

TURKS WANT PEACE PARLEY NEXT WEEK

Angora Would Consider Delay
as Act of Hostility
by Allies

DARDANELLES CABLE CUT

Paris, Nov. 8.—Ismet Pasha, Foreign Minister in the Turkish Nationalist Government, has informed the allied Governments that any delay in holding the Lausanne peace conference would be a disaster, as it would be interpreted by the Angora Assembly and the Kemal army as a sign of hostility against the Turks and an indication that the Allies did not intend to live up to the conditions of the Mudania armistice.

The French Government, therefore, is exerting every influence to have the Lausanne conference formally opened on scheduled time, November 13, in order to demonstrate to the Turks the good intentions of the Allies.

The British asked for a postponement because of their approaching elections, but the French now have proposed to the British that in view of the message from Ismet Pasha all parties go ahead and assemble next week at Lausanne. The British reply to this proposal has not yet been received.

As the French view it, the conference should be opened on time next Monday as a demonstration of good will and then the more important meetings requiring the attendance of the plenipotentiaries could be postponed for a week or so, during which the experts could occupy themselves in sundry preparations.

Ismet Pasha still is in Constantinople, the Foreign Office has been advised, but he intends to go to Lausanne as soon as possible.

Bulgaria has asked the Allies to grant her representation at all of the discussions at the Near Eastern Peace Conference at Lausanne instead of only at those concerning the Straits. The request now is under consideration.

The troubled state of affairs in Constantinople may not be getting any worse, but there certainly seems to be no improvement in good feeling between the Kemalists and the allied commissioners.

Two British soldiers were assassinated last night at Kessimpasha, according to the Constantinople correspondent of the Parisian.

Colonel Charpy, commander of the French troops in the Constantinople area, told the correspondent he considered the situation one of the gravest nature.

The attitude of the Kemalists becomes stiffer every day and the extremists seem to be in power at Angora. An indication of this was the withdrawal yesterday of the demand that the Allies evacuate both their military and naval forces from Constantinople and surrounding districts.

Rome, Nov. 8.—(By A. P.)—Premier Mussolini has telegraphed to the Italian high commissioner in Constantinople stating that he favored a united front by the Allies regarding Turkey.

The Premier announced the sending of this message at yesterday's cabinet meeting. Turkey had beaten Greece, but could not claim to have defeated the Entente, the Premier said.

The Italian warship Archimede was ordered by the Premier to remain at Constantinople and he gave instructions that in case of necessity other vessels should be held in readiness to protect Italian Nationals.

The suggestion for a postponement of the Lausanne conference, the Premier added, had come from Great Britain, and Italy had agreed to it on condition that the delay be brief.

London, Nov. 8.—(By A. P.)—London morning newspapers failed to receive their usual quotas of news from Constantinople today because of the cutting of the Eastern Telegraph Company's cable on the Kemal side of the Chanak zone by the Turks, and their refusal to permit the company to repair it.

So far as was known here this morning, no overt or hostile act has yet been taken at Constantinople, either by the Allies or the Kemalists, but the situation is known to be extremely tense and the insistence of the Nationalists upon their demands for allied evacuation has made it increasingly critical.

Uncommon Sense : Part-Time People

By JOHN BLANK

BECAUSE the people of New York do not take sufficient interest in their schools, there is a shortage of buildings and consequently insufficient room to give all the pupils seats for the full school day.

Even in this age of advanced civilization there are still cities whose inhabitants do not realize that education is more important than anything else in the world—including politics and municipal government and presidencies and premierships.

Many thousands of pupils in New York—and doubtless in other cities in Europe and America—are "part-time pupils" and get "part-time" educations.

This may be the result of incompetent school authorities to some extent, but if the people took the interest in schools they ought to take, no incompetent persons would ever be school authorities.

THE children grow up devoting half the time to education that should be devoted to it and their subsequent progress is restricted in consequence.

But the children are not to be blamed for this sort of thing. They are "part-time" pupils for no fault of their own. Their fathers, however, are very likely to be "part-time" people, and this is their own fault.

Most of them are people who spend just about half their time in intelligent intellectual pursuits, in and out of business, that they ought to spend.

They may keep regular business hours, but any one who has been in any great commercial establishment knows how much—or rather how little—actual intensive work is done by those employed there.

It is not the eight-hour-day that is insufficient for the work of the world—it is the "part-time" work that is put inside those eight hours.

FULL-TIME people are rare—and nearly always amount to something. The most mediocre man can, if he uses all his time, accomplish a great deal. The brightest man, if he is a "part-time" man, gets little done for himself or anybody else, because he leaves his work to last twenty times a day and has to begin much of it all over again. "Part-time people" are as much of a source of trouble in the world as part-time pupils, and they have no excuse for the time they spend in idleness.

EXHIBIT FARM PRODUCTS

Maryland Citizens Offer Agricultural Display

Kaston, Md., Nov. 6.—The annual county-wide agricultural and home economics exhibition of the farmers of Talbot County opened here this morning in a garage on South Washington street. The room was decorated with flags, bunting and autumn leaves.

There was an exhibition of wheat, corn, oats, rye, potatoes, cabbage, beans, peas, turnips, and, in fact, everything grown on the farm. The exhibit of poultry was exceptionally large. The judges will be Miss B. Knight, Miss A. B. Jones, Mrs. J. A. Burroughs, W. H. Rice, and F. W. Oldenburg.

When the Duke of York founded the American Colony of New York in 1662, he followed the statutes of Charles II. These granted the right to leave property, by will, in the care of a capable manager.

"Capable management", today, means a trust company.

MODERN law offers complete opportunity for protecting those dependent on your foresight and business judgment.

YOU CAN MAKE A WILL and assure the disposition of your property according to your wishes. You can provide against forced sales and the hasty distribution of your holdings.

You can control the principal of your estate by placing your property in the custody of a Trustee of your own selection.

Such a Trustee, familiar with your affairs and your own methods, can perpetuate your own policies of management.

Disregard of these privileges leads, in many cases, to loss of family property and broken family ties.

Call and confer, in confidence, with our officers about your estate. Or, if more convenient, ask us to send you our booklet, "Protecting the Family".

Dentists say USE BOTH!

Science finds the way to protect teeth from two destructive forces

PEOPLE everywhere are paying toll day by day to two deadly enemies. They are paying with the health and beauty of their teeth.

One of these enemies is dental mucin, sometimes called film. This forms on the smooth, white surfaces of the teeth, making them gradually ugly and discolored.

The other is the fermentation that goes on in the hard-to-reach places. Tiny food particles decompose and form acids that eat far into the tooth before you know decay has even begun.

Scientists tell us that the only way to keep teeth good looking and really healthy is to guard them against both these enemies.

Sanitol Tooth Paste and Liquid Antiseptic together give your teeth the double protection you need.

White teeth are beautiful teeth. Sanitol Tooth Paste softens the ugly dental mucin with its glycerine content, then removes it with its fine chalk. Because it clears away this filmy coating so effectively it is unusually successful in restoring whiteness to teeth. It makes them beautiful.

Clean teeth don't decay

Sanitol Liquid Antiseptic counteracts the acid decay. It floods into the smallest crevices, purifies them and removes the tiny food particles that so quickly ferment and eat into the tooth surfaces. It also strengthens soft, tender gums (often forerunners of pyorrhea) and frees the breath from all odor.
