FOR SALE—Some fine young chickens, suitable for Thanksgiving. 309 20th street north. LEGAL ADVERTISING ALIAS SUMMON In the District of the State of Montana, in and for the County of Cascade. Said Frank, plaintiff, vs. John Frank, defendant. The State of Montana sends greetings to the above named defendants, and to each of them: You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action which is filed in the office of the clerk of this court, a copy of which is herewith furnished to you, and to file your answer and serve a copy thereof upon the plaintiff, at or before the time herein set for the trial of this cause, to-wit: on the 21st day of September, 1921, at the court house in the city of Great Falls, Montana. If you fail to answer and appear at the trial of this cause, judgment will be taken against you, by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint, and you shall be held to answer for the same. This action is brought for the purpose of securing a decree of divorce, dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between you and the above named plaintiff, upon the grounds of extreme cruelty. In this: Mrs. Hathaway declared that examination of statistics of England, Scotland, Ireland and different countries of Europe show that as education increases, poverty and crime decrease. "If we could cure the cause of poverty in the home we would not have the problem of needy children," she continued. "As school people, it is our responsibility to help solve this problem. It is our duty to provide adequate schooling for all our children, not a favored few, and make it possible for them to take advantage of it. Must Not Leave School "Surely it is a travesty on democracy that a democratic school system should be built up only for those who can afford it, that a country school should allow the majority of its children to leave school with the mere rudiments of an education, handicapped at the start by the ignorance of their parents and the poverty of their environment." She stated that schools are awakening to the need of health instruction. For good health is essential that children have the right sort of food. But it does not go to tell a child that he must drink milk if there isn't any milk available for him, she pointed out. "Money is wasted in trying to school under-nourished children. Since we have not stopped pauperism in our country we should follow the lead of England, which in 1908 passed the Children's act, which provided for a day feeding school," the speaker asserted. "I suggest that as a nation, if we do away with the expense and burden of war, that the United States can and should be the big unit for school revenue. At the present time 93 cents out of each dollar of national revenue goes for the support of the military. It is spent for educational purposes. Eliminate war and divert the billions thus spent into educational channels and our children will be amply provided for and we will be raising up our children, who will be leaders in the world, a credit to our nation. "Educate the pauper out of existence. Give every child his chance.

"If we could cure the cause of poverty in the home we would not have the problem of needy children," she continued. "As school people, it is our responsibility to help solve this problem. It is our duty to provide adequate schooling for all our children, not a favored few, and make it possible for them to take advantage of it. Must Not Leave School "Surely it is a travesty on democracy that a democratic school system should be built up only for those who can afford it, that a country school should allow the majority of its children to leave school with the mere rudiments of an education, handicapped at the start by the ignorance of their parents and the poverty of their environment." She stated that schools are awakening to the need of health instruction. For good health is essential that children have the right sort of food. But it does not go to tell a child that he must drink milk if there isn't any milk available for him, she pointed out. "Money is wasted in trying to school under-nourished children. Since we have not stopped pauperism in our country we should follow the lead of England, which in 1908 passed the Children's act, which provided for a day feeding school," the speaker asserted. "I suggest that as a nation, if we do away with the expense and burden of war, that the United States can and should be the big unit for school revenue. At the present time 93 cents out of each dollar of national revenue goes for the support of the military. It is spent for educational purposes. Eliminate war and divert the billions thus spent into educational channels and our children will be amply provided for and we will be raising up our children, who will be leaders in the world, a credit to our nation. "Educate the pauper out of existence. Give every child his chance.

In this: Mrs. Hathaway declared that examination of statistics of England, Scotland, Ireland and different countries of Europe show that as education increases, poverty and crime decrease. "If we could cure the cause of poverty in the home we would not have the problem of needy children," she continued. "As school people, it is our responsibility to help solve this problem. GUARD HEALTH OF STUDENTS, SAYS SPEAKER

Mrs. Hathaway Declares It Is Duty to Provide for Physical Welfare. Mrs. Maggie Smith Hathaway, representative in the state legislature from Ravalli county, emphasized the need of care by school authorities of children's health in an address before a joint meeting of the city and rural trustees at the senior high school Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hathaway pointed out that many children are handicapped by defects, trained, protected and made a duty that their physical welfare be provided for as to provide books. She quoted Judge Lindsay as saying that many criminals become such because of neglect by their communities in which they lived while children. The trustees have the responsibility of keeping the children in school and the schools equipped for practical instruction, she said. Mrs. Hathaway was formerly a school teacher and has served as county superintendent, she has been a tax payer for many years, which gives her a broad viewpoint on the scholastic situation. Her central theme was "The Responsibility of the School to the Needy Child."

"I am intensely interested in the welfare of children who are ours to be guided, trained, protected and made into citizens of whom the world will be proud. What the future brings will depend more upon how well all the children of all the people are schooled and educated than it will upon any other thing that can possibly have any bearing upon it," she said. Must Have Equal Opportunities She pointed out the necessity of providing equal opportunity to every child in the country, not only for the child itself but for the preservation of national ideals and for the salvation of the world from the chaos which still threatens. Democracy is hopelessly floundering in many countries because of illiteracy, she said. "The United States as a nation is ninth in illiteracy and our children leave school at the end of the sixth grade and a large number average less than that," she asserted. "The statistics show that we have that approximately 1,200,000 children in the United States between the ages of 14 and 15 years of age have been rescued from the streets and placed in employment. This is a country school that has saved the lives of more than half of the total number of children of that age in the country. The states heaviest in illiteracy are the states heaviest in paupers and criminals," she said. Mrs. Hathaway declared that examination of statistics of England, Scotland, Ireland and different countries of Europe show that as education increases, poverty and crime decrease. "If we could cure the cause of poverty in the home we would not have the problem of needy children," she continued. "As school people, it is our responsibility to help solve this problem.
