TAX PAYMENTS EARLY, URGE OF TREASURER

County Cash Custodian Says Funds Running Low; Ulm Objects to Court Decree.

Asserting that the balance in the treasury is the lowest that it has ever been in the history of Cascade county, County Treasurer Fred C. Andretta, Tuesday emphasized what he said was the necessity of early payment of taxes. Mr. Andretta said the county balance had been reduced to $106,000 and that the balance of the fund of school district No. 1 was virtually depleted. Remittances must not be delayed if school warrants are to be received at full value when presented for payment, he declared.

Will Collect 90 Per Cent.
Despite the fact that the season is not considered one of extreme prosperity for Cascade county, County Treasurer Andretta expects to collect as much tax money this year as last, when 90 per cent of the total was received. The only section of the county where taxes will be difficult to collect, according to Mr. Andretta, is the Ulm district. Residents of this district have informed the treasurer that they will refuse to pay the irrigation assessment levied against the land under a decree recently handed down by District Judge J. B. Leslie. The landowners contend that the assessment is not legal, even though approved by the court.

Mailing Notices.
Tax notices are being mailed from the treasurer's office at the rate of 600 a day and it is expected that all of the 12,000 on the list will be sent out by the first of November. The force at work on the notices is ten days behind the usual schedule, due to the fact that the state board of equalization delayed in deciding several appeals. In an effort to make up for lost time, Mr. Andretta said his deputies would continue at work today (Wednesday). All other offices in the courthouse will be closed in observance of Columbus Day.

WELCOME HAINES AT "PAN" AGAIN

Comedian Repeats Success at Grand; Kuba Quartet One of Best on Circuit.

Though only a few months have elapsed since Nat (Chick) Haines was seen here in his musical comedy, "Yes, My Dear," this Pantages act made as big a hit at the Grand theater Tuesday night as it did the first time it was in Great Falls. It provokes laughter because it puts over the ludicrous situation of a big, jolly fat man kissing a pretty young girl—and being caught at it by his wife who, as he says, is built along "limousine lines," and who has a look that would wilt a sunflower. Haines is supported by a clever cast and a well groomed chorus.

The Kuba quartette, four sisters who are credited with giving 700 concerts before soldier audiences in France during the war, is one of the best musical acts heard on the Pantages circuit in some time. The girls play the piano, cello, flute, piccolo and viola, and their program is a happy blending of classical and popular music. Their ensemble is "Lilac Time," which is followed by a brilliant piano solo, "Sant-Saens Second Concerto." A flute solo with orchestral accompaniment was interesting and effective, while a musical pot-pourri ending with "Wilhelm Tell" offered something to suit every taste. As an encore they played "The Military Patrol," one of the girls' composition, which is a descriptive work, recopying the passing of a band in the street.

The vaudeville program opened with Laretto, an excellent contortionist, in "A Touch of Nature." Laretto appears as a frog and his pantomime is most realistic, having an artistic woodland background. Two clever young men and a cleverer miss appear in the skit, "Waiting for the Star." Their crossing is a little different from the usual run and their harmony singing is worth while, so much so that the audience wanted more.

An odd sort of a fellow appears, as he says, for Harry Antrim, who is scheduled for the featured position. He gets away with his oddities in such style that the audience is satisfied, and no questions are asked as to his identity.

This Pantages bill will be seen twice this (Wednesday) evening.
