

FALLS 3 STORIES. SCRATCH

Baby Virtually Unhurt in Headlong Tumble to Street
A fall from a third-story window to the sidewalk caused no injury to William McDonald, two years old, of 2444 West Norris street, yesterday, except a slight scratch on his head.
The child, left unguarded by the parents, climbed from a chair beside an open window and fell into the street.
Passersby picked him up and took him in an automobile to the Northwest General Hospital. His mother followed, believing the child had been fatally hurt.
Close examination by physicians disclosed no sign of injury other than the scratch, and after dressing had been applied the youngster was taken home.

CHILD, 6, INJURED BY AUTO

Boy in Critical Condition After Accident Near His Home
Woodrow Guyver six years old, 2612 West Dauphin street, is in a critical condition in Northwest General Hospital, as a result of being struck by an automobile last night.
The accident occurred at Twenty-seventh and Dauphin streets, a short distance from the boy's home. Law-rence L. Sheedy, 2046 North Stillman street, driver of the car that hit the boy, was arrested.

IS ROMANCE DEAD?
Has the increasing application of the scientific method led to a decline of romance? Will the future belong to the "romantic" who must not scoff at romance. Are you reading the interesting viewpoints of "Women's Life and Love" in the "Evening Public Ledger"? "Make It a Habit."—Adv.
