

SEE EARLY PASSING OF A BONUS BILL

MacNider Says Legion Canvass Shows Majority Pledged in Its Favor

APPEAL TO BUSINESS MEN

Washington, Aug. 21.—Hunford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, in a statement today declared a personal canvass of the bonus bill situation showed that "a majority of the Senate, including both parties, favors the bill and is pledged for its passage."

Mr. MacNider predicted that the Bonus bill which is slated for Senate consideration, beginning Wednesday, would be passed by the Senate this week and added:

"The American Legion has absolute confidence in the good faith and integrity of the Senators pledged to vote for the bill. It realizes that they believe in the justice of the cause of the soldier and knows that they will keep the faith they have pledged and pass the bill now."

President Harding's attitude, Senate bonus and anti-bonus leaders agree, is the only factor which creates doubt over the situation. Approaching action by the Senate served to reopen the entire field of speculation as to whether the Senate could be able to pass the measure over a presidential veto.

Opponents of the bill asserted sufficient votes could not be mustered to nullify White House disapproval, and its supporters argued that Senator McPherson, chairman of the Finance Committee, predicted the bill would be passed within a week.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leading opponent of adjusted compensation, expressed the belief those opposed to its passage would be content with a brief presentation of their arguments and from no quarter came any indication that attempts will be made to delay action.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the National Chamber of Commerce, asserted in letters to business organizations in every State attacking the bill "there is a tremendous campaign under way at this moment to get the Senate to vote in favor of a bonus."

He urged the business organizations, if they were in accord with the Chamber's opposition to the bonus, and its advocacy of conservative provisions in land settlement and vocational training, to make their views known or reiterate them.

Resolving the question that the loans by banks, authorized in the bill on the bonus certificates, would squander cash in three-year frozen credits, that inflation caused by the bill, the Chamber's broadside continued:

"Although the national debt increased over 220 per cent as a result of the war, the Senate Finance Committee proposes at this time to add a maximum of $4,480,000,000 to the financial burden of the Government."

"Despite the fact that our estimated deficit for the current fiscal year approaches $750,000,000, the bonus will add, according to reliable estimates, $77,000,000 in the year 1923; and $92,000,000 will be added to our annual expenses of government in 1924, more than $73,000,000 in 1925 and $570,000,000 in 1926."

"The Nation has already voted a $270,000,000 cut in bonus veterans, and the present proposal is for a second bonus, and for the veterans who lived in the fifteen States which have voted $225,000,000 in bonuses, the present bill, if it passes, will constitute a third cash bonus."

Rail Wreck Probe Bares Propaganda

Railway were attacked by a crowd of strike sympathizers.

Hostilities broke out again in San Bernardino, Calif., where four men, employees of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe groups were attacked and beaten by guards and an unknown man in the Rio Grande Western yards at Burnham, Colo., a suburb of Denver. The man, who was wearing a guard's uniform, was firing at him, was believed to have been badly wounded.

Warring to Kansas City following a near riot in Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific lines there, several days ago, of Kansas, gave Mayor Barton twenty-four hours in which to restore order, threatening to send troops if the situation did not improve.

Governor Allen said he was informed that gunmen had been imported to intimidate men who wanted to work in the railroad shops.

Official complaints arose at Corbin, Ky., where Chief of Police Manning, a policeman and two deputy sheriffs were arrested on Federal warrants charging them with resisting and interfering with United States Marshal Williams and his deputies in the discharge of their duties.

It is said to have been the holding of Deputy United States Marshal on the way to serve restraining orders on strikers at Livingston, Ky.

Troops Held in Readiness

Troops were held in readiness to enter for Spencer, N. C., where the situation had been tense for several days. Following earlier outbreaks, a section of water main supplying the Southern Railway shops at Spencer was blown up. National Guards of the St. Louis-Louisville line of the Southern Railway at Princeton, Ind., who had been on strike since Saturday morning, returned to work, and freight and passenger traffic which had been tied up was restored.

Perched on top of a standing freight car, William Kaminski, eleven years old, of 2514 South Fifth street, became so engrossed in a game of baseball at Delaware avenue and Porter street yesterday that he tumbled off the car.

How Our Coal Mines Were Made

Long before man lived on the earth, it was covered with thick forests, massive trees and gigantic ferns.

From time to time these forests were flooded. Trees and plants were beaten down and buried under the sand which the water brought in.

New forests arose and in time were flooded and buried. This went on for thousands upon thousands of years until the pressure and heat carbonized the trees and plants into coal.

Anthracite—hard coal—is the result of almost perfect carbonization of wood. It contains about 90% of carbon.

Bituminous—soft coal—is less perfectly carbonized and contains about 75% of carbon.

Bituminous is used for manufacturing. Anthracite—the kind of coal American sells—is for domestic use.

From the present outlook we hope soon to be able to talk more definitely to our customers regarding their coal supply. In the meantime they can rest assured that American coal will be as always—the best.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON DROWNS IN SOUND

Hydroplane Aids in Search for Body of Donald M. Phipps, Former Philadelphia Lad

CHUM UNABLE TO SAVE HIM

Port Jefferson, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Search in power launches and a hydroplane was made yesterday for the body of Donald M. Phipps, Yale graduate and son of A. J. Phipps, a millionaire lumber merchant of Florence Park, who was swept into Long Island Sound Saturday night from the box of a speed boat off here and drowned.

