PEPPER NAMED TO U.S. SENATE BY GOVERNOR

Plans Made to Take Oath in Washington Tomorrow
NO STRINGS TIED TO OFFER, HE SAYS

Sproul Declares He Expects Appointment to Seek Election in November

George Wharton Pepper, of this city, was named United States Senator to succeed Senator Penrose by Governor Sproul today.

The announcement was made by the Governor as he boarded a train at Swarthmore for a rapid motorcar trip over snow-covered roads from his home, Lapides Manor, near Chester.

The Governor said he hoped Mr. Pepper would be a candidate for Senator Penrose's unexpired term. The appointment itself qualifies the new Senator to serve until a candidate is elected in November for the Penrose term ending March 4, 1927.

The certificate of appointment was handed to Mr. Pepper in the Governor's business office, at 1512 Chestnut street. Arrangements have been made to have the new Senator take the oath at Washington tomorrow.

"The offer of the senatorship to Mr. Pepper was unrestricted. The appointment, in a brief statement, said he accepted the offer in that spirit and that he intended to serve out the unexpired term."

"Good Morning, George"
Mr. Pepper arrived at the Sproul office at 10:50 o'clock. As he walked up the hallway leading to the Governor's office he was hailed by the Governor, who said:

"Good morning, George. How are you feeling this fine morning?"

Senator Pepper, responding with a smile, waved a couple of legal books he carried in his hand and said "Fine."

Senator Pepper was then greeted by Harry S. McDevitt, secretary to Governor Sproul, and shook hands with the Governor, Mr. McDevitt and the new Senator.

The Governor linked arms with Mr. Pepper and turning to the newspaper men said:

"Boys, you will have to excuse the Senator a few minutes. I would like to talk with him privately, and then I will give out a statement."

Formal notice of the appointment, which will have a profound effect on Pennsylvania politics, was typewritten by the Governor himself at his home before he came down for breakfast. It was written on the back of a Chester Times election sheet.

Joins Breakfast Group
A group of newspapermen, who had been momentarily expecting the appointment, were guests of the Governor at breakfast while Mr. Sproul was talking over the news on his personally conducted breakfast table.

At 10 o'clock the Governor entered the breakfast room where he joined Mr. Sproul and his son Jack. It was at this time that Mr. Sproul intended to take the Governor himself at his home to Philadelphia.

Breakfast ended, the Governor hurried to his car. His son accompanied him and the machine was driven rapidly toward Swarthmore station. Several taxicabs carrying reporters pursued.

As the Governor's car was about to make a bridge over the Darby Creek a taxicab struck into view. The Governor's machine swerved sharply and stopped.

The 5:50 o'clock train was pulling into the station when the Governor stepped out on the platform. One of the newspaper men approached him and said haltingly:

"Senator, this pursuit must end sometime. How about the appointment?"

"I am going to meet Mr. Pepper in my office at 11 o'clock and hand him the certificate," the Governor replied, smiling.

Swarthmore is a second "home town" to the Governor, and during the brief conversation he was hailed by many commuters hurrying to the train.

"Hello, Bill!" "Hello Tom," he called to a couple of commuters who greeted him. "I am going to give you some news," he added.

"Good," one shouted back. "Governor," began a newspaper man, "do you think this appointment will stabilize the party and bring about harmony?"

"Yes, I do," the Governor said, as he waved aboard a day coach. "I don't you think my trip to Pittsburgh was rather interestingly maneuvered?" the Governor asked in jest.

Sadler Backers Busy
Mr. Sproul said the grinning conductor of the train called to him, "Hello, Jake."

PREMIERS DISCUSS FIND GROOM'S BODY, PROBLEMS AT GOLF HUNTED FOR MONTH

Conference Halts While Experts Work on Question of German Reparations

By the Associated Press
Cannes, Jan. 9.—Premiers Lloyd George and Briand, with Andrew Bonar Law, planned to make a strenuous golf today while the reparations experts continued their efforts for a final agreement on the plan of payments to be proposed to Germany and the finance ministers worked on the partition among the Allies of the sums already paid.

