

LONG DISTANCE MOTORISTS LEAD THIS WEEK END

Number of Automobiles at Camp Fewer on Saturday
as Usual.

AT THE CAMP
Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jones and their daughter, Wilma, of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, enroute to Los Angeles, where they will visit until September first, when they will return home also, by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dawson of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, on their way to Los Angeles, where they will remain until September when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ledsham of Chicago, on their way to Calgary, where they will visit until fall when they will return to Chicago.

Misdirected Package of Eggs Starts Boys in Pheasant Raising

"How far that little candle throws its beam," quoth Portia of Shakespearean renown. But the little candle had nothing on the little news story of the present generation. According to a recent newspaper story, a flock of little Chinese pheasants of the wild variety were hatched into the world in the midst of domesticity and by the patience of a common barnyard biddy of the neighborhood of Harlem. The unusual was sufficiently strong in this little episode to cause the owners to tell the world. First, we heard of the little pheasants and a few weeks later were called upon to mourn their death in a flood.

"It's all very well for Harlem to talk about its pheasants, but now that it's had two stories, it's about time we put Stanford on the map as a pheasant producing community," said Donald Myrick, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Myrick. So the following little anecdote sifts into The Tribune:

Even the best of us sometimes make mistakes, and Uncle Sam is no exception. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

Donald Myrick and Rollin Galt got their first and were given 15 eggs each. It was through an error in his postoffice department that a shipment of pheasant eggs destined for another part of the globe, landed in Stanford. Eggs out that they would be given to anyone who applied.

LAWYERS VOTE ON PLACE FOR STATE MEETING

Assistant Attorney General of
United States Expected
Here.

Election of the 1922 meeting place of the Montana State Bar association is now under way, according to ballots received by Great Falls members of the association from Burton R. Cole of Lewistown, secretary.

The program for the session is also announced with the call of the convention. The program as outlined in the secretary's letter to members reads:

Miss Willebrandt to Come
"Miss Mabel Walker Willebrandt, an assistant attorney general of the United States of Washington, D. C., will be present and address us. Miss Willebrandt is one of the most distinguished of the women members of our profession. W. M. Johnston of Billings and Nils Haugen of Helena will speak on phases of the taxation question. Mr. Johnston's qualifications to discuss this subject are well known, while Mr. Haugen, who is in the employ of the state of Montana as its tax expert, is a man of national wide reputation, having served the state of Wisconsin in a similar capacity. John T. Smith of California, formerly of Livingston, Dean Leaphart of the University of Montana law school, H. H. Parsons of Missoula, and Senator Walsh, if he is able to leave Washington at that time, will all appear on the program.

"C. A. Severance, president of the American Bar association, has signified his intention of accepting our invitation to deliver an address if he can arrange to be present, and Chief Justice Brandt will address us informally if the condition of his health permits. We are thus assured of an unusually strong program.

"The executive committee does not wish to assume the sole responsibility of selecting the meeting place, and are therefore asking that the members signify their wishes as to the place of holding the sessions. Sentiment seems to favor Hunter's Hot Springs. An auto trip to Hunter's or to any one of a number of our mountain resorts is a treat in itself."

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

STORM POSTPONES PROGRAM OF KDYS

Johnny Opray to Sing Monday
Night; Monday and Thursday
Visitors' Day.

After three days of silence, KDYS, The Tribune's radio broadcasting station, has resumed operation and the operator, David H. Bunch, believes that the quality of the music broadcasted in the future will be even better than in the past. While repairing the damaged parts of the set, several improvements were made in the equipment.

The program that was to have been broadcasted Saturday night was postponed until Monday night, July 17, because of the severe electrical storm. Johnny Opray, tenor, will sing, accompanied on the piano by Miss Marvina Connor.

A special program will be broadcasted at midnight tonight, continuing for one hour, by special request for a party in Seattle. Among the members of the party will be the family of Bunch, the KDYS operator.

To accommodate the many persons desirous of seeing The Tribune's broadcasting station in operation, Monday and Tuesday evenings have been designated by the operator as "visiting nights." Visitors are welcome from 8 until 9 o'clock. Children must be accompanied by their parents or other older persons, he said.

BERLIN MAKES BID FOR PARIS' PLACE ON FASHION THRONE

Germany Turning Attention to Designing Clothes Since
War Closed.

Berlin.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Berlin is out to contest Paris' claim to the throne as queen of fashions.

The arrival of American buyers for advanced autumn sales is stimulating the agitation among fashion designers of Berlin who are redoubting their efforts to regain for the German capital her pre-war rank among the centers of the world's fashion.

The revival effort by Germany for remnants is evidenced in men's wear as well as women's.

