There was a man in our town, And he was wondrous wise, He jumped into a bramble bush, And scratched out both his eyes. And when he found his eyes were out, With all his might and main— He hollered "Why didn't I take out that $5,000.00 Continental Life Insurance Policy that D. A. Crichton & Co. wanted to sell me, for now that I am blind I would have $50.00 per month income for life, with no premiums to pay, and my wife would collect the full face of my policy on my death."