Belgium's delegates to the Supreme Council are still standing out for her priority in full of 2,500,000,000 gold marks of the German payments. The proposed increase in Germany's cash payments for 1922 from the 500,000,000 gold marks agreed on in London to 700,000,000 so as to provide a certain amount of cash above the expenses of the armies of occupation which absorb 500,000,000 gold marks, only partly satisfies the Belgians. They fear that abandonment of the principle of full priority may work to their detriment later.

The golfing party furnishes the occasion for Lloyd George and Briand to continue their conversations, began yesterday, concerning a Franco-British alliance for mutual defense. A memorandum setting forth reasons as a basis for such a pact is known to have been drawn up.

In French circles here it is expected that when the German commission which has been invited to appear before the Supreme Council regarding reparations arrives, the Reparations Commission also will come here. Premier Briand wishes to avoid the appearance of taking out of the hands of the Reparations Commission any part of the questions touching on the German war indemnity. He contends that the commission is the proper channel for the Allies to use in dealing with the Germans on that question.

The guns, presumably destined for use by the Irish republican army, were seized before the vessel left her dock at Hoboken. Arrests were made and returned to the United States. The grand jury Grand Jury at Trenton, no indictments were returned, however, and the prisoners were set free.

ARRESTED FOR PLOT TO BURN HUSBAND

Wife Caught Here After Alleged Cuban Lover Confesses Part in Pittsburgh

MAN HIT; HOME SET AFIRE

Murder squad detectives, after an all-night vigil, arrested Mrs. Pauline Whann, forty-two, at 5001 North Third street. She is accused of having entered into a conspiracy to do away with her husband, Colonel Whann, of Kittanning, Pa.

Mrs. Whann was arrested after a wire was received from Pittsburgh, saying M. Eugene Sans, young Cuban, arrested here on December 1, confessed he and Mrs. Whann planned to do away with her husband, that Mrs. Whann was the brains of the affair, and that all he had done was to carry straw to the house two days before the crime.

Colonel Whann was found unconscious, after being struck with a blunt instrument, and his house was ablaze. Sans and Mrs. Whann were known to be involved in a love affair and they were suspected immediately of having tried to murder her husband and burn the house to cover the crime.

Mrs. Whann denied the whole of Sans's story this morning, saying Sans was insanely jealous of her husband and had conspired with her to do away with her husband, that Mrs. Whann was the brains of the affair, and that all he had done was to carry straw to the house two days before the crime.

The house in which Mrs. Whann was arrested was bought for her some time ago by her husband. It is the same place where Ralph Mayer, the convicted North Penn Bank official, lived before he was sent to prison. When arrested this morning Mrs. Whann said to the detectives:

"This house must be hoodlums. It will be held here pending the arrival of County Detective Best, from Pittsburgh, on whose wire the local police were alerted. The convicted Mayer and Healy to get the woman. They waited outside the house all night before they could catch her. She is charged with the murder of her husband, and aggravated assault and battery. Her husband is still in the hospital at Pittsburgh."

Held by California Police for Attack on Mrs. Stedman Bent

Elmer M. Dowdy was arrested in Long Beach, Calif., on a charge of having assaulted and robbed Mrs. Nana Bent, wife of Stedman Bent, contractor, of $38,000 worth of jewelry, on November 10 last. Dowdy's wife, his brother, Roy Dowdy, Charles Mandel and the latter's wife are also being held by the Long Beach police.

Dowdy is known to the Philadelphia police under the names of Edward P. Davis and Brian E. DeLano. He was arrested in this city in 1915 as a hotel prowler.

Dowdy arrived in Philadelphia several days before he was struck on the face with his fist, grabbed the jewelry and fled.

On her way to take the appointment she stopped at a jewelry store and got some jewelry she had repaired, a string of pearls and a diamond necklace and bracelets set with diamonds and sapphires.

As she exhibited the gems Dowdy is alleged to have struck her on the face with his fist, grabbed the jewelry and fled.

N. J. Troopers New, But They Have Efficient Ways

Aim at 100 Per Cent Convictions for Law Violators They Run Down, but Charges Are Not Pressed if Doubt Exists

In the one month of their active existence in the New Jersey State police have made themselves factors that criminals must reckon with.

