JUDITH IS ACCUSED OF GRABBING RICH SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Division in Creation of New County Before Court for Revision of Lines.

Special to The Tribune. Lewistown, Nov. 12.—What promises to be an interesting bit of litigation as a result of the reorganization of Judith Basin county will soon be brought to trial in the district court. At the time Judith Basin was segregated a number of school districts along the boundary were included in both Fergus and the new county.

Through the efforts of Mrs. James Morrow Moore, who personally appeared before the last session of the legislature, what are called joint districts were separated so that the districts as an entity could be continued in the new county.

Those cognizant with the conditions in the disputed territory will remember that there are two lines of railroad paralleling each other, one in Judith Basin county and the other in Fergus.

Now a number of the joint districts claim that the county superintendent of Judith Basin county has, wherever possible, taken territory where railroad valuations are possible and have placed them in districts already created in Judith Basin county.

The board of county commissioners of Fergus has now taken up the matter and in view of the congestion of business the county attorney's office has appointed Ralph J. Anderson as assistant to the county attorney for the sole purpose of clearing up these differences and as soon as possible Mr. Anderson will enter suits for restitution against Judith Basin county.

OBJECTIVE AND SUBJECTIVE METHOD OF "EYE TESTING" AND "EYE EXAMINATION"

The Development of a Child, Both Mentally and Physically Depends Upon the Condition of His Eyes. The Commonly Used "Test Type" Method Is but Little in Advance of the Old "Try-On System." Glasses Selected in This Way Cannot Possibly Be Correct, Even for Adults.

Various methods of "eye testing" and "eye examination" are used to ascertain the refraction of the eye. It will be interesting and instructive to devote a little time to a review of the development of the art of adapting lenses for the eyes.

Not many years ago glasses were looked upon as purely a commercial article, to be purchased from the stock of a jeweler, druggist, general storekeeper, or even the street peddler, each one claiming superiority for his special brand of goods.

This method differed in no way from that of which shoes were purchased by the same person, viz: Try-on-for-a-fit (2). These self-selected glasses were not always satisfactory, and in many instances the individual found himself unable to obtain any that gave him relief.

This was due to the fact that there existed in the eye a defect known as astigmatism, which required a special ground glass. Another cause of dissatisfaction with the stock glasses was that they failed to give relief when the associated eyes were different, and most everyone is aware that this condition is quite common.

These conditions served to bring the eye specialist into existence. Professional service being demanded as to what they should have, the art of reading glasses, as few then wore glasses constantly on the street. It is comparatively recent years that the involuntary action of the muscles of accommodation and their importance was recognized.

The dealer in glasses are apparently still ignorant of the existence of these muscles and have them advanced far beyond the vendor or dealer in spectacles, when they still depend upon the patient to select his or her glasses.

If the eye could be dismembered, like the optical instruments of construction, and the various parts of its refracting system separately considered, the art of prescribing for its imperfections would no longer be a difficult one. This is impossible as the eye possesses that wonderful adjusting and compensating power known as the accommodation, which acts involuntarily and hides more or less the errors, the art of estimating accurately and correctly visual defects is truly a delicate

You may have an almost constant aching pain in the back of the head or neck, or an extremely disagreeable feeling of fullness in the front or back part of the head, which in some cases gets so bad that you feel almost as if your head would burst; you may be spots of local tenderness on the spine, pains across the back, heart palpitation, great weakness from slight physical or mental exertion, or sleeplessness at night; and the patient often complains that his thoughts chase one another through his head with lightning-like rapidity.

Physician formerly connected with New York City Hospital says thousands of persons suffer from depleted nerve force and iron starvation of the blood without ever suspecting the real cause of their trouble, and that often their health, lives and success are completely undermined and wrecked before they find out what is the matter with them. On account of their multitude of symptoms they frequently think they are suffering from heart or kidney trouble or some other serious organic disease. In such cases it is often worse than foolish to take mere stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs. What you need is something to put more nerve force into your nerves and more iron into your blood.

This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product quickly enriches the blood and thereby helps it to furnish an additional supply of new nerve force with which to revitalize and regenerate the nerve and brain cells. It also contains a product which represents the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form most allied to that in the nerve and brain cells of man. Nuxated Iron may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food as it furnishes strengthening organic iron to the blood and the most important element of the neuro-vital fluid to the nerves.
