to sell the stock. The corporation was organized to finance time payments on automobiles, motor trucks and tractors.

In view of the latest discovery by the receivers and in view of other facts developed by their investigation, William A. Gray, attorney for a committee of stockholders, said he had advised his clients that they have a criminal case to present. Judge Rogers has announced that he will sit next week as a committing magistrate to hear charges in the case. More than $1,000,000 was subscribed by approval of 3000 stockholders for stock in the credit concern. Worth & Co., under contracts filed by the receivers, received a commission of 28 per cent and all expenses for selling the stock.

CAN'T FIGHT AT HOME 'CAUSE WIFE IS BOSS

So He Took It Out on a Trolley Conductor—Must Keep Peace

Robert Gould, Marston street near Clearfield, told Magistrate Price today he couldn't fight at home because his wife was boss. He was arrested last night when he started a fight with the conductor of an Allegheny avenue trolley car when it didn't stop at a "skip-stop."

Gould acknowledged he was drunk and that he had used abusive language to the conductor, Paul Viner, 2331 East Williams street, after the trolley employe complained of being punctured in the stomach.

"I suppose you're one of these fellows who go home and beat their wives when you have too much spirit on board," the magistrate said.

"Oh, no, she's boss," Gould said. "Then maybe you're one of these heckleful persons who likes to pick on other women's husbands." Magistrate Price added.

Gould shrugged his shoulders and shuffled around and then said he didn't like to fight at all. He couldn't remember having struck the conductor.

"All right," said the magistrate, "$300 bail bond to keep the peace."

Artists to See Canvases An artists' evening for a private view of the annual water-color and miniature exhibitions of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts will be given tonight at the Academy at half-past eight o'clock. Only members and stockholders of the Academy and professional artists will be admitted. There will be a dance in the course of the evening.

Young lady with 5 years' experience in stenography, expert stenographer, high school and business college education. A reference to come to the Black Horse.

MARINES GUARD MAIL HERE

One of fifty of Uncle Sam's sea fighters assigned to this district to protect mail trains, trucks and railroad postoffices

"THIS IS AGE OF UGLINESS," IS FIGURE PAINTER'S COMPLAINT

George de F. Brush Sees Hope for Artistic Revival, Despite Subways and Unattractive Streets

This is an age of ugliness and lack of appreciation of things beautiful, according to George de Forest Brush, noted figure painter, who is in this city to deliver a course of lectures at the Art Alliance.

"Everything in our daily life is ugly," he said today. "The subways, the streets, most of the buildings, that it is no cause for wonder that some of the latest developments in art are unlovely."

"Of late years a great many more people have undertaken to be artistic than was formerly the case. The present facilities for giving training are inadequate, many are ill-trained, actuated more by curiosity than any other motive, and the great majority are sadly lacking in talent."

IRISH ENVOY COMING HERE

Harry Boland, Former Secretary to de Valera, to Speak Tomorrow Night

Harry Boland, Irish envoy to America, former secretary to Eamon de Valera and the courier between de Valera and Mr. Lloyd George, who delivered the famous message that was the turning point in bringing about the Irish conference, will speak in this city tomorrow night.

Mr. Boland, who recently returned from Ireland, where he took part in the session of Dail Eireann, the Irish Parliament, will speak at the Academy of Music. Other speakers will be the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, vice president of the Sinn Fein organization; John J. Coghlan, Colonel Thomas J. Meagher, Frederick P. Boyer, Captain John F. Campbell, James A. Flaherty and Representative O'Connor, of Florida.

MOVE CHANDLER PAPERS

Brokerage Firm's Effects to Be in Custody of Trustee

Earl Mendenhall, head of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Chandler Brothers & Co., and Frederick T. Chandler, Jr., a member of the firm, are packing up the papers and documents of the firm this morning preparing to move into the office of Willard P. Barrows, trustee in bankruptcy, in the Land Title Building.

The furniture and fixtures of the Chandler office are to be sold at public auction and the office must be vacated by November 21.

FREE EXHIBITION PAINTINGS McCLEES GALLERIES 1507 WALNUT

Drive to the Wild Goose Tea Room Baltimore Pike, Wawa, Pa. AIR, ROADS AND FOOD ALL GOOD Luncheon Tea Supper

NEW PRICES 5-Pass. Touring $1250 2-Pass. Roadster $1250 4-Pass. Coupe $2100 F. O. B. Detroit THE HATCH MOTORS CO 710 N. BROAD ST - PHILA. FRANKFORD DEALER Charles J. McHugh 3172 Frankford Ave. GERMANTOWN DEALER Krukel Brothers Wayne Ave. & Washington Lane MAIN LEASE DEALER E. N. Crossman, Jr. 1000 Locust St. WEST PHILA. DEALER Arnold-Campbell Motor Co. 5th & Walnut St.

