From the time the alarm was turned in, it took two whole minutes for the men to come down from their quarters, put on their helmets and belts, get out their horses and be ready to leave the I ventured to tell Major Fox of some records I had seen made in Minne-apolis, and while he politely refrained from saying so, he looked as if he didn't believe a word of it. He tried his men again, after our talk, and it took them just thirty seconds to get the wagons ready to start, but this time they were standing behind the wagon in full uniform. "They have no automatic door openers, none of our time-saving devices in fire harness construction, and in fact everything is slow, clumsy and awkward. The horses are the finest I ever saw, however, and the uniforms of the men are magnificent. The department buildings are very fine, having sitting rooms, kitchens, two ped rooms and store rooms for each man and his wife. These houses are also mod-ern and very comfortable."

He is unable to tell much more about it, except that his American coat wasn't in it anywhere.

NO PROTECTION

Internal Revenue Tax .Is Not a License.

The following ruling which has just been made by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes on a case in Kentucky where local option prevails applies as well to "blind pigs" here or elsewhere: The United States does not issue licenses to liquor dealers in any state. Every per-son who engages in the sale of alcoholic liquors anywhere in the United States is required to pay special tax under the in ernal revenue laws of the United States and there is no warrant of law for omitting the collection of this special tax from persons who engage in such sales in any state where local option laws prevail. Between Twin Cities.

Days-His Collection of Seals.

"Kid" West, the globe walker, intends wast, the globe walker, intends to give the twin city folk just a sample of what he is able to do in the way of walking. Among the feats he records are such little things as a walk around the world—that is whereever he could find land to walk on—a walk from New York to San Francisco and walks on—a walk around the world—that is whereever he could find land to walk on—a walk from New York to San Francisco and walks. ton was glad to escape the oppressiveness to all so whereever he could walk from New York to San walk on—a walk from New York to San walk on—a walk from New York to San walk on—a walk from New York to San place to all sorts of other places, the distance between which offered some chance to show his powers. After hearing him degrees to show his powers. to show his powers. After hearing him describe such "turns," it seems very natural to speak of his proposed exhibition in the twin cities as only a sample. It will be on April 27 and will be from the West hotel to the Ryan in St. Paul, a distance of ten miles, which he says he will cover in less than 90 minutes. He says he will make a record for the says he will make a record for the walk that no one will have the hardihood to attempt to bear in the near future.

May 1 West will start on a somewhat longer stroll from St. Paul to Buffalo 1,250 miles, which he thinks he will be able to cover in thirty days at the mos Collection of Seals.

West has all sorts of trophies, picked up in his wanderings over the face of the earth. Perhaps the most interesting things he carries are his "check books." These are not bank check books but books to show that he has visted the points along the routes of the different walks he has undertaken. In order that there might be no question about the authenticity of the signatures in these books, West in each case has had some city, county or state official certify to his having called, affixing his seal to his sertificate. As a result West has doubtless the best collection of seals in the country. Among these is the great seal of California together with the certificate of the governor attesting that he scalled a Secretary ttesting that he called at Sacramento.

A Transcontinental Stroll. West made his walk across the continent on a $5,000 wager for a purse of $500. The wager was made quite by accident, and grew out of the question of a friend as to the time it would take him to accomplish such a trip. Knowing the distance he estimated the time as 135 days. His friend offered to bet him he could not do. Mr. Walton found his countrymen just as confident as ever that the Boer war would be speedily terminated. He said it was quite common for wagers to be laid that De Wet would be captured before morning, notwithstanding a great one fore morning, notwithstanding a great the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without there had been admitted to the schools up the save he was without the save he was without the schools up the save he was without the save he was without the schools up the save he was without the save he was without the schools up the school was the save he was without the schools up the save he was without the school and the school was the save he was without the school was the save he was without the school was the school was the save he was without the school was the save he was without the school was the scho many mornings have elapsed since the opening of hostilities without his having been captured once.

DICKINSON RAISED IT Point Involved in the Oleomargarin

Case.

