

NEWS GET $307,569 FIRST DAY OF DRIVE

Noon Luncheon Finds One-third of Quota in Hand. Lit's Team Leads

OTHER CITIES PASS GOAL

The campaign in Philadelphia for the Jewish Relief Fund has in its first day covered more than a third of the distance toward the quota of $1,000,000.

The drive opened this morning, and at the Bellevue-Stratford it was announced contributions, so far, amount officially to $307,569.

Leslie Rosenwald, treasurer of the campaign, said the receipts may run to $400,000 before the end of the day.

Fifty-four teams are working day and night gathering subscriptions, and eight teams are divided into two sections, directed respectively by Jacob D. Lit and Isaac Gerstley.

The Red Room of the Bellevue-Stratford where the workers are to meet each noon until the colored women's drive is held with an immense chart showing the progress.

The results announced today, indicating the minds of Philadelphia leaders, are well beyond the quota.

Mr. Rosenwald read a telegram from David A. Brown, chairman of the National Committee, telling of the progress in St. Louis, Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Kansas City and other cities of the West and Middle West, that have outstripped their quotas.

This was received with great cheer.

COLORED WOMEN DEMAND FULL RIGHTS IN POLITICS

Call on Vore With Petition Asking Recognition on State Slate

A report circulated by Republican leaders recently that colored women should be considered in the future political program of the State caused general indignation among the women and today a committee called on Senator Vore for an explanation.

The Senator was in conference with former United States Senator Oliver and through some apparent misunderstanding did not see the visitors.

The object of their visit might be thoroughly understood, the committee left a petition in the Senator's office demanding representation on all Republican committees in the city and State.

The women, who said they represented the Colored Women's Legislative Bureau, contended in their petition that they had borne the same burden as the men and therefore had the right to vote and all other recognition.

In addition to asking for recognition on the committees they also demanded that colored women be considered in making up the personnel of the Board of Education, Board of Health and Board of Motion Picture Censors.

The delegation was headed by Mrs. Morsell Griffin, who headquarters is at the Hotel Dale, Broad and Catharine streets.

MINISTERS HEAR MACKAY

Explains Value of Workmen's Compensation to Methodist Association

That the injured workman should be taken care of adequately by his employer and that most of the employers of Pennsylvania realize this fact, is the opinion of Harry Mackay, chairman of the Compensation Board of Pennsylvania, who addressed the session of the Methodist Ministers' Association of Philadelphia and vicinity this morning in Willard Hall.

"The great thought behind the Compensation Law," continued Mr. Mackay, "is that every man who contributes to production deserves his reward. There are two classes who contribute to production—the man who invests his money and the man who invests his energy. Both deserve reward."

"Those persons who rap employers about not giving their injured employees adequate compensation should not be listened to. The present Compensation Law came about only because the employers of Pennsylvania have given 100 per cent co-operation to those who framed it."

"During the last six years the Pennsylvania Compensation Board has taken care of 1,130,000 cases of injured persons and in this time paid out to them over $200,000,000."

MODERN CHRISTIANITY HIT

Machem, Princeton, Says Learning is Toward Pantheism

Modern liberal Christianity and its concepts of Christ were excoriated by Rev. Dr. Gresham Machem, Princeton Theological Seminary, in an address before a meeting of Presbyterian ministers in Witherspoon Hall today.

"The word of God has no virtue in itself," said Dr. Machem. "Saying that 'Jesus is God' may be either fine or degrading. Some persons may consider God is pantheism."

"Pantheism always has been a blight on man's religious nature. There is nothing that is new in the pantheism of modern liberalism. One of the saddest things in the world is to hear a modern liberal say, 'Jesus is God.' That is the very reverse of God."

The Rev. Paul L. Hudson, a convert from Judaism, pleaded for a more active missionary work among his former co-religionists.

Installation services for the Rev. Harold G. Richards to be taken place yesterday at the First Lutheran Church, Collingdale, were postponed owing to the severity of the storm.

The services were to have taken place in the auditorium of the Collingdale Fire Company, temporary quarters of the church, but were canceled at the last moment when most of those who were to attend failed to arrive.

The installation will occur next Sunday.

Mr. Richards is a graduate of Rosemead College and Gettysburg Theological Seminary. He has been pastor of the Danman Church of East Lansdowne for the last four years.

Actress Dies

MRS. ANNIE WARE BARNES Who, although eighty-one years old, remained active in minor theatricals until her death Saturday at the Forrest Home, Holmesburg

ANNIE BARNES, 81, IS DEAD; FOR YEARS NOTED ACTRESS

Helped Found Current Events Club at Forrest Home

Mrs. Annie Ware Barnes, formerly a well-known actress, who has been at the Forrest Home, Holmesburg, since January 2, 1902, died Saturday from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Barnes was eighty-one years old. She began her stage career rather late in life and made her first appearance with a stock company in St. Johns, Newfoundland. She traveled with Ben McGinley, in "Deacon Cranket," playing the part of Betsey. She also appeared in Anson Toud's "Her Atone-ment," in which she played the Mother.