In hardly any aspect of organization or purpose do the New Jersey troopers differ from those of Pennsylvania, who, because of their extraordinary efficiency, have become known throughout the world. Of course, the New Jersey policemen, or troopers, as they are called, are never to the business. However, they look like veterans. The reason for that is that they are to a large extent the product of one branch or another of the Government service—cavalrymen mostly—and the additional fact that they represent the survivors of an original application list of 1000. There are seventy-one of them in the service.

One other thing that distinguishes them from the Pennsylvania troopers is their uniform. Colonel Schwartzkopf, their commander, wanted it to be something "entirely distinctive," but it is, as much as anything, a happy compromise between the uniform of the Irish auxiliary police and the habiliments of the "Royal Northwest."

The uniform consists with a stiff-brimmed Stetson hat of pearl color. Under this is worn, at the crown, a narrow band of unadorned leather. At the front of the hat appears the small triangular badge bearing the arms of New Jersey and the number of the trooper.

The coat is of blue unfinished serge, long-skirted and X-shaped with the "bellows" pockets that were a by-product of the war. It is rather like the field coat of a British officer. Underneath the coat the trooper wears a shirt of gray flannel belted at the throat by a plain black tie.

The breeches are of a specially imported sort of whipcord and buttoned lightly over the knees. There are long boots of grained leather and compellingly comfortable.

FIGHT TO RE-ELECT EAMON DE VALERA

Dail Engages in Heated Wrangle After Republican Chief Offers Resignation

MAY OPPOSE FREE STATE

By the Associated Press
Dublin, Jan. 9.—As soon as the Dail Eireann was convened this morning Eamon de Valera arose and placed his resignation as President of the Irish republic formally before the house.

Mrs. Thomas J. Clarke moved the re-election of Mr. de Valera as President of the republic. Liam Mellows seconded the motion.

Michael Collins, one of the leaders in support of the Irish treaty, which was ratified Saturday over Mr. de Valera's opposition, said that no one in the Dail wished to be put in the position of opposing President de Valera.

He pointed out that the Dail was now faced with the problem of taking over the government from the British and he suggested the formation of a committee whose members would be chosen from both sides of the controversy, to keep the peace. Work and not talk was now required, he added.

Ready to Fight if Deceived
John Macnevin, of Monaghan, argued that England had not yet found Ireland the constitution for the free state, and that until the terms of the treaty were carried out the republican government must be continued. Macnevin urged keeping the resources of Ireland intact, so that the Dail could fight "if England lets us down."

John McKeown and Michael Collins both jumped up at this, shouting "We will!"

Mr. de Valera said that if he were elected, an effort of his would be made to obtain a joint Cabinet.

"I don't want the office at all," he declared. Then, looking at Griffith and Collins, he added:

"You have a majority with your sixty-four votes. Elect your own President."

MYSTERY HINT IN DEATH OF MAN FOUND IN AUTO

Charles G. Smith Dies in Hospital Where He Was Taken Unconscious

Charles G. Smith, 1249 North Thirtieth street, died at 3:15 o'clock this morning in the Larsson Hospital, where he was taken in an unconscious condition.

Although the report of hospital authorities indicates death was due to a stroke, police are investigating a report that Mr. Smith was found last night unconscious in an automobile parked along the west river drive in Fairmount Park.

Sergeant Irwin, of the Park guards, found the man. Today two special guards of the Scoble guard house are working on the case.

A report of physicians at the hospital to the coroner's office contained the brief announcement of "death in hospital."

Hospital authorities declined to say whether or not the body bore signs of an attack, declaring that "the case is entirely in the hands of the coroner."

HARVEY INJURED AT CANNES WHEN HURLED OUT OF AUTO

American Observer at Allied Conference Confined to Bed

Cannes, Jan. 9.—(By A. P.)—George Harvey, American Ambassador to Great Britain, narrowly escaped death here today in an automobile accident. Accompanied by Richard Crane, former American Minister to Czechoslovakia, in whose car he was riding, and Wickham Steel, editor of the London Times, Ambassador Harvey was on his way for a round trip to the Riviera.

Colonel Harvey was thrown out, landing heavily on the road. He was able to arise, but was taken back to his hotel in a hospital bed.

Physicians, who were hurriedly summoned, found the Ambassador suffering from shock and from severe bruises on the head and neck. He was taken to the Hotel de Ville, where he is recovering.

