Social Circles

A BRILLIANT EVENT

The Golf Ball at the West Hotel Last Evening.

HOSSESSES OUTDID THEMSELVES

Originality Displayed Throughout all the Arrangements—Lavish Decorations.

The hostesses of the Assembly hall sought to outdo themselves in their annual holiday ball and the result was a season proved a brilliant social function worthy of the passing of a century. The ball last night at the West Hotel was a gala event, but it was not a repetition of the ball of the year before, as only the spirit and color scheme remained. Those, however, provided the nucleus for a unique and successful function.

Originality is now demanded of all who hope for distinct social successes and this was exhibited lavishly at the assembly. It was a social occasion in which every element contributed to the beauty and joyous spirit that pervaded the gathering. Youth and beauty through the halls and ballroom, and the costumes accentuated these joyous qualities. The women were gowned in shimmering white with touches of red and the men varied the conventional black with gay golf coats or waistcoats.

The guests were received in an informal way by the officers of the assembly, Mrs. Martin B. Koon, Rufus R. Rand, Frank and Effie, and Frank Semple, each of whom was surrounded by a group of friends. The reception occupied the hour from 9 to 10 and then the hostesses joined the throng in the ballroom. The appointments were all devised with the idea of giving an out-of-door effect, a garden scene. The golf colors and holiday colors happily coincided and both ideas were reflected in the decorations. The lights were all shaded with soft red, the shades of the large globes ending in enormous poinsettias. The arrangement of the assembly was seen only on large golden shields, the dragon and dragon in red. The halls, corridors and reception-room were bowers of smilax, among which poinsettias blossoms and here and there a red rose were scattered. The ballroom, palms towered almost to the ceiling and showed bunches of fruit partially hidden in the foliage. From Florida especially for the occasion, smilax was used profusely against the rich, dark walls of the room, and the orchestra was seen beyond an arched wall of smilax, the palms and red roses entwined with poinsettias added to the out-of-doors illusion. A similar arcade of smilax at the other end of the ballroom was used in the same manner.

Dan's full orchestra furnished the program of waltzes and two-steps, which continued till 12 o'clock, when most of the lights were turned out, leaving only the soft lighting of the chandeliers to the room. "The New Century," Judge Koon making the speech for the occasion.

Supper was served in the ordinary, while the orchestra played the waltzes and two-steps. The scene that greeted the guests as they entered the room was one of rare loveliness, representing a woodland spot in which they were to be served with a picnic. The trees were all hidden behind a thick carpet of red and smilax drooping from the ceiling. Poinsettias glowed amid the green. On each of the walls small tables were arranged and were bedded in masses of green and red. Japanese lanterns in varied shapes and colors hung low and gave a soft light.

On the return to the ballroom, a band was found transformed in the center of the room was a tall Christmas tree laden with toys and gay trimmings and from the ceiling hung red and green balloons in groups of twenty. The tree had been arranged by Mrs. F. T. Hefflinger and was led by Mr. Hefflinger and Cavour Langdon. The 100 dancers were arranged in eight circles and circles of children's favors and suggestions of childish sports brought back to memory the Christmas joys of a younger period. Golf figures and a Santa Claus distributed the gifts from the tree. Willis Williams as the Old Year entered during the merriment, drawing Henry Eustis as the New Year, a sleigh, and a sleigh driver. The sleigh was decorated with green painted with the assembly hall by Miss Pauline Kruger. The favors included, besides the toys, marquis sticks tipped with red and silver, and the ten figures were not completed until 4 o'clock.

The marriage of Miss Ednah Jane Dobbin and August C. Hahn of St. Cloud was solemnized at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the midst of most charming appointments at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dobbins on Second avenue S. Hopes of cedar made a pretty canopy for the bride and groom and the parlor and hall were festooned with the fragrant green. Flowers of the room were of a brighter color. The dining-room was in red with roses and asparagus ferns for a centerpiece. About fifty relatives and friends gathered to witness the ceremony, which was officiated by Rev. Marlon D. Shuter. Miss Grace Ulmer sang a "Madrigal" just before the bride entered and Miss Edith Marsh played the "Lohengrin" march as the procession. The bride and groom were accompanied by Miss Edna Hills who was flower girl in a frock of white organdy and she carried a basket of pink rose petals. The bride wore a pretty gown of blue tulle and white lace. The groom wore a tuxedo and he carried a basket of pink roses. The bride wore a pretty gown of blue tulle and white lace. The groom wore a tuxedo and he carried a basket of pink roses.

The Young Ladies' Bible class of the First Baptist church gave a pretty New Year's reception this afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. K. Gray on Spruce place. The older people, men and women, were received there by Mrs. Gray and garlands of evergreens were effectively arranged through the rooms, the deeper green relieved with branches of bright-berried holly. The dining-room was decorated with white and red. A cluster of poinsettias blossoms was placed on a handsome Battenberg centerpiece in the center of the polished table. The lights were shaded in red. A delightful musical program was given by Misses C. E. Bergren, H. S. MacRae, R. M. Laird, Misses Myrman Page, Ethelny Cady and Misses Crosby, Hoppa, Freda Miller and Ray Posenby. The program was received by Mrs. Gray and the class officers, Misses Harriet Wales, Annabelle White and Jane A. Squyer. Assisting through the rooms were Misses Edna Hagan, Mabel Wyman, Ellen Lamoreaux, Ethelny Miller, Imogene Rockwood, Leah Stewart, Agnes Vadnais, Effie Peterson, Young, Barbara, Holman, Howell, Grace Howes, Louise Zabel, Mahan, Clara Noble, Mrs. W. In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen.

Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organism is less strong than men's, they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract those distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhoea, general debility, and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following letters prove this. They also prove the value of Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I take pleasure in writing you a few lines thanking you for your advice. I did just as you told me in taking your medicine, and owe my life to you. You are like a mother to your sex. I was awfully sick, was all run down and felt sick all over. I looked like a person brought out of the grave. My face was as white as the driven snow. I was always tired after doing a little work and would have to sit down. I was troubled terribly with headaches and my appetite was all gone; also, troubled with shortness of breath something awful for about a month. I could not go up one flight of stairs without being tired and having to stop to get my breath. I was feeling just as miserable as could be. I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot express my thanks to you for what your medicine has done for me."—MISS M. F., 35 Devon St., Grove Hall, Roxbury, Boston, Mass.

"I Can Work Every Day in the Week Now."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I write this letter for you to publish for the benefit of poor suffering women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a great deal of good. I have taken three bottles and feel like a new woman. When I began the use of your medicine I was hardly able to be up; could not do half a day's work. I ached from head to foot, was almost crazy, had those bearing-down pains, and stomach was out of order. Now all of these troubles have left me and I can work every day in the week and not feel tired."—MRS. JENNIE FREEMAN, 402 Pennsylvania Ave., Lima, Ohio.

BELGIAN HARES

By Parker Quincy Adams.

Copyright, 1900.

The growth of the Belgian hare industry throughout the United States brings the cook face to face with the problem of preparing this favorite for public favor at the table. This hare has not yet reached the markets of the east in any quantity, but in the west it is a reliable food product. Speaking generally, the rules for cooking the ordinary hare or rabbit will apply to the preparation of the Belgian, the great difference being in the size and meanness of the animals. As in cooking game, it is well to first parboil old animals before beginning to cook them in a stew or otherwise. If there is a flavor that is objectionable, add a few sliced potatoes or onions to the water used in parboiling.

Stewed Belgian Hare—This is the simplest form of a stew, but it will be found excellent. Cut one hare into small joints, put them into a steppan and add two large onions sliced, six cloves and a small teaspoonful of chopped lemon peel. Pour in sufficient water to cover the meat, and when the hare is nearly done drop in a few forcemeat balls, to which the liver has been added, finely chopped. Thicken the gravy with flour and butter, add a large tablespoonful of mushroom catsup, give one boil and serve.

The Belgian hare is also well suited to making pies, and the recipes given for rabbit pies or chicken pies may be followed with good results.

Brown Mutton Stew—This is one of the best of stews, and very fat mutton is used in many sections the Irish stew has almost altogether supplanted it, yet lacking much of its merit. The breast or shoulder of mutton is generally used for this stew. Put the meat with a lump of butter in a pan, and roast to a nice brown in the oven. Transfer to a saucepan, cover with stock and let it simmer half an hour, add a carrot or nice sweet turnip into regular shaped pieces, and let them boil with the mutton. Also prepare a few small onions, pared and put in the same shape as the other vegetables. Season with salt and pepper and a little brown color. If the sauce is too thin, thicken with a little flour. If the lightest or the steepest goodness. To-morrow Mary J. Lincoln tells how to use turkey giblets.

STRIKERS GAIN

Terms of Settlement on the Scranton Street Railway.

New York Sun Special Service

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 1.—The terms of the settlement of the strike of the employees of the Scranton Railway company are: The men are to receive for the first six months 14 cents an hour; for the second six months 15 cents; for the second year, 16 cents; for the third year, 17 1/2 cents; for the fourth year, 18 1/2 cents, and for the fifth year 19 cents.

These figures are 1 cent less on each item than the strikers demanded. The terms represent an increase of 1 1/2 cents for the former wages of men employed less than a year; 2 cents on second year men; 2 1/2 cents on third year men; and 2 1/2 cents on fourth year men.

Extra time is to be paid for at the same rate, and all time is computed from the time the car leaves the barn until it is returned. The strikers get a ten-hour straight day. The new arrangement will require sixty new men. The wages of barn men and machinists will be regulated by Master Mechanic Mullen, according to their abilities, but all will receive increases. All the old men are to be taken back.

California via the "Sun Shine Route" (C. M. & St. P. Ry.)

Every Wednesday a fine Pullman tourist sleeper leaves Twin Cities (St. Paul, 6:15 a. m.; Minneapolis, 8:05 a. m.) via C. M. & St. P. railway, and runs through to Los Angeles, arriving there every Sunday morning.

Price of double berth in this car, $6. Before making your arrangements for California get particulars as to "Sun Shine Route."

Hundreds of northwestern people patronize this popular service every season—it traverses one of the most interesting portions of America.

For comfort and ease it is not surpassed. Cheapest rates are obtainable via this route.
