HOLDING A HUSBAND

Adele Garrison's New Phase of...

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

The Advice Which Marsden's Private Note Offered.

I obediently took up the pages of Marsden's private letter to my husband, which the art editor had put into the envelope enclosing the official notification that Dicky's illustrations for the Pennington novel had been rejected by the distinguished author.

"Dear Old Boy," the letter began, in Marsden's accustomed way. "Thought I'd better write you the real dope on this mess. Don't go into one of your usual spasms over this, though I will admit it's enough to make a man see a snake or two when he's worked as hard as you have on those drawings. But you know what a hen-minded, pompous old boy Pennington is!—I gave a gasp of surprise at this point, for I never can get over my amazement at the flippancy, unswayed way in which Dicky and his friends regard the so-called great ones of the earth—and as soon as he saw your sketches he staged a fit on the office rug, and declared himself off on you, or words to that effect.

"Of course, Percy wilted at once, and crawled at Pennington's feet, asking him if your head on a charger wouldn't satisfy him. But Claude, to my surprise, really put up quite a fight for you, and Pennington finally consented to see you in conference Monday. Now, for the love of Mike, don't straddle that high horse of yours and start for Pike's peak! Get this through that ivory dome of yours—Pennington found no fault with the quality of the sketches. It was the looks of the heroine he was after. You see, those sketches I showed him when he selected you for the task of illustrating his brain-ache were from "Day Dream," and the model for that may have been your sister. You see, old Pen fell for her with a dull thud that jarred the office. He said she was the ideal type of feminine pulchritude. But how I am rambling! Of course, you remember, you heard him emit the same yelps when you met him in conference over the work.

"Makes a Man."

"Where in thunder is that other model? I remember you told Pen she was absolutely unavailable, but you didn't say whether she was dead or had married a war profiteer. If the latter, you ought to be good looking and fascinating enough to get her back long enough for these sketches, any way.

"But cheer up, old boy, Pennington isn't the only one, though Percy, of course—this not to discourage you, but to show you the importance of pleasing Pennington—is letting loose a few blasts about our probably over-rating you, and that Pennington's o. k. makes a man, the lack of it mars him, and you know the usual spiel—oh, cuss it all, old top! I can't bear to write a screed like this to you, but I think it's best to let you know how things stand, don't you?"

"My best to everybody, and remember I'm standing by to the last ditch. Yours, as always, "STEVE."

If my heart was heavy when I began the letter, it outwitted the traditionist lead when I finished it. Only too well did I remember whose charms the fascinating heroine of "Day Dream" perpetuated. Grace Draper posed for those sketches—Grace Draper, whose faultless beauty, intelligence and knowledge of posing Dicky never had ceased lamenting, even though she had brought infinite trouble, even tragedy, into our lives.

"It's the end—"

"You see what it means, don't you?" Dicky's voice was heavy, listless. "It's the end for me, all right," he said with the hopelessness of the artistic temperament when criticized, upon him. "I might as well take up sign painting. Wonder if I could get into the union?"

There was a bitter note even in his gibing, which told me how deep the barb in the letter had pierced. I tried, clumsily enough, to alleviate its hurt.

"But, Dicky, Mr. Marsden says the quality of the sketches is all right," I began.

"You read what else he said, didn't you?" Dicky retorted gloomily. "That spiel about Percy! He's the original dum-dum bullet when he gets started."

I had no answer to this, for I knew, as absurd as it seemed, Dicky's fears that his career was virtually ended were in some sense justified by the attitude of "Percy," a private nickname bestowed by Marsden upon the senior member of the publishing firm which handled Pennington's books. "Claude" is the nickname given by Marsden to the junior partner, and he is a square likable chap with the courage of his convictions. But that "Percy" would sacrifice anybody or anything to the exigency of the moment Dicky had told me many times. And more than half of Dicky's yearly income comes from the work given him by this firm.

That there must be some way out I realized, for I well knew there was something I myself could do—if only I could bring myself to the doing of it.

