Letters to the Editor

A Politician's Privilege
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—One of your correspondents a few days ago referred to the way politicians secured jobs for their family and friends at City Hall and in other public offices. I am no politician in this. It is part of the game. Does not the art of politics carry preferential in positions with it? A man is not human who will not treat care for his own.

Various Suggestions to Help the Unemployed

Single Girl's Quest for Job
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—All the business men of Philadelphia heartily agree in their still one left in this city, where they count the unemployed as a human life—one real man—human and hearted enough to give a lone girl a chance to work? For more than three months I have searched for work without result. I have applied to about a dozen and a half of employment agencies. I have answered ads, applied by letter, also called at many houses of business—always that heartless "No." While one has money you people are very nice, but when one's money is gone she might just as well go jump in the river.

Wages of Railroad Workmen
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—My husband, a trainman for nine years, averages $12 a month. He does not spend a night out of the year at his home. Two trainmen on the same route pay $20 a month for a room at the other end of the run. This does not include the $1.50 for their two meals every other day. These are a few engineers who make large salaries, but do we realize the lives dependent upon the kindness of their sight and hearing? Do we wish our people to be drawn through the night at sixty miles an hour by a man who does not value his position? Should the railroad men be paid to make it worth his while to always bring his train in safely? Remember the railroaders on these choice runs worked on the tracks the days when if they wanted to see their home and families they had to "lay off" to do so.

Legends of Job's Tears
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—After searching for some time I now appeal to you for information. Can you tell me or instruct me where to find the "Legend of Job's Tears"? I know seeds, and are known to have medicinal powers, but what I wish to know is why are they called Job's tears?

Next Moonless Month
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—When will the next moonless month occur?

Philadelphia, November 14, 1921.

Necessity for Central Location
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—One of your correspondents a few days ago suggested that one of the reasons for holding the coming Squaw Valley winter sports is the location of the site. Since the Central National has selected out to the extent that the site is located only a few miles from certain points, a great deal of our travel time is held up. I think it is better to have the site in a central location. This would save time and money. It would also be a better location for the winter sports. It would be a better location for the winter sports. It would be a better location for the winter sports.

Suggests Patience
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—At a time like this I would advise that both parties, the employer and the employee, should exercise patience. For if they do so it will go a long way to help out the situation. In the first place, to all employers let me say, "When a man comes in looking for work, be human and treat him as a gentleman. Don't let him feel his condition is hopeless. Give him a chance to show his worth. If you are an employer, don't let him feel his condition is hopeless. Give him a chance to show his worth. If you are an employer, don't let him feel his condition is hopeless. Give him a chance to show his worth."

War Song Wanted
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—I am in search of a song published quite a few years ago. It begins with: "I'll go to war, mother, 'I'll face the foe, so spoke a tiny lad with eyes all arow."
MRS. V. D.

Questions Answered
The Muses of Music
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—I would like to know who were the nine Muses in music and what did each stand for and who were their mother and father?
FRANCIS D'ORAZIO,
Conshohocken, Pa., November 13, 1921.

Club-Footed Statesman
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—Who was the public man identified with Lincoln's Administration who had a club foot?
JAMES T. MENCH,
Philadelphia, November 14, 1921.

No Service Flags
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—I was very much surprised to see no service flag shown in the Army for the 1st. This should be done on each Army. The flag is a symbol of honor and should be shown to all who have served in the Army. It is a symbol of honor and should be shown to all who have served in the Army. It is a symbol of honor and should be shown to all who have served in the Army.

The Cost of Armaments
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—There is much discussion now in view of the conference at Washington of the burden of taxation that war has laid upon the shoulders of the people. The burdens are heavy and will be for a generation or more to come. But coming generations will profit by the results. We must be better of tomorrow than we are today. The burdens are heavy, but they need not be exaggerated.

Names Suggested for Fair
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—Allow me to make a suggestion as to the name for the 1922 fair, which I hope you will print in your worthy paper. My suggestion is All of the World's Exhibition.
PHILIP GLICK,
Arch Street Theatre,
Philadelphia, November 19, 1921.

Girls Need Chaperons
To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:
Sir—The position of chaperon is a vital one. It is a position of honor and should be held by a woman of high character. It is a position of honor and should be held by a woman of high character. It is a position of honor and should be held by a woman of high character.