Mr. Crane was uninjured, but Mr. Steel suffered from bruises and shock. As soon as news of the accident became known, Premier Lloyd George, of Great Britain, visited the hotel in person to make inquiries.

The physicians of both Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand, who attended Colonel Harvey, said shortly before noon that the Ambassador's injuries were confined to severe shock and bruises.

AMENDMENT OF EDMONDS WOULD CURB ANARCHISTS

Philadelphia Congressman Urges a New Change in Constitution

Washington, Jan. 9.—On the theory that "this is a country for free speech," Representative Edmunds, of Philadelphia, is proposing an amendment to the Constitution to make it treasonable for any one to advocate overthrow of the Government by force. His motion came from recent meetings of radical groups and utterances of some of the speakers.

Mr. Edmunds' suggested amendment adds to the present definition of treason in Section 3, Article III of the Constitution and makes treasonable any "attempt to incite by word or deed the establishment of any new form of government except by amendment to this Constitution as provided herein."

Report of Death of Marquis Due to His Lapsing Into Coma

Tokio, Jan. 9.—(By A. P.)—Marquis Okuma, the aged statesman, whose condition of coma led to reports of death, was still alive at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A Tokio dispatch by way of London, on January 6, stated that Marquis Okuma had died (that day). London cables from Tokio to the native press of Honolulu also gave the death of Marquis Okuma on that day. Honolulu dispatches of the 7th state that the Marquis' physician at Tokio announced that the state of coma into which the patient had fallen had been mistaken for death and that he had regained consciousness and was still breathing slightly. "TIGER" RE-ENTERS POLITICS WITH HIS NEW NEWSPAPER

First Issue Tomorrow to Reveal Secrets of Treaties

Special Cable from London
Paris, Jan. 9.—The paper edited by former President Wilson and Prime Minister Lloyd George in making the World War peace treaties will be told by former President Clemenceau in his new newspaper, the Echo National, which he will launch tomorrow.

Clemenceau, who is blamed by his enemies for the weaknesses of the treaty of Versailles, is holding with rage over the alleged misrepresentation of his part in framing the document. The establishment of this newspaper signifies his return to French politics, although he is eighty years old and apparently has definitely retired.

M. Clemenceau is proprietor and editor of the newspaper, with M. Flandin as active manager. The strong Clemenceau cliques in the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate will be tremendously strengthened by the reappearance of "the Tiger" and the presence of his newspaper. Clemenceau is expected to participate, through his editorial power, in the new agreements between the Allies and Germany.

IDEALISTS WHO REFUSED $1,000,000 RECONSIDER

Garland Brothers Decide to Accept Legacy Left by Father

Boston, Jan. 9.—(By A. P.)—Charles Garland, the youthful idealist who more than a year ago announced his refusal to accept a legacy of $1,000,000 left him by his father, the late James A. Garland, of this city, has reconsidered his decision and will accept the money, according to the Boston Post.

Mr. Garland, who has previously declined a legacy of equal proportions, has accepted his share of the family fortune, the Post declares. Garland, who lives with his mother and two brothers in a twelve-story farmhouse in North Carver, Mass., declined the Post said, to discuss his reasons for reversing his previous decision.

Charles, in dividing his inheritance last year, contained a system which valued thousands while hundreds were starved.

"It is such a system that offers me a million dollars," he said at the time. "It is divided to the simplest truth known to every child, the truth that the longer should be fed and the naked clothed. I have had to choose between a lot of private property and a few who are hungry. I choose the one which I believe to be right."

The Dail must continue, he declared.

THREE WOMEN HURT IN FIRE

Jump From Third Story Into Nets. One Falls on Fireman

New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 9.—The quarters of the Washington Club, a three-story wooden structure, was destroyed by fire yesterday, resulting loss of $50,000. Three women were injured in jumping from the top floor of the building to fire nets and were removed to a hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Golder, widow of the janitor and her two daughters, were trapped in their sleeping quarters on the third floor. They were rescued by a fireman, who jumped from the top of the building, knocking him unconscious.

The two daughters were rescued by striking the net. Golder, attempting to jump to a lower story, fell and sustained a flight of stairs and suffered minor injuries.