But just now, dazed and intensely sorry for Dicky, I could only put my hand on his, comfortingly.

The next instant he had buried his head on my shoulder, and I felt more like a mother than wife as I silently comforted him.

RIVAL CITIES ON PARK ROUTE BID FOR TRADE

Keen Competition Between Centers on Inter-Park Route Noted at Denver.

Ten thousand tourists, 5 per cent of them from the eastern half of the United States, traveling over the National Park-to-Park highway this year have brought about keen rivalry among 100 cities and towns for tourist camp, hotel and general business patronage. The Great Falls Commercial club is backing "The Commercial," a Denver publicity publication. Denver is one of the cities affected by the competition and a meeting was recently held there to determine what was necessary to keep the city in its place in the sun of the travel universe.

It Builds Prestige.

"Prestige and influence, national in character, are coming to the cities that are backing the National Park-to-Park highway," the publication asserts. "The highway association has directed some 10,000 persons westward through inquiries received during the first half of the season. Many of the tourists have travelled overland, with camping outfits strapped on their automobiles.

The publication states that publicity was the medium through which nearly all of the inquiries were induced to follow the highway. Before leaving home they received the association's literature, including the 6,000 mile highway and pamphlets from 100 cities describing short side trips off the main road.

Tourist Camps Help.

Construction of tourists' camps and establishment of other conveniences for automobile parties in all cities that would attract tourist trade here intercity competition is keen. Great Falls is mentioned prominently among the cities which are building tourist camps with modern conveniences.

The National Park-to-Park Highway association is conducting its activities with the slogan: "You sing America, we'll not see it." The same line is used by American Automobile association, the National Park Service, the General Federation of Women's clubs and the National Highways association, which are helping to make more effective the association's slogan as thus expressed, the publication says.

Among the Tourists at Great Falls Camp

"I think Great Falls is one of the most up to date cities in Montana," declared Mrs. O. D. Westall of Aberdeen, S. D., at the tourist camp here. "I have always wanted to come to Montana to live because of the cleanliness of its cities, the good roads, the scenery and generally better atmosphere." With Mrs. Westall is Mr. Westall and son, Duke. They are on their way home and will complete a journey of approximately 3,000 miles.

Mr. Westall is vice-president of the Sheep Creek Oil Co. in the Mule creek district. His concern recently purchased 3,000 acres of oil lands for $1 an acre. He says drilling will begin before September 1. "We are certain of striking oil although it will be necessary to drill from 2800 to 3300 feet and a much larger outfit and derrick will be needed for the work. I have taken crude oil from the wells in that vicinity and used it in the engine of my car," said he.

The crops in South Dakota have turned out much better than was prophesied," said Mr. Westall, and, although they are not as good as those in Montana, we are pleased with the returns.

Praises Montana Roads.

He says the roads in Montana are far better than in either North or South Dakota and he experienced little difficulty on his journey through this state. His route included Jamestown, Billings, Bozeman and Dickinson, N. D., Glendive, Miles City, Forsyth, the Winnett oil fields, Lewistown, Belt, Great Falls, and he is now on his way to Aberdeen.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Steek of Astoria were visitors at the camp Monday. They are on their way to some place in Oregon and will go there by the way of Lincoln, Missoula, and Wallace, Ida. They declare the roads are good.

The MacMillan family of Portland, Ore.; practically took possession of the camp Monday. They have four automobiles and as many tents. The first time United States mail was ever carried across country by a motor car.

"One year ago, four Essex cars, each carrying by special government permission, pouches of first class mail matter, dashed from coast to coast," said Mr. Wright. "Two of the cars were eastbound and the other two travelled from New York to San Francisco, Car No. 1, eastbound, reached New York in four days, 14 hours and 43 minutes, and the other, westbound, established records differing from this by but a few hours. All of the cars beat the best previous mark by many hours."