Germany manufactured a total of 10,000,000 field guns, rifles and pistols during the war, according to statistics just made public, besides hundreds of millions of tons of munitions. Enough barbed wire alone was produced to encircle Germany with a barricade 62 meters deep.

The year 1917 seems to have seen the high water mark in the volume of war supplies turned out. New hand grenades appeared during the winter of 1916-17 at the rate of 9,000,000 monthly.

In 1917, also, there were produced 2,340,000 shells, 110,000,000 pieces of ammunition for close action, more than 100,000,000 kilograms of powder and more than 325,000,000 kilograms of other explosives. At the same time, 4,300 trench mortars were manufactured monthly, and during the same year 1,000,000 illuminating bombs and 193,600,000 signal cartridges were delivered.

Five months after the beginning of hostilities in 1914, the war began to turn out daily, and later this figure was increased to 250,000 monthly. Machine guns were delivered at the rate of 2,300 monthly in the middle of 1916, at the rate of 7,000 in the spring of 1917 and at the rate of 12,000 in the fall of 1917.

Heavy artillery numbered 1,640 batteries in 1918. For light artillery the monthly production of guns was 1,500 in 1916, 2,000 in 1917, and later the production was raised to 3,000 monthly.

Twenty million sand bags a month were required during the war, and approximately 500,000 steel helmets and gas masks were manufactured every month.

The army printed 1,800,000,000 maps during the war.

In the summer of 1918, owing to the shortage of rubber and other materials, the Germans had barely 40,000 automobiles on all fronts, while the entente, according to best statistics, were using 200,000 on the western front alone.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease. The defendant had 10 witnesses to testify that she was not a woman who would make such a charge and that her character was beyond reproach. In dismissing the case, Police Magistrate Sheppard advised both women to forget their differences.

Mrs. Victoria Skrzypek, a resident of the west side, was taken Saturday by the police to Columbus hospital suffering from injuries alleged to have been sustained in an encounter with another woman. Witnesses to the altercation told the police that the injured woman started the fight by pursuing the other woman and threatening to club her with a broom stick.

During the alleged fight, Mrs. Skrzypek's opponent is said to have wrested away the broom stick and used it with effect. The other woman was not arrested. Mrs. Skrzypek was held at the police station for investigation and then taken to Columbus hospital.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

SAY THREATS USED ON MEN IN G. N. SHOPS

Fear Violence, Avar Men Not Involved in Strike as They Quit Jobs.

Car repair work in the Great Northern shops here will virtually be at a stand still following the proposed walk-out Monday morning of the remaining laborers and stationary firemen in the shops and round house, officials announced Saturday.

No officers are employed here, officials said. The announcement made Saturday by the eight supervisory foremen employed in the shops to do no voluntary work other than their supervisory work will serve further to lessen the activity in the shops, it was said. Without men to direct, the services of the foremen to the railroad will be negligible under such conditions.

It was reported in railroad circles Saturday that moral pressure had been brought to bear by strikers to prevent laborers employed in the shops and not involved in the general strike from working Saturday. Some of the men were threatened with physical violence unless they quit their jobs, they reported to Great Northern officials. A few of those who braved the alleged threats and worked Saturday served notice that they would not return to their jobs Monday.

Improving on Babylon.
Knowing that we are not like Ancient Babylon—forty-two young men of this city, Montgomery, Ala.—have set out to cure the flapper! After a solemn symposium the following resolution has been adopted:

We, the young unmarried men of Montgomery, in an assembled meeting do hereby solemnly declare that:

Whereas, there has arisen a modern fad among young women of wearing their galooshes unbuttoned and rolling their stockings downward to a point of impropriety, bobbing their hair given them, and smoking cigarettes, all of which, in our opinion, are slovenly and unnecessary.

Now, therefore, be it resolved: That we hereby agree not to escort any young woman to any place, picture show, party, dance, or reception who practises these useless and non-sensical fads.

By way of explanation this statement is issued. The young men of Montgomery are not prudish or saints, but they have a better notion of propriety than did the young men of Ancient Babylon.

Yours truly,
The Unmarried Men's Club,
Montgomery, Alabama.

Police Magistrate H. A. Sheppard Saturday dismissed the complaint of Mrs. John Ireland, 810 Ninth street north, charging Mrs. Edna Bloomfield, 811 Eighth avenue north, with disorderly conduct in defaming the character of the complainant's son, age 15 years. The court ruled that evidence introduced in police court was not sufficient to sustain the charge.

Mrs. Ireland, with three witnesses to corroborate her testimony, said that Mrs. Bloomfield had made a statement that her son was afflicted with a social disease