The Education of Elizabeth

When she chirped in the chorus the men all called her a "bird." Then one of them trapped her with love and perched her way up in his ancient family tree.

The rest is what happened when "high-brow" relatives tried to make her tame.

Crook Operated Here, to Hang in San Quentin

Inquiry has been made of the Great Falls police by California officials concerning Arthur O. Davis, alias Jack Moore, who has been condemned to hang at the San Quentin prison for the murder of a Redding, Calif., policeman. Davis was arrested in Great Falls in November, 1919, for burglarizing the "16" to "18" saloon, but no prosecution followed because of his age. He was then 17 years old.

While committing the Great Falls burglary Davis evaded suspicion by carrying a mop and buying himself as if he were a porter. He was seen in the place by the police, but everything was thought to be regular until he stepped out the rear door, dropped his bucket and ran. In his pockets were $25 in cash and a quantity of slot machine chips, all taken from the cash register.

The Redding policeman was shot while attempting to arrest Davis for burglary.

TAXICAB MEN ARRESTED FOR LACKING A LICENSE.

Tony Tringolias and N. H. Watson, taxicab proprietors, were arrested by the police Tuesday for allegedly operating cars without a city license and will appear for trial in police court March 7. Each was released under $25 bail.

VALIDITY OF STATE DRY LAW DOUBTED BY DISTRICT JUDGE

Search and Seizure Clause Held Constitutional for Baatz Trial; Appeal of Case Thought Certain.

Doubt as to the constitutionality of the search and seizure clause of the Montana prohibition law was expressed in district court Tuesday by Judge H. H. Ewing in ruling on the motion of Attorney J. W. Freeman for dismissal of the confiscation proceedings brought against Nick Baatz, proprietor of a wholesale store at 402 Second avenue south.

A large amount of liquor was seized in Baatz's place February 14, by Sheriff Bob Gordon and Monday's hearing was called to determine whether it should be ordered destroyed.

"The court has grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the search and seizure clause of the act," said Judge Ewing, "but it is a question for the supreme court to decide. I will deny the motion."

Urges Proceedings Quashed.

Mr. Freeman demanded that the proceedings be quashed on several distinct grounds. In addition to attacking the constitutionality of the search and seizure clause, he urged the court to hold the John Doe search warrant used by Sheriff Gordon invalid, or any search warrant issued without evidence having been taken to support an alleged probable cause for action. Mr. Freeman addressed the court for two hours in elaborating upon his motion. In support of his demand for the invalidating of the Baatz warrant, he quoted from the decision of the United States court of appeals in the case of Veeder against the United States:

Court of Appeals Quoted.

"One's person and property must be entitled, in an orderly democracy, to protection against both mob hysteria and the oppression of agents whom the people have chosen to represent them in administration of the laws which are required by the constitution to operate upon all persons alike."

"One's home and place of business are not to be invaded forcibly and searched by the curious and suspicious; not even by a disinterested officer of the law, unless he is armed with a search warrant."

"No search warrant shall be issued unless the judge has first been furnished with facts under oath—not suspicions, beliefs or surmises—but facts which, when the law is properly applied to them, tend to establish probable cause for believing that the legal conclusion is right."

Sheriff on Witness Stand.

Seven bottles of liquor, alleged by Sheriff Gordon to be moonshine, were introduced as evidence and the witness stand the sheriff stated his belief that the liquor was of home manufacture. One bottle tested 100 per cent proof, he testified. The warrant, Sheriff Gordon said, was shown to Baatz when he entered the place and then given to Attorney G. S. Frary, who, with Mr. Freeman, conducted the defense at the hearing. Sheriff Gordon still on witness stand when adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock and his examination will be continued this (Wednesday) morning.

Concealed Room Found.

Sheriff Gordon stated that the concealed room discovered in the Baatz basement had been located by federal men and that he had nothing to do with the seizure of the contents. He had not sent for the federal officers and did not know why they came to the store while he was there. One federal man found a part of a wooden box at another place in the store and brought it to the county jail, receiving a receipt from the witness.

"This case was stolen by Nick when Sheriff Gordon asked the attorney, 'Do you think it would be possible for anyone to steal his own property?'"

"Well, if you like it any better—he took it, then; he tried to conceal it."

Legal Issues Complicated.

"Oh, it doesn't make any difference to me," said the attorney. "I just wanted to know your opinion of the word you used."

"It doesn't make any difference to me, either. I am only telling you what he did."

The case is commented upon by legal men as involving the most important law points ever brought up in a Cascade county liquor case and it is considered certain that it will go to the supreme court.

Deputy County Attorneys W. J. Tighe and F. A. Ewald are conducting the prosecution for the state.

VICTOR AND HELENE WALTZ GRACEFULLY

Elephants Top Pantages Bill Replete With Acts of Unusual Merit.

Heading one of the best Pantages bills that has been seen in Great Falls for months, Victor and Helene, the wonderful Rhoda Royal dancing elephants were the features of last night's show at the Grand. Victor and Helene waltzed gracefully, did the one-step to perfection and, when it came to the shimmy—well, if you haven't seen an elephant shimmy you wouldn't understand anyway. In fact about the only thing the Rhoda elephants didn't do was the hesitation, for they went through their act quickly, surely, and without a word from their trainer.

Rose, Ellis and Rose, "the three jumping jacks," opened the bill with an acrobatic act, enthrilled by just enough comedy. Dainty, good to look at and graceful, Helen Rinehart and Ermine Duff, in a delightful singsing number, "The Two Dixie Misses," won the hearts of the audience as soon as they appeared. Wearing the costumes of 50 years ago, they sang some of the old songs that will always be popular with an American audience.

In their laughable skit, "The Grand Army Man," Jack Wells and Joe Boggs supplied the right amount of comedy to balance the bill. Jack and Joe are funny, and in a good, wholesome way.

"Through the Key-Hole," featuring Dan Bruce, Margot Duff and company, is a clever act with an unexpected ending.

Although not new to a Great Falls audience, the Demichele Brothers, in "You're Flat," put on one of the most popular numbers of the bill. The program will be repeated at the usual performances this (Wednesday) evening.

For more than a century after its introduction into England in the early seventeenth century tea was regarded with suspicion.