Mrs. Barnes was a member of the Rose and Harry Watson stock company and appeared with Harrigan and Hart at the Theatre Comique, New York, for about two years. Later she appeared with George Clarke in "Hearts of Steel."

She was one of the founders of a Current Events Club which was attended by many of the prominent women of Holmesburg, and on several occasions launched minor theatrical affairs for charitable organizations.

BABY SAVED FROM BLAZING BED BY MOTHER'S QUICK ACT

Flames Started When Child Played With Box of Matches

Impelled by a fire which he started while playing with matches in his home, 2841 Wallace street, Charlie Kane, four-year-old son of Owen Kane, was rescued from being seriously burned by his mother, who rushed into the burning room and carried the child to the street.

Her appearance soon after the little boy attacked the blazing saved him from possible serious burns.

The child was left alone in a room on the second floor of the house this afternoon. While resting he found a box of matches and began to amuse himself by lighting them on the bed. One of the matches fell upon the mattress and set it afire.

The child continued to play, unconscious of his danger, until the smoke made him uneasy. By that time an odor of smoke caught his attention and he heard the mother's cry and ran to the room.

Mrs. Kane lifted the child in her arms and ran to the street.

Patrolman Richards, of the Thirtieth and Lancaster avenue police station, was passing as Mrs. Kane hurried from the house, calling for help. He turned in an alarm and then entered the building. Entering the smoke-filled room, he found that the blaze had not extended beyond the bed and was able to extinguish it before the firemen arrived. The damage was about $20.

STATE WILL RESIST PLEA OF BAIL FOR MRS. ROSIER

Prospective Habeas Corpus Proceedings Will Be Contested

Acting District Attorney Brown will oppose any attempt to obtain the release of Mrs. Catherine Rosier, who is in prison charged with the murder of her husband, Oscar Rosier, and Mildred G. Reckitt, his stenographer.

Assistant District Attorney Schofield, who represented the Commonwealth at the coroner's inquest, has reported to the chief of the district that Mrs. Rosier has every element of first-degree murder and the woman should not be allowed her liberty pending trial.

According to the authorities, Mrs. Rosier deliberately planned the murder—she premeditated the act when she bought a box of .32-caliber bullets and later returned to the store with them asking to exchange the bullets and sell her a .25-caliber gun. The District Attorney declares this was several hours before the shooting.

No attempt was made today to get Mrs. Rosier away from Moyamensing. Her attorneys said that they had decided to postpone the application for a writ of habeas corpus, through which it is hoped to free her, for several days.

"There are a number of angles to the case that we chose to straighten out first," was the only explanation given.

GIRL FIGHTS FREE OF MAN ASSAILANT

Attacked in Germantown, She Grabs Arm, Kicks His Shins and Screams

HE FLEES ERE HELP COMES

Miss Marion Coffey, attractive nineteen-year-old stepdaughter of E. J. Hertz, 6703 Lincoln drive, a jeweler, battled desperately Saturday night with a young Negro, who attacked her at Horter and McCallum streets, Germantown.

The plucky girl held the man's arm and kicked his shins, meanwhile screaming for help. The thug tried to overpower her, but became frightened and fled. The attack occurred at 6:30 P. M.

Miss Coffey noticed the Negro at a Pennsylvania Railroad train which she left at Upsal Station. He had watched her almost constantly for about ten minutes and the girl was nervous when she left the train.

As she hurried down the station steps Miss Coffey saw the thug following her. She later described him as about twenty-four years old, of comparatively light complexion and of medium height. He wore a dark overcoat with a fur collar and a gray cap.

The frightened girl hurried through snow drifts, casting an occasional glance behind and hoping to meet someone to escort her home. Two blocks from the station the Negro ran up and seized her.

Mrs. Hertz today said her daughter had entirely recovered from the shock of the experience.

FOILS AUTO BANDITS

Thugs Flee When Tallor Shoots Through Window

Adolph Kraschek, by arising early this morning, prevented auto bandits from looting his tailor shop at 2624 Ridge avenue.

Mr. Kraschek heard a noise in the shop about 4 o'clock. He looked out of a window and saw an automobile, one man seated in it and another standing at the side. As the man standing in the side pointed a gun at him he pulled down the curtain. Then he got his revolver and shot through the curtain.

Looking out, he saw another man run from the store and jump in the auto as it sped away. Last October his shop was robbed of $1500 worth of goods.