A gentleman who has been connected with the state dairy and food inspection department tells The Journal that Judge Danforth Dickinson is entitled to the credit for raising the point, in the first instance, on which the supreme court of the United States sent back the Brundage oleomargarin case for further consideration, by the state courts. Mr Dickinson was assistant city attorney when the prosecution of Brundage was commenced, and argued the case before Judge Lochren when the matter was car ried into the federal court. Mr. Dickin-son then set up the claim that recourse to the state courts should be exhausted before the matter was taken into the federal court. Judge Lochren sustained the appeal of the federal court on the ground that the state law was such an inter-ference with interstate commerce that the matter ought to be determined promptly by the federal courts so as not to interfere with trade which might claim the protection of the federal courts un-der the laws of interstate commerce. The supreme court, however, holds, as already stated, that this matter must first be carried through the state courts and all relief there exhausted before it can properly be taken into the federal courts or ever become a matter for the consideration of the supreme court. This is a point which the attorney general of the urged with such success in his recent hearing in the supreme court.

CLEARED OF SMALLPOX Humboldt, Iowa, Out of Quarantine After a Long Siege.

Special to The Journal. Humboldt, Iowa, March 27. — Smallpox has been entirely stamped out in this county. No new cases have been reported for more than a month. In all there are 150 cases, besides twice as many more shut up in quarantine. Quarantine was every-where rigidly enforced, even when a gun was necessary. One person died of lock-jaw superinduced by vaccination and many more have been sick from the same cause. People feared vaccination more than the smallpox. The epidemic was only moderately contagious and some unfortunates who sought every opportunity to take the disease and thus secure all-winter quarters at public cost, were unable to do so.

Indifferent to the Outcome. The prosecution rested its case vesterday in the Arne kidnapping case, on trial in St. Paul. The small 8-year-old child for whom the parents are battling takes but little interest in the proceedings and spends most of his time in the courtroom soundly sleeping. Judge Kelly's decision is expected soon.

Great Dining Table Sale

TWO MORINS AGO, just after the Holidays, when mid-winter business was at its dullest point, we bought from one of the largest manufacturers in the country of high grade Dining Tables at about 65 cents on the dollar, his entire stock of fine Dining Tables, about 500 all told. Many of the Tables at the time we purchased them were unfinished; the factory has been working on them ever since, and we decided to defer our offering to the public of this exceptional lot of fine Tables until they were all complete. They are now completed, the entire 500, all in bright, fresh, spick-span condition. The designs the sweetest; construction the most thorough; all mounted on heavy patent casters; in fact, just the kind of Tables which are rated by furniture dealers throughout the country as "A-1." If we were to give the name of the manufacturer it would be recognized as that of the foremost manufacturer of fine Dining Tables in the country.

The lot is large, there being about 75 styles. Of the 500 Tables over 400 are in the finer grades, but at this sale they can be purchased at the price of the ordinary commonplace Tables. The prices will run about as follows:

quire It in Schools.

Health Commissioner Hall finds teachers are accustomed to accept vac cination certificates testifying to the fact that the child has been vaccinated, when the law requires that there must be tes-timony to show that the child has been successfully vaccinated, which is quite different. In order that in the future there may be no mistakes on this score, he has prepared two different forms of certificates, one of red color which certifies that the child has been vaccinated the other white, which states that the vaccination has been successful. There is usually an interval of about ten days after the vaccination before the question of its success can be determined.

The boys have been compelled to work twelve hours and have been paid for only ten hours. Complaint is also made in regard to an order recently issued that no changing should be done until the meal hour whistle had sounded. Time "Common Consent" Gets in Its Deadly Work-Railroad Notes. New York, March 27 .- The Tribune says:

The acquisition of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company by Northern Pacific and Great Northern interests is, by common consent, practically an ac-complished fact and close to the stage of formal announcement, a belief greatly strengthened by the course of Burlington and Northern Pacific in the stock market. Various surmises and "tips" were afloat as to the terms on which the control of the Burlington was to be taken over, but they all agree in saying that the Burling-ton stock was to be retired in exchange for 3½ per cent collateral trust bonds, guaranteed by the Northern Pacific, ac-cording to the several reports, at the rate of $187, $200 and even $220 in bonds for $100 in stock.