WOMAN IS KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Four Men, Including Three Patrolmen, Injured in Other Motor Accidents

BOY IS ALSO HURT

One aged woman was killed and four men and a boy were injured in accidents upon the city streets within the past forty-four hours.

Mrs. Katherine McIntosh, seventy-one years old, 3200 Market street, lost her life at Fifty-first and Walnut streets last night when she stepped in the path of an automobile driven by George Geiger, 4647 James street, Frankford.

The woman was crossing Walnut street where Geiger's machine, going east on the same street, struck her. Geiger placed the woman in his car and took her to the Misericordia Hospital, where physicians say she died almost instantly.

Geiger, who surrendered to police of the Fifty-fifth and Pine streets station, Magistrate Dugan, in the Thirty-second street and Woodland avenue station house. He was held without bail to await the action of the Coroner.

Three policemen were injured in a collision of a motor patrol of the Belgrade and Cecil-street station and a Frankford avenue street car near William street about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The patrol and street car were badly damaged.

The injured policemen are: Edward Moore, 4555 Edgemoor street, and Charles Vogt, 2215 Locust street, taken to the Northwestern Hospital, and Acting Patrol Sergeant James J. Lees, 3017 Chatham street, taken to the Episcopal Hospital.

While riding a bicycle near his home on Church road, Ogontz, last night, Wesley Chew, twelve years old, collided with an unoccupied automobile left off and when taken to the Jewish Hospital was found to have suffered a fractured skull. His condition is serious.

KILLED IN BRIDGETON RACE

Mechanic of Speed Car Loses Life as Result of Collision

Bridgeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—One man was fatally injured here yesterday when two racing cars collided in an automobile race held in connection with the Armistice Day celebration.

Samuel Stratton, twenty-four years old, of Mullica Hill, was fatally injured in the car driven by Percy McFadden, popularly known as the speed king of South Jersey, collided with another machine during a race. Both McFadden and Stratton, his mechanic, were thrown on the track when their car overturned and a third car passed over Stratton's body. He died while being taken to a hospital.

A bruised arm was the only injury suffered by McFadden, whose home is in Glassboro.

Here Are More Names As Fair Suggestions

THE WORLD'S VICTORY EXPOSITION is suggested by Harry T. Wilkins, 315 South Forty-fourth street, as a name for the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration in 1925.

DEMOCRACY'S JUBILEE is suggested by Frank Schwarz, 5940 Carpenter street.

TRANS-ATLANTIC EXPOSITION by Frank J. Quinn, 2742 South Eleventh street.

THE UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION by L. H. C. Magee, 720 Lawson avenue.

THE UNIVERSAL PROGRESSIVE EXPOSITION by John H. Thompson, 92 North Forty-seventh street.

BILLY PENN'S WORLD'S FAIR by Edwin S. Candy, 4703 Worth street.

WORLD UNITY EXPOSITION by Thomas F. McElroy, of Wilmington, Del.

THE FAIRFEST OF ALL FAIRS by Edward Mauspecker, of Easting, Pa.

ALLIED ENTENTE EXPOSITION OF 1925 by G. Clarence Brooks, Jr., 6412 Elwood avenue.

THE EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER daily receives many suggestions. Have you given yours?

MILK AND GAS MIX

Gloucester Mayor Finds Rum Also Was Involved in Experiment

An automobile driven by Orley Twigg, of 1601 North Twenty-seventh street, Camden, crashed into a milk wagon driven by C. Jay Murray, of 200 Broad, at Broadway and Third streets, Gloucester, and Morris street, Gloucester. The wagon was overturned, milk spilled on the streets and Murray badly bruised.

Twigg and two men and a woman who were in his car were arrested. Mayor Anderson held Twigg in $500 bail for further hearing and fined Thomas Magland, of 530 Levost terrace, Camden, $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. The two passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sweeney, of the same address, were held as witnesses.

ROB CIGAR STORE

Thugs Escape in Auto With Small Amount of Loot

Three men walked into the cigar store of Solomon James at Twenty-sixth and Oxford streets shortly before midnight and, after asking for a pack of cigarettes, grabbed two cans of cigars and dashed out the door dropping one of the cans.

Mr. James ran after them, yelling "Stop, thief, robbers." They jumped into an automobile in which two other men were waiting and started west on Oxford street. A crowd gave chase. Two shots were fired into the crowd from the automobile, but no one was hurt.

Patrolman Loses Trousers in Fight Bernard Wilson and Walter Cooper, Negroes, who were arrested at Broad and South streets last night for fighting, gave the patrol wagon crew such a battle that when they arrived at the Twelfth and Pine streets station, Patrolman Flynn was minus his trousers, the remains of which were clutched in the two Negroes' fists. When arraigned this morning before Magistrate O'Brien they were each held in $600 bail for court charged with assault and battery on an officer.

