

Major General March Tenders Resignation

Washington, March 5.—Major General March, chief of staff Saturday, handed his resignation to John W. Weeks, the new secretary of war, to take effect at the pleasure of President Harding. Secretary Weeks instructed General March to continue as chief of staff until further orders.

San Francisco, March 5.—Fernando Mychelina, former grand opera singer and father of Beatrice Vera Mychelina, motion picture and comic opera actress, died here Saturday.

LUMPS OF INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once fixes your Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomach

Undigested food! Lumps of pain! Belching gas, acids and sourness. When your stomach is all upset, here is instant relief—no waiting! The moment you eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin all the indigestion pain and dyspepsia distress caused by acidity is relieved. Your disordered stomach will feel fine at once. These pleasant, harmless tablets of Pape's Diapepsin neutralize the harmful acids in the stomach, and give almost instant relief; besides they cost so little at drug stores.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

He Is Looking 'Em Over

"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctors' medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which snatched me from the grave. I have gained sixty pounds, eat like a hired man and am looking 'em over again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Model Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.

Free From Inaugural Formalities Executive Ponders Sound Policies

Harding Will Not Rush to Any Hasty Decisions, Opinion in Washington; Prepares Constructive Legislation by Which His Administration May Be Judged in Early Months.

By ROBERT T. SMALL, Special Correspondent of The Tribune. Copyright, 1921, by The Tribune.

Washington, March 5.—Free at last from the formalities of the inauguration, President Harding purposes during the coming week to arrange the constructive legislative program by which the early months of his administration would be judged. The new president hesitated to explain his own wishes in his inaugural address. In his own language he thought it more becoming that he should postpone any announcements in this respect until he is free to consult with the leaders of congress and could work out with them the problem as to what should and what should not be done.

Mr. Harding does not intend at any time during his administration to force congress or to spring any sudden recommendation upon the legislative branch with the idea of arousing public opinion on his side. Conciliation will at all times be the watchword at the White House, and when Mr. Harding disagrees he will send for the congressmen most concerned in the matter and report a working agreement with them before taking the public into his confidence. The new chief executive expects this policy to bring about a better feeling between the capital and the White House than has existed for many years past. In other words, President Harding is passionately desirous of working in harmony with congress and if there is any failure in this respect—if there can be any failure in the circumstances, the fault will rest alone at the capitol.

Financial Appropriation Bills. A considerable part of Mr. Harding's immediate legislative program was dependent upon conditions which in the adjourning congress of Friday last left the public business. Naturally he will be concerned in clearing up first of all the two appropriation bills which failed—the navy bill through lack of agreement and the army bill through the final veto of Woodrow Wilson. The new session of congress according to present indications will be called April 4. During the intervening four weeks the president believes he can adjust matters so that these two bills easily will be disposed of when congress resumes.

It is not the present purpose of Mr. Harding to burden the extra session of congress with a heavy program. If all goes well it is the general assumption the extra session will have adjourned by July 15th. With machinery working smoothly, it is expected that three months and a half of the extra session should suffice. And this is the legislative program the president will suggest to congress leaders: First—The passage of the amplified Knox resolution declaring peace with Germany and Austria, carrying with it

nothing to do with matters of national honor or vital importance. Mr. Harding will endeavor as time and conditions permit, to carry on the other definite promises of his administration which include: The repeal of the Pan-American canal tolls bill and the granting of free use of the Isthmian waterway to American vessels, despite the claim that such action would violate a treaty with Great Britain. The upbuilding of the American merchant marine so as to enhance the foreign trade of the United States. Reorganization of Departments. The reorganization of government departments, including the amalgamation of the naval and military air services under single control of national defense. Liberty and Victory bonds on a new basis would make them worth all that patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them. The stamping out of lynching by the federal government so as to remove this stain from the fair name of America. The enforcement of the eighteenth or prohibition amendment to the full extent of the law. The clearing out of the federal departments in Washington, so they may be made more business-like and may send back to productive effort thousands of federal employes who are either duplicating work or are not essential at all. The enactment of legislation which will guarantee to the negro citizens of America the enjoyment of all their rights. I believe, said Mr. Harding in this connection, "that they have earned the full measure of citizenship bestowed, that their sacrifices in behalf of the United States on the battlefields of the late war have entitled them to all of the freedom and opportunity, all of sympathy and aid that the American spirit of fairness and justice demands."

Mr. Harding is committed to many more undertakings, but he does not intend to burden the extra session with all policies promised by his administration. His plan for an association of nations, for instance, will not be ready for the extra session. The president is waiting to learn what the reaction has been throughout the European countries, especially Germany, to his definite casting aside of the League of Nations in his inaugural address. It is possible during the next few months he will attempt to ascertain through diplomatic channels whether or not nations of Europe desire to abandon the "alliances of the existing league if a call for a conference and council" of which the United States would be a member. The members would be invited to further conferences by the United States, looking to an appropriate disarmament of the world to the decisions of an international court which must be permitted to decide disputes of a justiciable character but which have the resumption of friendly and diplomatic relations with the peoples of the former central empire. Passage of Tariff. Second—The passage of an emergency tariff bill, based largely upon the Fordney bill which congress failed to pass over Mr. Wilson's veto. The emergency bill may be the only measure reported at this session, the general tariff revision awaiting the regular session beginning next December. Third—A general tax revision, looking to the lightening of the present tax burdens. Mr. Harding has given much thought to the subject of tax-

nothing to do with matters of national honor or vital importance. Mr. Harding will endeavor as time and conditions permit, to carry on the other definite promises of his administration which include: The repeal of the Pan-American canal tolls bill and the granting of free use of the Isthmian waterway to American vessels, despite the claim that such action would violate a treaty with Great Britain. The upbuilding of the American merchant marine so as to enhance the foreign trade of the United States. Reorganization of Departments. Immigration Bill to Be First Sent to New Congress

Washington, March 5.—The immigration restriction bill which was "pocket vetoed" by President Wilson, will be one of the first measures introduced at the coming session of the sixty-seventh congress, according to congressional leaders. It is the plan to send it to President Harding at the least possible delay as proponents regard its early enactment as necessary to keep out hordes of undesirable immigrants from southern Europe. Some slight modification in the bill may be made. Many senators are known to desire to increase the three per cent limitation to five per cent.
