

"Imperialism," but it could not be sneered away.

Imperialism.

You can have imperialism without an emperor, just as the Romans found that they could have a more than royal master though he did not wear the hated name of king.

The retention of the Philippines will commit us to the whole program of empire. There is a law among nations, as Haman says there is among men, that the seeds of empire grow by what it feeds on. No nation in history has resisted it, and to every nation that has yielded to it, it has brought disaster.

It will work the destruction of England, in my opinion, ere the close of this fateful century. Are we, with all the lessons of history before us, to prove the next victim of this insatiable passion, the greatest, most lamentable, most gratuitous sacrifice in all human history?

I do not wish to convey the impression that in my opinion the present policy will at one fell swoop convert this republic into an empire in fact. But I do say that the seeds of empire lurk in this policy, and that time and a favoring environment will and must bring them to their flower and fruit unless we make a seasonable and effective check.

God speed the day when American people, whose annals blaze with records of unequalled heroism and who again and always in some great crisis have shown the world the way to life itself, the price of its defense, shall have the moral courage to do their civic duty—a rarer thing than to face unnumbered the cannon and the sword.

I shall not willingly cease to dream of a twentieth century devoted to the demonstration, the first and only one, that what is "a government of the people, for the people and by the people, need not perish from the earth."

ALLEN'S VALEDICTORY

His Tribute to the Departing Members of Congress.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Private John Allen of Mississippi feels that the public does not realize the loss that it sustains in the retirement of W. E. Chandler, Thomas H. Carter, himself and several other gentlemen from congress.

He said there was an old colored preacher down at Tupelo, Miss., where he lives, who was called to preach a funeral sermon for another member of his race who did not have a very high reputation in the community.

KILL ALL THE MINISTERS

SANCTIONED BY THE EMPRESS

But the German Minister Sacrificed His Life and the Rest Were Saved.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 28.—A letter from Miss Mary Conger Pierce, niece of the late German minister, who was with the Cong family during the siege, written just after the first mail from the United States was received, tells of the conspiracy to murder all the foreign ministers and of the looting now going on. The "Uncle Ed" referred to is the minister. In part, the letter says:

It is really comical to see our pictures and read our obituaries. We are always spoken of in the past tense and how surprised people must have been to find us still on earth.

The imperial family fled for their lives and the now going through something of the ordeal we went through.

A secretary of the young emperor told Uncle Ed that the 20th of June, when the foreign ministers had expected to go to the yamen, the German minister sacrificed his life for all, and then the yamen were not safe for the ministers to leave their legations.

WASH. NEWS POST

and when the senate finally comes to "get under," no doubt many meritorious measures will be found to have failed, quickly cured by taking Duffy's Malt Whiskey. A teaspoonful in a glass of water three times a day.

But should the bill fail at this session, its friends will renew the fight in the fifty-seventh congress next winter, and at that time, without doubt, come off victors. They will regard the work done in the present congress as preliminary and very valuable, and the foundation they think they can speedily build to success.

In connection with the Groat bill there is a strong feeling of interest in Minnesota. A short time ago the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce had the bill up for consideration, and invited some economic expert from Chicago to appear before the committee. Why he thought the bill should be defeated. As the result of this appearance the chamber was about to pass resolutions addressed to congress against the bill. Word of what was about to happen was spread over the state by the dairy people and letters and protests began to be written.

The St. Paul Chamber of Commerce embraces in its membership some of the leading business men of that city, and in the country districts of the state is regarded as standing for the business and commercial interests of the city in its entirety. Threats were in some of the letters and protests that if the chamber passed resolutions against the bill a boycott would be organized against the St. Paul jobbers. Many of these letters were written by country merchants, who, for years, had been customers of St. Paul, and they were very angry.

The result was magical. The Chamber of Commerce, in its entirety, and no more was heard of the resolutions. Recently a report was published in The Journal that probably it was the intention of the senate to take up the credentials of W. E. Clark of Montana, when presented by that gentleman on the 4th of March. If there is any such intention, no word of it has yet been heard of here.

A careful canvass has been made among republicans in the senate, with a view of finding out whether such a step is to be taken, and the answer has been that the subject was entirely new.

For instance, Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, who is on confidential terms with the leading members of the senate, tells me frankly that he does not believe any member is thinking of trying to make trouble for Clark. Senator Chandler, the one man who would be most likely to do this, has been out of the way, and it is predicted by several well-known members that there is nobody who will care to take up the Chandler quarrel.

The illness of former Senator Gilbert A. Pierce in Chicago was learned of with a good deal of regret by the Indiana delegation in congress, whom Mr. Pierce personally knew. It may be generally known, but it is true that the former North Dakota gentleman is a member of the celebrated and powerful Indiana colony, which has been in the northwest since the power in political affairs.

Mr. Pierce as a young man was editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean, and was associated with Pierce on the Journal, and when Nixon went to Chicago he took Pierce with him. During his editorial career in Chicago Mr. Pierce took strong ground in favor of the nomination of Chester A. Arthur to succeed himself as president, and for this kindness Arthur appointed him to a federal position in North Dakota. Mr. Pierce's subsequent career is well known in the northwest.

R. G. Evans is a member of the famous Indiana colony, to which reference is here made, and so are Eugene G. Hay, Joel P. Sealwell and Mark A. Clapp, a well known name in Minnesota by the way of Wisconsin.

DOUBTLESS You

Frequently Get

Into Discussions.....

WITH your friends on general subjects of interest. You read the daily papers and keep yourself pretty well informed. Really you cannot afford, with your opportunities for advancement in life, not to have The Journal's Home Study Library in 15 volumes, and The New National Dictionary, Encyclopedia and Atlas in 18 volumes, for it is impossible for one man to know and remember everything. But with this Library what you do not know you can find out, and in a short time make yourself thoroughly familiar in which you may take an interest, and you can readily see what an advantage it would be to you.

Besides, there is your boy. Pay him 10c per day to look up the answer to a question which you will give him each day, the answer to which will be found in this Library, telling him that if he will put it in the savings bank to pay for the Library, it shall be his. He will gladly do it, and the knowledge HE will gain, to say nothing of the benefit that knowledge will be to YOU, if you should never refer to it after it is paid for, would benefit him in his future life far more than the amount he paid, and eh will form the habit of using his money for good purposes and to answer all his questions and will continue to do so through his whole life.

No family can afford to be without The Journal's Home Educational Library in 33 volumes. It answers all questions on all subjects. The price will again shortly be raised. ACT IMMEDIATELY. Cut out the attached coupon for book of specimen illustrations and prices and terms.
