POLES IN AMERICA

Buffalo, New York, Oct. 10.—The fact that Poland has become at last a united and independent nation will not rob the United States of any considerable percentage of the Polish-born population, which has come to play such an important part in its business and industrial life.

The children and the fathers generally mix with the American world and pick up English, slang included, in six months. But the mother from Poland often remains a Pole and clings to the familiar ways of her birth land.

This is the opinion of a prominent citizen of Polish birth here in Buffalo, which contains perhaps a greater percentage of Poles among its people than any other American city.

Not all the Poles in Buffalo are of the working class. There are many wealthy families and successful business and professional men.

Three Types of Poles The different Polish types that in this country blend without difficulty as they gradually absorb American characteristics are less adaptable in Poland. That is one difficulty in the Polish situation.

The German Pole has been educated along practical lines in a desperate attempt to make a substantial German citizen of him. Some 25 years ago, laws were made in Prussian Poland to buy land, which was believed that a Polish wife could quickly turn a husband to her way of thinking.

Despite all of the evidence in the trial and at a subsequent senate committee inquiry, the entire Republican membership of the senate committee on privileges and elections voted unanimously to "exonerate" Senator Newberry and recommended that he retain his seat.

Up to the close of the world war, very little thought had been given to the idea of rehabilitating persons, but the wounded and disabled veterans who came back from service it became apparent that these men could be trained in lines that would enable them to help make a living for themselves.

Senator Colt points out that in a treaty negotiated by a Republican secretary of state, Elihu Root, special provision is made for the arbitration of just such questions.

The purpose of the act is to give such persons a training that will enable them to make a living for themselves, making them useful citizens and thereby relieving the mental depression of those effected and creating happiness among themselves and their families.

The Newberry case will be finally determined by the senate as a whole. 3.—The Lasker Shipping Board Scandal—The projected sale of 205 wooden ships, costing $300,000 to $800,000 each, for $2,100 each, with but a single bidder. (This bid following wide adverse publicity, has just been rejected.)

REMARKABLE REHABILITATION CASES MAKING STATE TRAINING, INCLUDING THREE GT. FALLS MEN

Armless Victim of Runover Preparing to Be Telegrapher; Sole Girl, Injured in Laundry, to Become Nurse; Backed by Federal Aid.

Special to The Tribune. Helena, Oct. 13.—Although the department of industrial rehabilitation of the Montana state board of education has been in operation only since August 15, 1921, there are now 91 cases on foot of which 17 are in training, including three from Great Falls and vicinity—Bert Bullard, James Ronan and Dan Surm—and it is obtaining a good start upon a plan which has for its object the placing upon a self-supporting basis all those persons who may have become incapacitated by accidents, sickness or disease.

who has been blind since May, 1899, as the result of cholera infantum, is in training at Boulder to become a lawyer. He is a graduate of the Boulder high school.

The seventeenth legislative assembly, of 1921, enacted a law authorizing the state to accept and take advantage of the federal act providing for vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry and otherwise.

Arthur Devlan, 31, of Anaconda, who lost a leg May 19, 1918, while engaged as a railroad switchman, is being trained in the office of the Butte Miner to become a linotype operator.

Most Interesting Case. Robert Gohn, 21, of Virginia City, who lost the sight of both eyes in a mine explosion March 10, 1920, is under training at the school for blind at Boulder, to become a musician and piano tuner.

One of the most interesting cases is that of James Tamietti, 21 of Superior, who lost both arms above the elbow in 1903. He is being trained in telegraphy at a school in Butte and will be completed this course, will go out as a commercial telegrapher.

Up to the close of the world war, very little thought had been given to the idea of rehabilitating persons, but the wounded and disabled veterans who came back from service it became apparent that these men could be trained in lines that would enable them to help make a living for themselves.

Sam Nestor, 36, of Haysden, lost his left leg below the knee Jan. 12, 1919, as the result of the foot being frozen while at work in the woods. He is now in St. Vincent's hospital in Billings, and as soon as an artificial leg can be provided, he will be placed in training on a poultry farm out of Helena.

The federal board for vocational education has accomplished some wonderful results through the proper training of these ex-service men throughout the states.

Margaret Smith, 18, of Anaconda, is the only girl who has been listed for training. She sustained an injury to one hand in a laundry machine Feb. 14, 1921. She will receive training as a nurse in a hospital either at Billings or Helena.

Under this act, whenever cases are reported or brought to the attention of the department, a careful survey of the same is made by the state rehabilitation agent.

THE PANAMA TOLLS QUESTION.

SENATOR COLT is the author of a suggestion that before we pass the Panama free tolls bill we should submit the interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to The Hague Tribunal for arbitration.

SIX SCANDALS IN SIX MONTHS.

THE Tribune's Washington political correspondent calls attention to six scandals that have developed in Washington during the first six months of the new administration as follows:

1.—The Harvey Scandal—Permitting George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain to retain his post without reprimand or rebuke, following his public speech at the Pilgrims' society dinner, London, May 19, insulting the living and the dead of America in the world war. This speech was condemned by practically all classes of citizens, by nearly every church conference since held and by those who had the best right to condemn it because their feelings and sensibilities were most strongly outraged—members of the American legion posts, and organizations of war mothers.

members of the senate committee on privileges and elections. The facts in the Newberry scandal are a matter of court and legislative record. It is admitted that a slush fund of nearly $200,000 was raised and spent in Newberry's behalf in the senatorial primary election of 1918; that the financial records of the campaign were destroyed or mysteriously disappeared. Evidence to show Senator Newberry had knowledge of the financial campaign in his behalf was sufficient to bring about his conviction in a federal court, but the conviction was nullified by a five to four decision of the supreme court of the United States on the ground that the federal corrupt practices act did not apply to primary elections, but the decision did not touch the merits of the case.

Despite all of the evidence in the trial and at a subsequent senate committee inquiry, the entire Republican membership of the senate committee on privileges and elections voted unanimously to "exonerate" Senator Newberry and recommended that he retain his seat.

The Newberry case will be finally determined by the senate as a whole. 3.—The Lasker Shipping Board Scandal—The projected sale of 205 wooden ships, costing $300,000 to $800,000 each, for $2,100 each, with but a single bidder.

ciency appropriation acts passed during the first session of the Sixty-Seventh congress, and all other appropriations made at the latter session shall be compiled and published with the statement of appropriations for the second session of the Sixty-Seventh congress.

Secretary Mellon of the treasury has been authorized to increase the issue of certificates of indebtedness from $7,000,000,000 to $7,500,000,000, and on September 15 offered for sale a second issue of treasury certificates of indebtedness of $600,000,000—thus borrowing money to run the government while the administration was making a pretense of economy and boasting that it was saving money.

Each and every one of these enumerated acts amounts to a public scandal, for which there is no parallel in numbers in any previous Republican administration, scandalous as some of them have been.

Fergus Sheriff Raids Gambling Party and Arrest Eight in Game

Special to The Tribune. Lewistown, Oct. 13.—Sheriff Billy Woods, County Attorney E. J. Baker and Undersheriff Guy Slocum raided an alleged gambling game late Wednesday night, arresting eight men who were playing, most of these later giving bonds. The room was formerly used by the Moose lodge as a club room, but was vacated by the order several weeks ago, and it is claimed that since then it has been the scene of a regular gambling game.
