STEPHEN J. COWLEY ONE OF JURY OF 12 LAWYERS WHO EXONERATED GEN. ANSELL OF CHARGES MADE IN BERGDOLL CASE

S. T. Ansell, United States judge advocate general during the war, has been found innocent of unethical professional conduct in accepting a retainer from attorneys for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft evader, by a "jury" of 12 lawyers, of which Stephen J. Cowley of Great Falls was a member. In a majority report to the national house of representatives a congressional committee censured General Ansell in connection with Bergdoll's escape and the American Bar association submitted the record to 12 widely scattered attorneys for an opinion as to whether he should be disbarred.

The 12 attorneys were unanimous in holding General Ansell blameless from a viewpoint of professional ethics, Mr. Cowley stated Tuesday.

Censured by Three.

The general was censured by three members of the congressional committee, and two members found no foundation for sustaining the charges. General Ansell, because of his familiarity with military prosecutions, was selected to assist Bergdoll's attorneys and in effect became the defendant's chief counsel.

After Bergdoll's conviction, General Ansell used his influence to obtain a permit for the defendant to recover $115,000 in gold from a place where he claimed he had hidden it. While going to the cache Bergdoll and his guards stopped at his mother's home in Philadelphia. Eviding his guards, the slacker escaped and his subsequent flight to Germany and his present residence there have since become incidents of international interest. General Ansell has offered his $10,000 retainer as a reward for the capture of Bergdoll.

Criticized Army Justice.

News dispatches have repeatedly indicated that General Ansell came into disfavor in military circles because of his criticisms of military justice. War department officials were included in his criticisms, which were followed by his resignation. His criticisms of military justice are said to have been a factor in influencing congress to alter the articles of war in this regard.

The findings of the several members of the bar association jury were filed with E. M. Morgan, dean of the Yale law school and chairman of the association's committee. Copies of the findings will be sent to each member of congress.

MATCH IGNITES BARREL OF GAS IN JAIL YARD

Property Damage of $3,000 Done by Fire Resulting From Explosion.

A gasoline explosion caused by the lighting of a match near a gasoline barrel was responsible for an outbreak of fire in the county garage, in the rear of the county jail, about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. The fire, which lasted only a few minutes, damaged two garages, two automobiles and cremated seven pet pigeons belonging to Sheriff Bob Gordon. The property damage was estimated at $3,000.

Head Files From Match.

Joe Bennett, son of County Commissioner Jesse R. Hennett, who is employed as county chauffeur, was filling a can from a 50-gallon barrel of gasoline and was standing aside watching the flow. He struck a match, he said, a bit of it breaking off and flying in the direction of the tank. Flames immediately enveloped the barrel and soon spread to the garage and the auto storage quarters owned by C. E. Hubbard.

The sudden burst of flames aroused all the prisoners in the county jail and they added considerable commotion to the general excitement. Owing to delay in communicating with the fire department, it was several minutes before a stream of water was played on the blaze. A tank of lubricating oil exploded and had burned the fire before the firemen arrived.

Five Cars Undamaged.

The damaged machines belong to County Commissioner Lewis H. Kommers and J. W. Shof, a Great Northern railway master mechanic. The Kommers' automobile, a Franklin, had the top completely burned and other parts singed by the flames. The Shof car was more seriously damaged, but the loss is covered by insurance. No insurance was carried by Mr. Kommers. Five other machines in the Hubbard garage were untouched by the blaze.

Commercial Club's Literature Selected for National Display

Community publicity literature issued by the Great Falls Commercial club has been selected for use in lectures to be given at the New Orleans meeting, October 24, 25 and 26, of the National Association of Commercial Club Secretaries. J. M. Gild, secretary of the Kansas City, Kan., Chamber of Commerce, has been gathering literature sent out by commercial organizations over the country and has informed Secretary L. E. Jones of the Great Falls club that material obtained from here will be included in the list brought before delegates to the convention.

Great Falls literature deals largely with the agricultural and industrial resources of this territory and has been widely distributed during the last several years. Illustrations of scenic attractions and improved highways occupy a prominent place in the booklets.

Gifts of Clothing Asked by Red Cross

The Cascade county chapter of the American Red Cross is anxious to receive donations of clothing for distribution to the needy. The $14,000 worth of supplies received in 1920 have been distributed, according to Mrs. Harriet Carrier, secretary of the chapter, and many requests for assistance are being received. The 1920 allotment was made by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross. A sewing machine is needed by one woman, she stated, who would appreciate the donation of a second-hand machine.

Hublin Is Fined $25 for Talking Profanely in Presence of Wife

Jeff Hublin, a restaurant proprietor, admitted in police court Tuesday morning that he had used profane language in the presence of his wife. He resented the charge that he had been drunk at the time he uttered the improper words, but the court decided that he was. When Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard pronounced a fine of $25, Hublin served notice of appeal, but he later paid the amount. Pearl Bennett, 26, and Rose Smith, 24, arrested Monday night on charges of vagrancy, did not appear in court.

to answer the charges and therefore forfeited $50 bail each. At the conclusion of the fourth hearing, the charge of reckless driving against George Boy, a hotel man, was dismissed on condition that he reimburse Arthur Dubbs for the amount of the damage sustained by Dubbs' automobile in a collision Sunday night.

THREE OF A KIND.

She was telling an acquaintance about her girl friends. "Yes," she said, "my friend Maud is only twenty-five, but she's been married three times. And all her husbands have been named William." "You don't say!" replied he. "Why, she must be a regular Bill collector!" —New York American.

NICOLA ZEROLA

DRAMATIC TENOR
METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY

"After his appearance last night as Manrico in 'Trovatore' there can be no doubt that Nicola Zerola is a sensation. He sang two high Cs in the 'Di Quella Pira' air, which were extraordinary in their brilliancy, and he walked down to the footlights while he held them. In his repetition of the air he sang the high note three times. This tenor seems destined for a great popular success on account of his ability to sustain high notes, if nothing else."—New York Times.
