Found a Pot of Silver.

Three boys were recently digging a foundation for a camping place in an old marsh near the city of Minneapolis. They had got down a couple of feet one of the boys struck something hard, and pulling it out, found it was an old pot containing silver in silver coins. The coins ranged in date from 1717 to 1838, and almost every nationality and period between those dates were represented. Their genuineness could not be questioned. For like "Golden Grain Belt" beer, they bore the true stamp of age. This beer is aged by time, not artificially. It is brewed from the purest barley malt and hops, and its strengthening and delicious. Your home is not complete without a case of this beer. Telephone "The Brewery," 486 Main.
