THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ACTIVE - It is Preparing to Prosecute Saloonkeepers Who Do Not Cash In on the Dot.

Nearly 300 saloonkeepers in Minneapolis are open to conviction for selling liquor without a license. This is due to the irregular practice of the city council of allowing saloonkeepers to take their time about making application for new licenses and securing action on the same.

Then there is a grand rush to the city treasurer's office, where the explanation is made that for various reasons the application has been unable to get his application in, but that there would be no further delay and if the time limit could be extended three weeks, the term which would allow the committee to act on the application, the license money would be forthcoming.

As evidence of good faith, and in order that they may be allowed to continue business at the old stand, the saloonkeepers always bring down the $1,000 license money and deposit it with the treasurer for security.