Excerpts From Speech of Jacob Billikopf, Executive Director Federation of Jewish Charities at the Academy of Music, on Thursday Evening, November 10th

THE WELFARE FEDERATION movement deserves the support of the entire community, regardless of race or religious distinction, and I am very glad indeed that leading members of the Jewish Community propose to throw themselves wholeheartedly into the drive next week.

"The Welfare Federation should receive unstinted support because, aside from the fact that it plans to meet the budgets of 125 worthy and meritorious institutions, it is practically every phase of social and philanthropic effort and serving every race and creed, it is a great humanizing factor.

"It brings together in common counsel representatives of every element of this great community. And through this common counsel, through this exchange of thought, through the necessity to consider problems outside the realm of one's own particular institution or philanthropy, it must help all who have a part in its great work to visualize the great problems of the community in their entirety.

"It gives all who have a part in this work an insight into the administration of other institutions and the needs of various elements of the community. This must result in the development of a greater breadth of view and in the liberalizing of many viewpoints heretofore restricted to particular problems. These spiritual by-products of the common counsel that is being brought about by the Welfare Federation give it work a special value in my eyes.

"From the practical side the Welfare Federation should make a strong appeal to the community. Not only will it assure the 125 institutions of their budgets, but, by relieving the directors of these institutions of this arduous and often heart-breaking responsibility, it will afford them much-needed opportunities to devote more time and greater attention to broadening the scope of their work and the consideration of new problems.

"I am very happy that prominent Jewish citizens will take an active part in the Welfare Federation campaign, notwithstanding that we have our own Federation, to which the Jews contribute a per capita of over $5.00, and that we have just concluded successfully a colossal campaign for a Y. M. Y. W. Community of Philadelphia who are participating in the Welfare Federation; Samuel S. Fels, Jacob D. Litt, Ellis A. Gimbel, Joseph H. Hagedorn, Clinton O. Mayer, Samuel D. Litt, Jules E. Mastbaum, Charles Edwin Fox, Mrs. Horace Stern, Miss Helen Fleisher, and Mrs. Sol Selig.

"Although the Federation of Jewish Charities has not joined the Welfare Federation, for reasons that the trustees of the latter thoroughly understand and approve, I think it may prove interesting to the general public if I quote from a report on this subject recently made to the Jewish Federation chairman, which report contains the following statement:

"We must rise to the occasion and as individuals aid in every possible way to make the Welfare Federation drive a success. There is here an opportunity to show our friends, both Protestant and Catholic, that the Jews in their charities know no limitations of race or creed; that in addition to the excellent care they take of their own, they are very generous to those of other faiths. We must add the necessary zeal and bring some of our prized Jewish earnestness and enthusiasm for philanthropies into the common cause."

BRIBE CASE THREAT STIRS POLITICIANS

Promise of Weldon and Guiley to "Show Up" Craft at City Hall Arouses Interest

ACCUSED DEFEND ACTIONS

Officials and politicians at City Hall are on tip-toes today to see what will come of threats by attorneys for the men accused in the fire apparatus conspiracy case. Both the attorneys and the accused men declare they will "show up" a graft system alleged to be flourishing in City Hall.

Thomas J. Weldon, Administration leader of the Thirty-ninth Ward, and William H. Guiley, former fire hose salesman, have been held under $1500 bail each for court, charged with having tried to "shake down" the Seagraves Company, makers of fire apparatus, for a "commission" of $23,000. They represented, it is charged, they could swing a $500,000 contract for fire apparatus to the company.

Weldon would say nothing for publication except to promise a lurid statement in the near future. He is said to have exposed his alleged approaching of representatives of the fire apparatus company, saying that he nor Guiley had done anything that anybody out of work would not have done to earn some money. Indirectly he is said to have sought to blame the Mayor for his troubles, on the ground that the Mayor did not "take care" of him by appointing him to some place in the municipal government.

Coincident with the talk of further arrests, it became known that Director Cortelyou is pursuing his investigation of the fire apparatus scandal to determine whether any higher-ups are involved.

The Director made haste to clear Cornelius Connell and Cox of any connection with the affair, saying that an injustice had been done since when their names were even mentioned in the case.

Dorell Shuster, secretary to the Mayor, whom Weldon also sought to cite as reference to the fire apparatus company to which he promised to have the contract awarded, said that the man had no right to use his name in talking to the fire apparatus company representatives. He said he knew Weldon, but that he had never authorized him to give his name as reference to the company.

Similar denials were forthcoming from other persons whose names were mentioned at the police court hearing where Weldon and Guiley were held.

It is expected that an indictment will be returned by the December Grand Jury, and that the men will be placed on trial at an early date. The defense will maintain that the two defendants did not violate any law and that, therefore, they cannot be punished.

SPACE DONATED BY THE COMMONWEALTH TITLE INSURANCE AND TRUST CO. N. W. COR. 13TH AND CHESTNUT STREETS