PEPPER WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR ELECTION TO THE SENATE

George Wharton Pepper, appointed Senator to succeed Senator Penrose, will be a candidate for re-election and election this year, according to announcement by Governor Sproul, who also signed the new Senator's Commission. The Governor paid a high tribute to the new Senator, and asked all Republicans to support him for the regular election, on the hope that he may remain in the Senate and be given an opportunity to render the superb service of which I know he is capable."

KILLER OF TWO N. Y. DETECTIVES IS CAUGHT HERE

Luther Boddy, Hunted in Three States, Surprised in House at 2008 Rodman Street

MAGISTRATE SCOTT, WHO GAVE TIP, AIDS IN ARREST

"Judge," With Drawn Pistol, Enters Building With Patrolmen

DESPERADO SURRENDERS

Had Made Sensational Dash From Scene of Crimes Dressed as Woman

Luther Boddy, Negro killer, who slew Detectives Miller and Buckley in New York Thursday, was arrested today at 2008 Rodman street, this city.

Though desperate, and avowedly ready to "knock off two or three" to accomplish his purpose of getting to Camden, Boddy was surprised and arrested before he had a chance to make resistance. He was armed with two pistols.

The arrest was made by Patrolman Bonner, of the Twentieth and Fitzwater streets station, shortly before 10 o'clock. The patrolman was assisted by Magistrate Amos Scott, the Negro magistrate, and Constable Berkman, of Magistrate Scott's office.

Magistrate Scott was responsible for the arrest. In some manner which has not yet been learned, he became aware of the fact that Boddy, failed and non-killer, with a reward of $10,000 on his head, and sought as few criminals have been sought by police of three States, was in hiding in Philadelphia.

How Boddy got here remains for the present a mystery, though it is expected that the questioning of the police will break him down and bring a detailed story. It is known only that in spite of the vigilance of State police, who sought him between Langhorne, Pa., where he was last seen, and Philadelphia, aided by town constables and possees of farmers, he somehow managed to slip into Philadelphia.

Magistrate Scott gives Tip
Magistrate Scott learned that Boddy was at the Rodman street house, and knowing he was wanted for the slaying of the two New York detectives, telephoned this morning to the police of the Twentieth and Fitzwater streets station house.

"Further Boddy is at 2008 Rodman street," said Magistrate Scott over the telephone.

The astonished desk sergeant who took the message immediately ordered out the house detail and house detectives and the motor patrol wagon. Magistrate Scott said he would be right over and would go along and help make the arrest.

As soon as the magistrate and his constable reached the station house the man was arrested. Boddy, however, because of the man's knowledge of the character of the man, Word was telephoned to Central Station, and had it ready to receive the prisoner. Magistrate Scott was prepared to send out members of his newly organized bombing squad and rifle brigade to lay siege to house.

The patrol wagon was stopped some distance from the Rodman street station house, as not to alarm Boddy. The patrolmen were sent to surround the house, closing in on four sides, and getting as close as they could without exposing themselves to possible fire from the windows.

When the option had drawn tight a signal of war was held. Going in to demand the murderer's surrender seemed desperate. When he refused, without attempting concealment or seeking shelter, all three were armed, and it was with drawn revolvers that they entered the house.

They demanded that Boddy surrender. The murderer, afraid, perhaps, to show fight when he knew there was no chance to escape, handed over his revolver and a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson .45-caliber revolver. After being questioned he will be sent for further examination to City Hall.

Boddy slipped through the ring of police watching for him in New York by donning a woman's clothes, out of Newark at the point of the gun. The only thing that prevented him from making a successful trip to this city was lack of gasoline in the taxi.

The wild flight from the metropolitan district to the countryside in Pennsylvania was emphasized by repeated protests of a revolver in the chauffeur's back and remarks that he didn't care how many he took with him to kingdom come.

Fast Drive Escapes
Adam Adubato, driver of the taxicab, escaped when he made Boddy believe his gas supply was exhausted. Boddy asked the trouble when the taxicab stopped. When he learned the cause he ordered the driver to stop a passing motorist and buy some more. Adubato jumped on the running board of the first machine that passed, and called to him a murderer who wanted to kill every one. The driver sensed the situation enough to step on the accelerator and speed down the road, with Boddy's gas sending shots after the machine.

No fearful was the driver he drove through the lowered gates of a railroad crossing near where the taxi stop occurred just a moment before an express train whirled past. State police are hunting for the man.