With Phipps when the accident occurred was William Lyons, of East Hampton, his roommate at Yale and who had been his guest at Florence Park the last week. The two young men set out for East Hampton in the early evening.

They were making nearly thirty knots an hour when they reached Long Island Sound, which was covered with whitecaps. When two miles off here a brass top for the hole of the anchor chain blew off and rolled astern.

Knocked Into Sea by Wave
Phipps turned the wheel over to Lyons, the less little about running a launch, and climbed over the boat rail to retrieve the top. In attempting to get back he slipped and a wave knocked him into the water. Phipps, in a moment he was fifty feet astern, and Lyons was unable to turn the boat in the heavy sea. Phipps shouted instructions to his companion.

The last words from Phipps which reached Lyons were instructions to shut off the motor and turn the boat around with oars carried for an emergency.

This Lyons finally succeeded in doing and rowed toward the spot where Phipps had been washed overboard.

He rowed about for more than an hour, but when darkness fell was forced to abandon the search and come here.

Hydroplane Joins Search
With several men Lyons patrolled the beach all night, and at dawn the search was carried out on the Sound in a score of launches, joined later in the day by a hydroplane. Lying at a low angle, the hydroplane was able to search only a haphazard way when the accident occurred.

Donald M. Phipps lived at Erdensheim, near Philadelphia, until the family moved to Oyster Bay several years ago. His mother was Elva Hagy before her marriage, the daughter of a wealthy Philadelphia merchant, Marian Phipps, Donald's sister, was visiting at Mr. Hagy's home above Chestnut Hill when she was notified of her brother's death and started immediately for Oyster Bay.

Phipps has made several trips in the Adirondacks and through Canada studying timber since his graduation from Yale. His father made the bulk of his fortune in the lumber business near this city.

Dancer's Mother on Her Way Home

Koenenich made two previous attempts at suicide.

It was learned yesterday that Miss Lehmann, who was of no religious faith, was baptized into the Catholic Church on her death bed by a friend, a priest, and under the auspices of the Catholic Church, baptism may be performed in emergency by a lay person. According to this friend, Miss Lehmann had shown an intense interest in Catholicism and finally had determined to join that faith. When her friend heard she was dying she hastened to the hospital and performed the ceremony.

Another little human touch to the story was a remark made by Dr. Koenenich's widow, in telling her story Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Koenenich was asked whether Miss Lehmann had ever married.

"She did at first," Mrs. Koenenich said, "but my husband told her he did not like it and she stopped their marriage."

In 1912 Koenenich succeeded Frank Danz as composer of the Oratorio Society.

When the war came Koenenich did not comply with the fact that his sympathies were with Germany. The result was that he was found himself without funds of work.

Going out on the road with an "Application" as a director, did not serve to arouse the old musician from his depression, but one day Mrs. Koenenich received a letter from Mrs. Lehmann, a beautiful dancing girl in the company who showed much promise and in whom he was much interested.

Last March Koenenich attempted suicide by swallowing veronal, the wife said. She added:

"I saw much of each other after that. I saw it was useless to try to end the affair. My husband and I had been married thirty-six years and I loved him, his reason would return to him."

Then the dancer had a talk with Koenenich's daughter. They talked dispassionately as two girls of equal age would discuss the infatuation of the other. Miss Koenenich said yesterday that she did not uphold Vera—she merely pointed out her father was fifty-five, while she was twenty-two.

It was just two days later that the girl took the poison which ended her life.

DEPORTED FOURTH TIME

Youth Sought Mother He Left to Join German Army

New York, Aug. 21.—(By A. P.)—Unsuccessful in his fourth attempt to enter the United States in search of his mother he left in 1914 to become a member of the German army. (Gene Diggle is, as a deportee, on his way back to Germany aboard the George Washington.) He carried a faded picture of his mother and brothers and sisters.

His story interested the captain of the George Washington when he was taken from the ship's hold and his case was placed in the hands of a special investigating board. He stayed at the immigration station two months, then was ordered deported again.

Bigall said he left home when but a boy, that during the war he was wounded five times, and that when he returned home his parents were gone.

He was told that they thought him dead and had gone to the United States of South America.

Newberry Plea Made by Hughes

sen published, even in the summary, the substance of their opinions.

After setting forth that Senator Newberry was convicted in the Federal Court of Michigan for violation of the Federal statute making it unlawful for a candidate to expend more than the $3750 fixed by the Michigan law, Mr. Hughes said:

Reversed Unanimously
"The conviction of Senator Newberry in the lower court was reversed unanimously by the Supreme Court of the United States.

"It should be borne in mind that Senator Newberry's conviction in the lower court was not based on any charge of fraud or corruption or the use of money for any illegal purpose or of any act involving moral turpitude.

"It was based solely on the charge that there was an expenditure in his campaign for nomination and election of more than $3750, the statutory limit, regardless of how the money was used or how innocuous and proper the purposes of expenditure may have been.

To make the point clear, if all the money had been used for hiring halls for the delivery of speeches or for the distribution of circulars, the conviction under the construction of the trial court would have been just as inevitable as long as the amount exceeded $3750. That this was the nature of the case is demonstrated by the explicit instructions which the trial judge gave the jury."