The four cars were driven by 25 different pilots and used the grades of ascending and of that were available along the route. Extremely bad road conditions were frequently encountered, Mr. Wright stated. The record made by the cars has never been equalled.

Today Anniversary of Coast to Coast Automobile Record

Today (August 9) is one of the important anniversary dates in the history of motordom, according to W. W. Wright of the T. C. Vaux Motor Car Co. It was on this date that the record was completed for the fastest time ever made by an automobile between New York and San Francisco, and it is also the anniversary of the first time United States mail was ever carried across country by a motor car.

"One year ago, four Essex cars, each carrying by special government permission, pouches of first class mail matter, dashed from coast to coast," said Mr. Wright. "Two of the cars were eastbound and the other two travelled from New York to San Francisco, Car No. 1, eastbound, reached New York in four days, 14 hours and 43 minutes, and the other, westbound, established records differing from this by but a few hours. Billy Laird Found Guilty of Vagrancy

"Billy" Laird, 21, could not prove to Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard, Monday morning that he was innocent of the charge of vagrancy. She was fined $25 which she was unable to pay. The court ordered her committed.

Jack Brooks, 40, forfeited $10 bail when he failed to appear and answer to the charge of drunkenness. Henry LaCombe, charged with violation of traffic regulations, was booked for the afternoon police court session. He forfeited $10 bail.

Poundage Doubled on Swiss Parcels

Pursuant to an agreement between the United States postal department and the postal administration of Switzerland, to be effective September 1, it is announced in a communication received by the Great Falls office that the maximum weight limit of parcel post packages to Switzerland will be increased from 11 pounds to 22 pounds.

Care for Kiddies at Tourist Camp During State Fair

A children's playground, where parents may leave their children in care of an instructor while they attend the state fair, is a feature of the state fair grounds announced by Secretary Horace Engstrom. The playgrounds will be inclosed and equipped with shade and suitable amusements. Establishing of the playgrounds is announced in anticipation of the large number of families that will this year make the trip to the fair in automobiles. The plan is intended to overcome a difficulty that has on previous years prevented many families from attending, or even from going to Helena during fair week.

Reservations may be made at the tourist camp in advance of the opening of the fair, by writing to the secretary.

His wife was a daughter of Bishop Quayle and there were no children.

News of the arrest of Burch in the mystery was received with great interest here. He created quite an impression while a resident here, by his characteristic ways.

AUSTRALIANS MUST WEAR OWN HAIR, MAKE OWN BEER AND SUFFRAGETTE'S BOMBS; IMPORTS ARE BARRED IN MAILS

If you've got friends or relatives in Australia and are thinking of sending them human hair, oysters, explosive cigars, lucky stones, or beerine, you're in hard luck. For the Australian postal authorities have issued a circular prohibiting these and many other articles from the mails of that country. Postmaster William Cluston here has received a list of the articles the Australian government has put under the ban, and the above articles as well as many others are included in the list.

Checks, money orders, and postal bonds, except those addressed to bankers, are forbidden. Bibles, prayer books, hymnals or other books or publications intended for use by the Lutheran church in Australia will not be admitted under any circumstances, and merchandise of any kind manufactured or produced in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Turkey, or Bulgaria,

A total of 750 miles was made to Great Falls and they think they will have gone over 2350 miles by the time they arrive at Moose Jaw.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Burgman are visiting his brother, W. W. Burgman, 260 Fourth avenue north, while in Great Falls. He says the roads are fair and the highway from Lewistown to Great Falls is fine.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Munaker of Conrad were visitors at the camp Monday. He says the roads from Conrad to Power, Dutton and Great Falls are fine. They will continue their journey to Livingston by the way of Neihart and White Sulphur Springs, and may go through the Yellowstone park before duplicating their route on the return to Conrad.

Coloradans Come in.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Hemmel of Boulder, Colo., came to the camp Monday. Mr. Hemmel travels for the Western States Cutlery Manufacturing Co. of his home town and is now on his way to Lewistown, having come to Great Falls by the way of Cheyenne, Casper and Sheridan, Wyo.; Billings, Miles City, Harlowton, Lewistown and White Sulphur Springs, and may go through the Yellowstone park before duplicating their route on the return to Boulder, Colo.

"I have traveled through Montana and Wyoming for five years and am of the opinion that the roads are steadily improving as the result of much new construction work brought about by the various good roads associations in the two states," said Mr. Hemmel. He declares that the road from Lewistown to Great Falls is fine.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron of Aberdeen, Wash., are here. He thinks the only road in Montana and Idaho that is any good is between Great Falls and Helena. They came here by the way of Portland and Spokane, Wash., Wallace, Ida., Missoula and Helena. They will continue their trip through to Moose Jaw, Sask.

Visitors From Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brownmiller of Salt Lake City, Mr. and Mrs. W. Danvers of White Sulphur Springs, and Clate Spencer of White Sulphur Springs are camping at the Great Falls auto tourists' camp. The first party came to Great Falls by the way of Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Ashton, Ida., the Yellowstone park, White Sulphur Springs and Neihart. They intend to go to Glacier park and from there, take a direct route to Salt Lake City.

They say the road from White Sulphur Springs to Neihart was good, from Neihart to Belt, rough, and from there to Great Falls, good.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Vallas, of Cheyenne, Wyo., visited the camp Monday. They say the roads are fairly good, and the highway from Lewistown to Great Falls is good.

is expressly prohibited. Merchandise will be considered as manufactured in these countries if more than 5 per cent of the labor executed in their production is performed by persons residing in any of the countries named.

"Suffragette bombs" are also named in the prohibited list, and "Johnson's Carbon Remover" also comes under the ban. Rabbit poison, California nuts, bank notes, bullion, gold and perishable objects are in disfavor too, as well as lotteries and all games of chance. No explanation is offered as to the reason for excluding the articles listed, and many of them are such as to cause one to ponder what the objection may be. For instance, no article of any kind bearing the word "bosch" will be admitted under any circumstances, the communication states, but does not say what method of detection will be used in excluding such articles.

NOTED ARCTIC EXPLORER WILL LECTURE HERE

Stefansson Will Describe Experiences in Land of Snow and Ice.

Two men of international fame are to be heard in lectures on the Chautauqua program at Great Falls next week—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the distinguished Arctic explorer, and Peter Clark Macfarlane, novelist and journalist. The Chautauqua will be held here for seven days, opening Monday, Aug. 15, and closing Sunday night, Aug. 21. The big tent will be located on Fourth street north opposite the Tribune building.

In his lecture that will be delivered for the first time on the Chautauqua platform, Stefansson will describe the harrowing experiences of five years in a land of snow and ice. He will tell of vessels wrecked, and still adrift in a constantly moving, frozen sea. He will relate personal encounters with deadly elements of a "no man's land" far beyond the Arctic circle that science might be served, and the people of the earth know all about the planet they inhabit.

Peter Clark Macfarlane won laurels a few years ago with his stories and articles which were published in the Saturday Evening Post and Collier's Weekly. In his lecture here will discuss some of the great characters

It has been his privilege to know intimately, and write about many of the great persons of the day and his estimates of public men have been surprisingly justified by elapsed time. He interviewed and wrote notable articles on McKinley, Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson. He obtained the first authentic interview from General Goethals. He has interviewed the mysterious Colonel House and the redoubtable Hiram Johnson. The senator from California is a great admirer of Macfarlane. Recently he said "I have been with many of those who are considered orators and great speakers. There are none I would rather listen to than Mr. Macfarlane. In all the world there is no other musical instrument that can give so much real pleasure, to so many people, for so little money, as the Victrola. Any one of the small portable Victrolas will transform, at a moment's notice, the camp in the wilderness into an opera house; the canoe or yacht into a floating palace of song; the porch of the summer cottage or club into a private ballroom; and, best of all, it will help you to live and to forget the heat and cares of the day in the sweltering city.
